The architects, Messrs. Hoppin & Koen, have also endeavored to obtain simplicity of treatment and to design the entire facade of the building which shows on Broadway and 68th st with dignity, simplicity, and with some suggestion of elegance, as is possible to obtain in a small commercial structure of this kind. The floor space of the two stories of the building is to be divided to suit the exigencies of the case, and will be naturally divided or sub-divided on the stories to suit the future rentors. The structure will be ready for occupancy by May 1. John Frank De Baun, of No. 1368 Broadway, Manhattan, and Washington, D. C., is the builder.

LEOPOLD EIDLITZ.

LAST Saturday there passed from the field of architecture one of its most honorable members and perhaps the dean of that profession in the United States, Leopold Eidlitz. It was Mr. Eidlitz's fortune to attain the hearty age of eight-four years, which perhaps seems more noteworthy when it is recalled that he was also destined to outlive much of his work, a most conspicuous example at present being his Brooklyn Academy of Music, which has just been replaced by what one is popularly pleased to call a more modern structure.

Mr. Eidlitz was not of American birth or training, though his sympathies were here. So strong were his convictions on the subject of architectural training that when he had destined his son, Cyrus L. W., to the same profession the father determined that the son should be trained as he was; and accordingly at the tender age of twelve the lad was sent to Europe to follow in his father's scholastic footsteps.

The architects of the generation following his will always remember Leopold Eidlitz as one of the first Gothic architects in America, and as one of their earliest professional mentors, he being also one of the most interesting and instructive talkers on architecture. His book on "The Nature and Function of Art," which appeared in 1881, is still favorably referred to.

Mr. Eidlitz was born in Prague. He was educated at the Vienna Polytechnic, though not with reference to an architectural career, as he was intending to be a land steward, but he fell in love with architecture, as he himself expressed it. He came to this country in the year 1843, and was first a draughtsman in the office of Richard Upjohn. The designs of Trinity Church had already been completed, but there was other work on which he entered. While he was in partnership with Blish, who was a graduate of Munich, they built St. George's in Stuyvesant sq, which marked Eidlitz's architectural debut.

The partnership was soon terminated by death, and afterward Mr. Eidlitz was steadily employed on work of considerable magnitude for those times. He designed the old Produce Exchange, and also buildings for the American Exchange Bank

BUILDING FOR OLD SITE OF THE NEW YORK CLUB

Stands on Ground Which Cost Two Hundred Dollars a Square Foot

Involving an investment of about $4,500,000, the new 11-story building now nearing completion by the Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street Realty Company (Buehm & Coon) must be ranked as one of the largest operations yet undertaken in the Fifth ave section. A noteworthy feature of the project is that it completes the reimprovement of the block on the west sid of Fifth av, from Thirty-fourth to Thirty-fifth st. Messrs. Boehm & Coon began buying the site over two and a half years ago with the purchase of the old New York Club's property at the southwest corner of Fifth ave and Thirty-fifth st, for over $200 a square foot, establishing what was for some time the high record for Fifth ave property. Subsequently they added to this plot by acquiring the property occupied by the Silo Art Gallery, as well as adjoining land on the street, so that the site being improved covers nearly 13,000 square feet. The facade of the building is entirely of limestone, a fact which undoubtedly makes it one of the most attractive and imposing business structures on the avenue. The upper floors have been planned for use as offices and lofts. The building is estimated to cost about $1,000,000, is to be ready for occupancy by May 1, and has been leased to the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, grocers, for a term of 21 years at a total rental, as reported of $3,175,000. Operations clearing the site were begun in May, 1906, and contracts were awarded in June, 1906, to Messrs. Dawson & Archer, 150 Fifth ave., for mason work, and to C. W. Klapperts Sons, 328 East 25th st, for carpentry. Clinton & Russell, with George A. Boehm, are the associate architects.

RECENT ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BUILDER.

THE NEW YORK LAW SCHOOL.

THE new building for the New York Law School is now being erected at Nos. 172 and 174 Fulton st, C. P. H. Gilbert, Broadway and 25th st, being the architect. The exterior is of classic design, and the materials of limestone, Harvard brick and granite. The ornamentation of the upper portion of the building consists of limestone columns and pilasters and balconies p'aced in front of the windows. The Law School will occupy the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh stories. The tenth and eleventh stories being used for lecture halls, with proper ante rooms, toilet rooms, coat room, etc., and the ninth story will be used entirely as the Law School Library. The eighth story is to be used for the private offices of the professors, the secretary, assistant secretary, and there will also be a small lecture room on this floor. There will be four large passenger elevators equipped with special safety devices in connection with the doors. It will be impossible to enter or leave a car while the car is in motion, as the car cannot move unless the doors are closed and locked.

The students will ascend a private staircase leading from the main vestibule in the mezzanine floor where the elevators set aside for the exclusive use of the students will take the students to the upper floors. Special attention has been given to the acoustic properties of the lecture hall, and by a special system of steel construction only one column for the support of the floor of the roof above the lecture room will be visible. A special and elaborate system of forced ventilation, with thermostatic control heating device, has been arranged. This will insure proper heat and plenty of fresh air in the lecture rooms under all conditions of weather. The building will be supplied with heat from its own boilers. From the second to the seventh stories inclusive the floors will be rented as offices, and the first floor and basement will be arranged to rent for general business purposes. The vestibule and main entrance hall will be wainscoted in marble, with pilasters of the same material. The elevator fronts will be of ornamental iron of very attractive design. From the rear of the main hall a well-lighted staircase will lead to the top of the building, and a special retiring room, toilet room, etc., has been arranged for the women in the mezzanine story between the third and fourth floor. The building will be equipped with a vacuum air cleaning apparatus, mail chute and other conveniences. It is to be ready for occupancy May 1, 1908. Charles A. Cowen & Co., No. 1123 Broadway, have the general contract.

ARCHITECTS INVITED TO EXHIBITION.—A general invitation is to be sent out by Mr. R. C. Davison, secretary of the Concrete Association of America, to the members of the New York Chapter of American Institute of Architects to attend the exhibition of concrete and the purposes to which it can be put as indicated in the display made on the eleventh floor at 220 5th av. The spaces in the exhibition room, of which there are about 50, are nearly all taken. It was stated on Wednesday that but six remained unengaged. Some of the exhibits are exceedingly attractive and ornamental. One large concern has spent over $1,500 already in arranging its display and will add $500 to this before every detail has been completed. The ornamental work that can be accomplished with concrete is one of the most interesting features.

ISAAC MASON FURNITURE WAREHOUSE.

There has been recently completed at 137 Johnson st, Borough of Brooklyn, by the Turner Construction Company, 11 Broadway, Manhattan, a reinforced concrete furniture warehouse for Isaac Mason, which besides being absolutely fireproof is of exceedingly pleasing appearance. The accompanying photograph gives a good idea of the simple yet dignified architectural treatment which this building received at the hands of its designer, Mr. J. M. Murphy, architect. Constructed entirely of reinforced concrete, using square cold-twisted steel bars for the reinforcement, and with wire-glass windows set in metal frames, together with standard tin-covered doors and reinforced concrete partitions, this building is in the highest degree fireproof.

The method of construction used was similar to that followed in structural steel buildings, namely "skeleton." The columns and floors went up first, making a "cage" with the walls and windows, stairs and partitions following shortly afterwards. After the completion of the excavation, it was but 48 working days before the roof was put on and but 3½ calendar months to the turning over of the building to the owners ready for occupancy. This record was possible only through careful organization and skillful superintendence.

The Turner Construction Company has recently completed among others the following large reinforced concrete buildings: The factory of G. B. Seely's Son, 331 West 15th st, building 50x150 ft., with an "L" 50x65 ft., 5 stories. with deep basement; the warehouse for Thonet Bros., 544 West 36th st, which is 75x95 ft., 7 stories in height; the addition to the Robert Gair factory, making the total size of this building 200x231 ft., 8 stories in height; model factory No. 3 for the Bush Terminal Co., a structure 600 ft. long, 75 ft. wide, 6 stories and basement, in size.

GOOD CONTRACT INCIDENTAL WITH THIS FIRM.—Closing up contracts is about the best evidence that a contractor or supply dealer can give in referring to business conditions. Mr. J. W. Faison, of the Commonwealth Roofing Company, was subjected to a query as to whether this year would be a good one.

"That is a difficult question for any man to answer," he said. "We just closed the contract for the roofing of the building for the Phelps Publishing Company, but that is not a big one."

Incidentally the amount involved is enough to make it a desirable contract for almost any roofing concern in New York.

MR. WEBER IS OPTIMISTIC.—Optimism seemed to permeate most of the opinions given by contractors and dealers concerning business conditions, as published in the Record and Guide last week, but the most hopeful of these cannot surpass that of Mr. F. G. Weber, of the Weber Construction Company, 1 Madison av. When he was asked in a general way about present and contemplated construction work he said:

"There are more plans out for estimates in our line of work, reinforced concrete, than there were at this time last year, as far as I can ascertain. I think that the financial situation is going to improve and that money will be thrown into real estate. There is every prospect for a fair year."

WHERE CONCRETE PILES WERE USED TO ADVANTAGE.

A notable instance of concrete piles supplanting wood piling is found in the case of the reinforced concrete laundry building built for G. L. Hooper & Son, at Salem, Mass. This structure is four stories high, 100 feet deep, 60 feet wide, with a 1-sty wing for the boiler and engine room.

The soil conditions of the site, which was formerly occupied by an abandoned dock, called for a piling foundation. The original designs and estimates were for wood piles cut off below the level of tide water, but it developed that the cost of the concrete footings could be decreased considerably by using concrete piling.

Raymond concrete piles were ultimately selected, of an average length of 20 feet, 6 inches in diameter at the point, 20 inches at the top, and with a taper of half an inch to the foot. Each pile carries a load of 25 tons, this being double the load capacity, per pile, of the wood piles originally considered. Difficulty was anticipated from old wharf timbers, which were found imbedded in the soil, but the sheet-steel shell that is used in the Raymond system passed them with no delay or diversion of direction. Considerable brooming would undoubtedly have taken place had wood piles been used.

The piles are arranged in groups of four, spaced 3 feet on centers in the form of a square. Each group supports a column or wall pier and is capped by a concrete slab 5 feet 6 inches square and 24 inches thick, extending 15 inches beyond the centre of the piles. The head of each pile projects 6 inches into the capping. The concrete chimney, 48 inches in diameter and 95 feet high, is supported by a group of nine piles. These are reinforced with rods that extend into the footing of the chimney to form an anchorage.

THINGS NOT ALWAYS WHAT THEY SEEM.—Although things may not always be what they seem, they may be as good and even better from both the practical and aesthetic standpoints. In a very short time persons passing along Park pl and Murray st, near Broadway, will observe what are, to all intents and purposes, several handsome brownstone business buildings. They are at from 9 to 15 Park pl, and from 10 to 16 Murray st. No. 15 Park pl is a brick structure, but by the use of artificial brownstone it will have the appearance of a brownstone front, as will the other structures, the stone of which had worn away and needed repairing and renovating. The puzzle will be to see where the stone structure begins and where the brick one ends. The reconstruction of the buildings is being done by Geo. Vassar Sons & Co., after plans by Architect Fay Kellogg, New York's lady member of this profession. The subcontract for the transforming of the fronts was given to the Fordham Stone Renovating Company, 1123 Broadway. This artificial stone is credited with a quality of durability that surpasses that of stone, and its appearance is equally as good, as many millionaires residing on 5th av will testify.

TROUBLE FOLLOWS IN WAKE OF INK.—It was only an innocent bottle of ink, but the negligence of some one handling it caused some inconvenience to a member of the Rockefeller family, and resulted in the summoning of a large construction company to efface the damage done thereby. Mr. Wm. G. Rockefeller occupies a handsome residence at 292 Madison av, the structure having a brownstone front and brownstone steps. Some careless person dropped a bottle of ink on the steps, and the effect was far from adding to the beauty of this part of the dwelling. Brownstone is one of the most absorbent of stones, and the black liquid soaked in. The Fordham Stone Company, manufacturers of artificial stone, and also renovators of damaged stone, were called up and asked to remove all traces of the ink. The color had to be bleached out, the ink had gone in so far, and a little artificial stone of the same color soon made the steps look as good as new. The cost was not very great, but the accident to the bottle of ink meant the expenditure of enough to pay one's expenses at the Plaza for a couple of days.

BUILDERS BUSY IN WASHINGTON.—"I was just looking after some work that we are doing for the Government," was the answer of Mr. DeClifford Chaddock, of the Federal Company, sanitary specialties, to a query as to what he could report in the business line after returning from a short trip to Baltimore and Washington last week.

"There is a lot of construction work in progress in the Southeastern States, and this is largely controlled from Baltimore. In that city itself there is very little activity in the building line, at least in the better class of structures. Washington contractors have more to do now than those in the Monumental city. Some very fine residences are planned or going up in Washington. Finishing touches are being put to the new Union Station, which is a magnificent structure."

Mr. Chaddock was in Baltimore only a few hours, business demanding most of his time while away in Washington.

—Mr. D. F. Fulton, who has been in charge of preliminary surveys and borings in Residency No. 1, Champlain Division, New York State Barge Canal, has resigned to accept the civil service appointment of Assistant City Engineer of Yonkers, N. Y.

FURTHER OPTIMISTIC REPORTS.

Additional opinions regarding the prospects for the coming season in construction work to those published in the Record and Guide last week are generally indicative of optimism and hope. Those received are as follows:

Mr. L. C. Dillman, of the Dillman Fireproof Construction Company, 225 5th av: "Deferred building enterprises are now being taken up and estimates are being received for the purpose of proceeding with construction work this year. Although the number of plans out for estimates are small as compared with last year, the improvement in the last few weeks has been noticeable."

Mr. Arthur A. Ernst, president and manager of the Bureau of Illuminating Engineering, 437 5th av: "As the benefits to be derived from consulting an illuminating engineer are not widely known yet, and as they are regarded more as a luxury than a necessity, it would be difficult for us to give a good estimate of conditions now. Within the past month or so there have been more inquiries and we are in hopes of a good year."

Mr. Rudolph P. Miller, consulting engineer, 527 5th av: "My duties as an expert have kept me very busy and I have not had much opportunity to keep in close touch with new construction work. However, from what I have noted, there is very little in prospect."

Mr. A. A. Wohlauer, 500 5th av, illuminating engineer: "Although the necessity of consulting an illuminating engineer, especially in large undertakings, is not generally recognized, yet we are confident that business will be so good that even our end of the construction work will be profitable this year."

Mr. D. L. McLaren, of the New England Granite Works, 489 5th av: "The work now on hand seems to be mostly banks, schools and municipal buildings generally. The last few weeks showed an improvement and we expect that it will increase."

Mr. W. E. Cash, of the American Luxfer Prism Light, 160 5th av: "We have placed a number of good orders within the past two months in New York State and find everything fairly satisfactory in the States of New York and Pennsylvania. A recent large order was for a firm in Bridgeport, Conn. In New York City business has not been so good, but the number of inquiries and requests for estimates are increasing rapidly."

Mr. C. A. Burr, metal lathing, 156 5th av: "We are busy estimating now, mostly on business buildings and on some apartment houses. We expect a good year, although the early part of the year was unusually dull."

Mr. John C. Upton, secretary of the New York Metal Ceiling Company, 557 to 561 West 24th st: "Domestic business has been flat, but our export business has been as good as ever. In local trade we are receiving more inquiries now and hope for an improvement."

Mr. Henry Franz, United States Mineral Wool Company, 140 Cedar st: "If there has been any improvement we have not felt the effect of it yet. We are one of the last to be consulted when estimates are received for a projected building and are not in a position to make a forecast."

Mr. A. J. Fletcher, of the Sayre & Fisher Co., 261 Broadway, brick manufacturers: "Although there is plenty of money in the country, it is still tight, and this handicaps building operations. I know of one contractor who would go ahead with the erection of ninety houses in Brooklyn if he could secure the financial assistance necessary. The last week showed a decided improvement and I believe that we sha'l have a good spring and summer."

Mr. Woodruff Smith, of the same company: "We can expect a change for the better very soon. I know one builder alone who intends to put up five substantial structures this summer."

Mr. Pfotenhauer, of Pfotenhauer & Nesbit, face brick, 1133 Broadway: "Although it was very dull for a time the last few weeks show that business is improving. We have closed a number of desirable contracts within the last two weeks."

LEOPOLD EIDLITZ.

and the Continental Bank, which have both been replaced by skyscrapers. A very interesting work of those years, in timber construction, was the ferryhouse at the Brooklyn end of the Hamilton Ferry. His main employment was in church building. He designed the Presbyterian Church at 19th st and 5th av that was in later years taken down stone by stone and re-erected uptown, and the Broadway Tabernacle at 34th st and Broadway, which was abandoned for worship and later on demolished, besides many churches in other cities.

In the year 1875 he became an architect of the Albany Capitol, where his work is in the north center, the design of the interior court, the Assembly Chamber and staircase and the Senate staircase.

—After being located twenty-nine years at 133 Centre st, the H. B. Smith Co. will, on May 1 remove to a large store at 39 East Houston st, where they will be in a better position than ever before to satisfy the demands of the trade. At the new location it is intended to have a supply of boilers for emergency cases, which can be supplied within an hour's notice at any time.

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING 2.

Edward Corning was years ago one of the largest sellers of structural steel in the New York and Boston market. He had learned the business under ex-Mayor Hewitt, and spent five years in the office of that master merchant. When he foresaw the annihilation of the middleman in the steel trade, he stepped his business forward a little and became a contractor for structural ironwork.

Next it was a natural step to include in his business not only the iron framework but also all that pertains to a building. Mr. Corning's first operation as a general contractor that we recall was the building of an apartment in 20th st, near 9th av, which tenants were occupying six months after the excavating was started. The owners, the Cushman estate, employed Mr. Corning to build another, and this job was completed in four months. A few more feats like this, and Edward Corning was known as a builder who wasted no time.

A large amount of choice work from choice people comes to Mr. Corning. He has done a number of the recent mansions on and near 5th av, as well as a number of important store and office buildings. Just now he is doing the unique building for the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., in East 27th st, extending through to 28th, the Long Island R. R. Employes Y. M. C. A. building at Long Island City, and a new building for the Old Ladies' Home on Amsterdam av at 103d st.

Mr. Corning is one of those who believe that the personal equation is a most important factor in building operations, and clients find him an agreeable man to do business with. He is a member of three typical organizations: the Chamber of Commerce, the Park Hill Country Club, the New Rochelle Yacht Club.

LIGHT DEFLECTED OVER ONE HUNDRED FEET.—A contract just executed by the American Luxfer Prism Company for the owners of the Macmillan Building, 64 and 66 5th av, shows to an unusual degree the benefit in a commercial way from the use of prismatic lights in deflecting light into a place that would otherwise be naturally almost dark. The basement under the Macmillan building is about 106 ft. long, extending from below the curb to about 75 ft. back from the building line. In spite of this, as a result of the way in which the vault lights have been arranged on the pavement, one can read a newspaper at the extreme rear of the basement without the aid of artificial light. This piece of work illustrates strongly to what an extent science is introduced in the use of prism lights. They are placed on the pavement in a space 26x17 ft., extending out the latter distance from the building. The walls of the basement have been plastered, but no artificial light has been introduced yet. Chas. H. Caldwell is the architect. The American Luxfer Prism Company has been awarded a $3,700 contract to place vault lights, reinforced, in the pavement around the big store of the Howland Dry Goods Company in Bridgeport, Conn.

BUILDING NOTES

The United Gas Machinery Co., incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, has taken offices in the Engineering Building, Nos. 114-118 Liberty st, Manhattan.

The Builders' Guarantee Estimating Co., Grosse Building, Los Angeles, Cal., write that they would like to obtain catalogues pertaining to the various class of building requirements.

The headings in the fourth tube of the Pennsylvania tunnels under the East River were driven through this week. The next thing is to finish off the interior.

The office of the assistant constructing engineer of the Isthmian Canal Commission, heretofore located at 24 State st, Manhattan, has been removed to the Panama Canal Building, Mills' annex, Washington, D. C. In the future all matters pertaining to the inspection of material for the commission and all correspondence in reference thereto will be transacted from the Washington office.

It was noticed on Monday that work has been resumed on the new 6-sty garage building which the Robert Goelet estate started to erect a year or more ago on the east side of Broadway, between 64th and 65th sts, at an estimated cost of $350,000. Plans were drawn by Frank M. Andrews, of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, and the contract was awarded to the General Supply and Construction Co. in November, 1906. The construction is of reinforced concrete.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

Prosperity in Time of Adversity.

Frequent orders in a time of general business adversity may seem a paradox, but it is true, nevertheless, with some branches of construction work. This was brought out in the course of a conversation with a representative of the Otis Elevator Company, 17 Battery pl.

"As the contract for the elevator or elevators is one of the last to be signed, being so frequently not included in the general contract, we receive orders when almost all of the other work on the structure has been completed. If the estimates are secured for the general contract and construction is begun before dull times, as happened last year, when many contracts for large buildings were signed before the financial difficulties loomed up, the elevator part of the undertaking is not faced until it is about time for the cars to be installed."

This explains why some of the elevator concerns have not experienced the same effect of the business depression as most of the manufacturers and dealers interested in construction work. There are also occasions when the elevator part of the building is included in the general contract, but only in a lump sum, the separate contract for the installation not being entered into until everything is ready for the equipment. On the other hand, if the depression extends over a long period it would affect this business, and the effect would be correspondingly small if the depression were short lived, as the present one promises to be.

PRICES CURRENT.

While the feeling in business circles at large is that trade is on the increase, it is difficult to prove it with precise figures. Brick manufacturers feel that the condition of affairs in building is one which they cannot help, and that first the monetary and real estate situation must be clarified before anything they could do would be effective.

A meeting of the members of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association was held at Newburgh last Friday afternoon, with President W. K. Hammond in the chair. The purpose of the meeting was principally to discuss methods of transportation for the ensuing year, talk over the conditions of the brick market and discuss the outlook for the future. It is likely that work on the yards will not begin this year until quite late—probably not earlier than the first of May.

The prices of brick are very low at present, and it was thought that by a comparison of notes the manufacturers might see some way out of the difficulty of low prices for their product the coming season.

The market for common brick has reached the condition where prices are merely nominal. Occasionally we hear of impatient shippers making a sacrifice to save further loss. The available supply is very large. There are over three hundred million brick on the river by official record. Owners are tying up their boats and discharging their crews, something never before heard of in the Spring of the year. All this shows that demand is comparatively slight and quotations without firmness.

In the front-brick department sales made locally aggregating a large quantity indicate improving conditions. Fredenburg & Lounsbury have just closed a contract for 2,000,000 spotted gray front brick for delivery at Seattle. Howells & Stokes are the architects of the work in which the brick will be needed, and the Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, of Boston, are the contractors. Also, 150,000 light grays for the Masonic Temple, New York City, H. P. Knowles, architect; Wells Bros. Co., contractors.

CEMENT.—The general tone of the market is firmer for the standard brands of domestic Portland, and the feeling among manufacturers as expressed during the week is that prices are on solid ground, even at this low level. In the natural course of events with the increase in building operations there will be an advance on or before the first of May.

IRON AND STEEL.—Announcements during the week in regard to the extension of the Hotel Astor and the "Fifth Avenue Building," which is to stand on the site of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, brightened the structural steel outlook considerably. The plans for the Hotel Astor will be out in a few days. About four thousand tons will be required for this building. The Fifth Avenue Building will require 7,000 tons. It will be fourteen stories high on ground dimensions of about 264x200. The site of the Madison Square Theatre, as well as of the hotel, will be occupied, and the work of removing the theatre began this week. When structural steel orders actually get well started, it is believed they will come fast. The U. S. Steel Corporation is at present operating about fifty per cent of its rolling capacity.

A Pittsburgh correspondent says that at the moment two things stand out clearly—that the March earnings in the iron and steel industry as a whole are likely to be considerably below January and February, and that the tonnage in sight is of comparatively little significance. The operation of the leading Carnegie steel mills—Edgar Thomson, Duquesne, and Homestead—reached the smallest proportion since the October panic, the only probable exception being around the holidays. When it is remembered that the Homestead plant is the big money maker for the corporation, the effect of running less than half time for about one-half of the producing capacity is evident.

The Iron Age this week says the crux of the situation lies in the restricted demands from the railroads, and their buyers in turn depend upon the ability of the railroads to finance their requirements.

"In some instances the burden of that financing has been shifted to the builders of equipment, which has its limitations. No important contracts for structural material have been let, but some pretty large work is coming up."

Dealers in roofing plates and other sheet-metal products report a gradual betterment in orders, and regular prices are being firmly maintained. In iron and steel bars new business at the mills is light. Only about forty per cent of the bar mill capacity is in use.

The lines under the head of iron and steel that are nearest the normal state are cast-iron pipe and wire products generally. A large amount of business for cast-iron pipe is in hand, with certainties of very large orders from San Francisco and other cities. Wire nails show an increase nearly every week, but jobbing houses still sometimes shade prices.

LUMBER.—Stocks have been melting away gradually during the winter, and a good buying movement is generating, though it cannot be said that the demand from either the retail dealers or the builders is large. The hardwoods particularly have a more hopeful look, and there seems to be little disposition to shade prices. Hemlock shows no change, but most of the mills have fair stocks of hemlock in pile. White pine moves slowly but holds its position as to price. Prices for spruce have been unsettled, and most of the offerings have been in the nature of random cargoes from the East. The market is scarcely in a condition to absorb a great amount of lath, but the demand has been good during the last week or more, while the arrivals are light in quantity.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable because terms of sale and other factors influence prices. The wholesale figures are given.

STONE.—Advices from Great Britain report a depression in the granite trades. Last year was the worst in the history of the Aberdeen trade. It is estimated that the number of men manufacturing granite work for England in Scandinavia has increased 1,240 during the past three years, while in Aberdeen the number of men employed at the quarries has decreased to the extent of 362 during the same period. It is therefore evident that the present unprecedented depression in the quarrying trade is not wholly due to the scarcity of orders, but rather to the fact that the work is being executed abroad instead of at home. The present attitude of the Scandinavian granite merchants seems to imply that they are bent on reducing the market value of manufactured granite to such an extent as to make it impossible for British quarry owners to obtain orders, and thus virtually compel many of them to close their quarries. Should this ever take place, the foreigners will get it all their own way in the granite trade, for after an industry has been abandoned in any locality it is very difficult to revive it again.

Advices from Clayton, N. Y., state that Joseph Leopold & Co., 18 Broadway, New York, have closed contracts with Edward C. Lewis, of Wells Island, and the Picton Island Red Granite Company, of Clayton, for stock for large paving contracts. Much of the stone will go to Chicago. Leopold & Co. will employ over two hundred men on Wells Island and fifty on Picton Island.

PAINTS AND OILS.—With the exception of greens, all kinds of dry colors are reported to be in active demand as considerable painting work has sprung up, though hardly enough to be termed the usual large spring business. Orders for white lead have the appearance of merely present necessities. A spring demand for the various zincs is under good headway. There is a fairly good requirement for linseed oil with prompt delivery. In turpentine a lack of business at Southern points is the reason assigned for a decline in price.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Contemplated Changes in Times Square Will Cost Many Millions.

If all the proposed improvements are carried out in Times Square as have already been announced the amount of money to be expended will approximate the sum of six million two hundred thousand dollars. The addition to the Hotel Astor which will give the hotel more than 1,000 additional bedrooms, and 700 baths, making the structure double its present size, becoming practically the largest hotel in Manhattan, with furnishings, will cost alone about $4,000,000. The addition will cover ten lots, including the buildings Nos. 206 to 214 West 45th st, and Nos. 207 to 215 West 44th st. While the ground area of the new building will not quite equal that of the present structure, less space will be occupied by offices and apartments for general use, so that the room capacity of the hotel will be doubled. It is expected that the work of tearing down the 4-sty dwellings that now stand on the site will begin shortly after May 1. The plans have been completed for more than a year, Messrs. Clinton & Russell, 32 Nassau st, being the architects. (See issue Aug. 25, 1906.) Another large improvement about to be commenced by John Jacob Astor is that for the remodeling of the property on the west side of Times Square, running from 43d st to 44th st. It is planned to tear down the three walls facing on the square, 43d and 44th sts, rebuilding them with new fronts, and equipping the interior as an up-to-date office building, containing about 200 offices and studios, and a few stores. Plans are now being prepared by C. H. Cullen, 20 West 34th st, who estimates the cost somewhere between $150,000 and $200,000. At the southeast corner of Broadway and 43d st plans have been prepared for a 12-sty office and theatre building to cost approximately $1,000,000. It is expected to have the theatre ready for use by Jan. 1, 1909, and the office building by May 1, 1909. V. Hugo Koehler is the architect, and Harry Levey the owner. (See issue March 21, 1908.)

Messrs. Carrere & Hastings, 225 5th av; have also designed plans for another theatre building to be erected at Broadway and 46th st, Nos. 1555 Broadway and Nos. 203 to 217 West 46th st, for Charles B. Dillingham, David H. Taylor, and Frederick Manners, to cost about $1,000,000. The plot has a total area of about 16,000 feet, so that it will be one of the largest playhouses yet established in the amusement centre around the Square. (See issue Nov. 2, 1907.)

Hedden Const. Co. to Build New "Fifth Avenue Building."

A demolition permit has been issued for the immediate purpose of dismantling the old Madison Square Theatre in West 24th st, which location, together with the old Fifth Avenue Hotel site fronting on the west side of Broadway, extending from 23d to 24th sts, is to be covered with a 14-sty office and store building. A notice was posted in the hotel this week to the effect that on April 4 the hotel will discontinue business. The theatre site is to be cleared first, and as soon as the store leases along Broadway expire, which is in August, the entire structure will be rapidly lowered. The size of the plot which the building is to cover measures 197.6x260 ft. and 71.10x98.9 ft. The exterior will be of granite, light brick and limestone, with a slag roof. In all nineteen high-speed elevators will be installed. On the ground floor will be a rotunda arcade 30 feet square. The main entrance being through a court 21 feet in width on Broadway. As announced in the Record and Guide issue Oct. 19, 1907, the building will cost approximately $2,000,000, according to the plans prepared and filed by the architects, Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, 298 5th av. The Hedden Const. Co., Madison av, has the general contract. (See issue Feb. 15, 1908.)

Particulars of the Seamen's Institute.

COENTIES SLIP.—In all probability work will be started in a few days for the largest sailors' home in the world, to be erected at the northeast corner of Coenties Slip and South st, fronting Jeannette Park, for the Seamen's Church Institute, of the port of New York, to cost in the neighborhood of $550,000. The building as planned by the architects, Messrs. Warren & Wetmore, of 3 East 33d st, will be 12-stys in height, of light brick and limestone, to cover a plot 100x100 ft. in size. On the main floor there will be the shipping bureau and offices. A restaurant and kitchen will be in the basement, and the first floor will contain billiard and recreation rooms. The main assembly hall and assembly rooms will be on the second and third floors, while the upper stories will be for sleeping rooms. The price paid for the building site was said to be $200,000. No building contracts have yet been placed. Edmund L. Baylies, lawyer, No. 54 Wall st, has entire charge of the raising of subscriptions and building operations. Others interested are: Wilhelmus Mynderse, Henry L. Morris, J. A. Johnson, Captain A. T. Mahon and O. E. Schmidt. (See issues Feb. 24, 1906, Aug. 17, 1907.)

The Electric Cable Co., 17 Battery pl, Manhattan, whose plant at Bridgeport, Conn., was recently destroyed by fire, announce that they have made arrangements for filling all orders promptly. Their products include voltax and all kinds of wire. No plans have yet been determined for rebuilding the structure.

The White Portland cement made by and Sandusky Portland Cement Co., Sandusky, O., has been specified for the exterior finish of the Southern Pacific Hospital at San Francisco, also the interior finish and for pointing the stonework on the new bank building at San Jose, Cal., and for a swimming pool in mosaic work at Atlantic City, N. J.

The erection of the new 12-sty apartment hotel at the southwest corner of 5th av and 51st st, by Mr. T. R. A. Hall, of 39 East 42d st, owner, is now advancing rapidly. The J. B. & J. M. Work was concluded only a short time ago on the concrete piling foundation which supports the new group of contagious diseases hospital buildings on Island No. 3. In the latter instance, more than 1,500 Raymond concrete piles were placed.

"The proper lighting for a billiard table is a problem in itself." This statement, made by Mr. A. A. Ernst, president and general manager of the Bureau of Illuminating Engineering, 437 6th av, is indicative of the scope of this comparatively new branch of construction work. Following out this idea the illuminating engineer will have to face the problems of light and shade in art galleries, of the most suitable flood of mellowing light for churches, and of the great field open to him in connection with the spectacular side of electrical displays, as at Coney Island. Already these have been taken up both from the economical and aesthetic aspects.

The Sandusky Portland Cement Co., Sandusky, O., manufacturers of Medusa waterproof compound, report it specified by the Bureau of American Republics. This is one of the highest compliments that can be paid to the quality of any product. The material has recently been used successfully in the following work: Concrete water tanks, Gloekler Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.; the basement walls Joplin Hotel, Joplin, Mo.; Third National Bank Building, St. Louis, Mo.; U. S. Navy Yard, Puget Sound, Wash.; Lynn Haven Hotel, Norfolk, Va.; Cleveland Concrete Building Block Co., Cleveland, O., in their entire output; Oregon Short Line construction, Salt Lake, Utah; Oswego Falls Paper Co., Fulton, N. Y.; G. & T. Earle Co., contracts, Wilmington, England; Armour & Co., construction, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Reginald P. Bolton, consulting engineer, who has been so much identified with the manufacture, installation and operation of elevators, delivered an address on "Vertical Transportation" before the members of the Brooklyn Engineers' Club in the library of the club rooms, 197 Montague st, last Thursday evening. The problems of the elevator question were touched upon. The annual smoker of the club will take place this evening, March 28, at "The Assembly," 153 Pierrepont st.

Personals.

Mr. T. E. Rhodes, engineer for the Whitney-Steen Company, 135 Broadway, left this week in the interests of the company to visit a number of cities in the West and Southwest. His itinerary will take in Cincinnati, O., Houston, Tex., Butte, Mont, Los Angeles, Cal., and Denver, Col. He will be away about a month.

WHAT PRISMATIC LIGHTING SPRANG FROM.

Most people do not understand the system of lighting dark rooms by the use of prism glass. This system was first inaugurated by Mr. George E. Androvette in Chicago, in 1886, by using glass having a smooth face outside and prisms on the inner surface to change the natural direction of light.

This was accomplished to the entire satisfaction of the architect and owner of a building at 35th st and Wabash ave, since which time Mr. Androvette has devoted his whole time to the development of a system of prismatic lighting which embraces the use of prism glass in sidewalk lights, in extension skylights (the most effective form of prismatic lighting) and also by use of prism glass canopies over windows in narrow areas where it had hitherto been impossible to obtain natural light.

These methods of installation enabled him to contend with the difficult problems induced by the advent of tall buildings in close proximity which exclude the natural light.

The simpler problems, such as using prism glass in windows and transom sash, in stores, schools and factories have been achieved by the use of pressed prism units, 4x4 inches, glazed in hard metal electro copper plated, also by glazing sheet-prism glass in lieu of window glass in windows of all kinds.

The one essential is that, should you buy prism glass for lighting purposes, you should see that it is furnished and set by a prism-glass company who fully understand the surrounding conditions, which will enable them to specify and use the angle of glass that will effect the object intended.

Prism glass is frequently installed by those who have no technical knowledge and has failed to produce results. This is simply the result of a lack of knowledge, and should be guarded against. No ordinary glass dealer can comprehend the conditions without advice from a prism glass expert. Mr. Androvette, 497 West Broadway, will be pleased to advise any architect or owner as to the method by which the best results can be attained.

Acres of Granite in One Building.

More than two and a third acres of granite will be required to face the four sides of the terminal for the Pennsylvania Railroad. The granite will be supplied by Norcross Brothers, 160 5th av, from their quarries in Vermont, and the execution of the contract will be something approaching a record-breaker in the way of supplying such material for one building. Two of the sides of the terminal will each be about 800 feet long and the other two each about 200 feet. A low average of the height of the granite is 50 feet, the amount left out offsetting the space taken up by windows. The total space to be covered, according to these figures, would be roughly 100,000 square feet, or over two and a third acres.

The shipping of the granite was to have started last fall, but unforeseen difficulties prevented this, although Norcross Brothers were ready to begin at any time, and it is problematical now when the granite setting will begin.

The contract for the cement to be used in the new terminal building has been awarded to Fredenburg & Lounsbury, 289 4th av.

Director for Material Exhibits.

Mr. J. J. Conor has been selected as director of the exhibition department of the Building Trades Employers' Association. Mr. Conor has had considerable experience in this line and the vigorous way in which he is making preparations for the installation of the exhibits in the new building on West 32d st is an earnest of what he intends to do. Mr. Conor will have his office in close proximity to the elevators, so that he will be able to greet all those who visit the exhibition as soon as they arrive on the floor. As stated before in the Record and Guide, the exhibition of building material will occupy the whole second floor. The spaces, of which there will be 215, will have about 35 square feet each. It is expected that everything will be ready for the installation of exhibits on May 1 and arrangements are being made to receive them at that time. Inquiries are being received from dealers in various kinds of materials as to the space, cost and location.

Demand for Terra Cotta Brisk.

Brisk business is again reported by the New Jersey Terra Cotta Company, 108 Fulton st. In addition to the contracts announced in last week's Record and Guide, the company has closed others for furnishing the terra cotta for the 12-sty apartment house at the southeast corner of 58th st and Park av, C. W. Buckham, architect, and the Densmore Compton Building Company, builders; for an 8-sty apartment house at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 94th st, H. C. Pelton, architect, and Jos. Freedman, builder; for the 10-sty loft house at 33 and 35 West 17th st, Schwartz & Gross, architects, and the Meteor Realty and Construction Company, builders; for the 10-sty apartment house at the southeast corner of Madison av and 64th st, Wm. E. Mowbray, architect, and the Buckley Realty Construction Company, builders.

Delayed Repairs Proved Costly.

The proverb "A stitch in time saves nine" could be applied to the owners of buildings, especially apartment houses. The application was brought in connection with a remark made by Mr. L. C. Anderson, manager of the Roof Maintenance Company, 55 West 124th st, when discussing business conditions with a Record and Guide representative recently.

"Not long ago a property owner allowed his roof to go so far after it needed repair that it cost him $75 to fix the damage done to the ceiling of one of the upper rooms," said Mr. Anderson.

The necessity of prompt attention for economy's sake when anything is amiss in a building is as applicable to any other part of a structure as to the roof.

NEW CATALOGUES.

ABOUT GRAPHITE PAINTS. — The United States Graphite Company, Saginaw, Mich., miners of graphite and manufacturers of graphite paint, have printed a very interesting booklet, "About Graphite Paint," which upon request will be sent to those interested in this subject.

Even the most casual observer cannot have failed to notice that within the past decade there has been a very radical change in the color of the coatings applied to railroad bridges, viaducts and other steel structures for the purpose of protecting them from corrosion and the elements. The change has been from reddish brown to grayish black. And the reason for this is that the most exhaustive research, theoretically and practically, has disclosed the fact that the natural form of carbon—graphite—is now recognized as a pigment meeting all the many and varied requirements essential to the production of paint that will effectually protect under all conditions the surface which it covers.

Graphite is an inert substance, unaffected by extreme heat, frost, steam, water, sulphur fumes, acids, alkali, brine or by any climatic or chemical condition; and these properties, together with its natural affinity for oil, its ability to withstand extremes of temperature, its density, the ease attending its application and the resulting saving of labor, its remarkable covering power and its long life, which eliminates the annoyance and expense of frequent repainting, saves, in fact, the cost of several applications—renders it the ideal paint for either the primer or weather coats. But to give this service in the greatest degree it must be pure, finely pulverized and thoroughly ground in the best of linseed oil.

Graphite paint, then, is desirable in exact proportion with its purity, and to be of unquestionable quality its pigment should analyze not less than 85% graphite carbon of the amorphous variety—preferably Mexican graphite, the remaining 15% to consist principally of such silica as is naturally carried by the ore from which it is ground.

This at least seems to be the consensus of opinion among authorities in railroad painting, and as the railroad world is always alert to take advantage of new ideas which can be shown to save time and money and give best results, any radical departure from the beaten path is always first noticeable in railroad equipment, to be ultimately copied as the standard of excellence by the smaller consumer; hence the gradual change from reddish brown to grayish black above referred to in the color of railroad bridges is now apparent everywhere in our manufacturing districts.

There are to-day on the market many so-called graphite paints, but neither the brand of the paint nor the reputation of the maker should be taken as prima facie evidence of quality. The careful buyer will insist upon the manufacturer's guaranteed analysis, and the shrewd buyer will get as close as possible to the source of supply—the miner of the raw material—thereby minimizing his chances of getting paint loaded with worthless and harmful adulterants.

METALLIC DOOR.—Hollow sheet-metal doors and accessories are the subject of a large catalogue from the Dahlstrom Metallic Door Company of Jamestown, N. Y.

The "Dahlstrom" door is constructed of two single sheets of steel (No. 20 gauge), running the entire length, and has only two joints. These are invisible lock joints, arranged so that they will not come opposite one another. The steel is specially treated so as to secure absolute rigidity in the door. The depressed panel formation is filled out at top and bottom with rails, slipped on in one piece and fastened to the panel by means of screws, and to the stiles by rivets, Thus objectionable joints or seams on the edges are obviated. Hinges are let in from the sides of the door and fastened to the edges by means of a reinforcing strip of band iron. Another strip of band iron is used to secure the lock. These strips run inside the stiles and the entire length of the door. Small channel irons are used for closing up the hollow ends of the stiles at top and bottom of the door. These also run inside the rails and the whole width of the door.

To guard against rusting, the inside is painted with asphalt or enameled. A felt lining or strip of cork deadens the metallic sound and the panel is packed with asbestos or mineral wool. This form of construction secures air spaces in the stiles, and independence of the two sideplates of one another, so that, in case of fire, while the exposed plates may suffer from the heat, the other remains cool and retains its shape and position in the door-opening. In fact, similar action to that of two doors is secured in one. Solid iron doors will, under the strain of heat and their own weight, spring away from the door-openings, and curl at top and bottom. Practical demonstations have shown that this door will not curl or spring under strain of excessive heat. Even should the top and bottom rails be exposed to heat intense enough to cause them to be burned off, the door would still be in efficient condition to resist the progress of the flames. Experts of fire-retardants regard the "Dahlstrom" a good fire-stop.

The Dahlstrom Company has developed a special method of producing cold-drawn moldings. When they had perfected their hollow-steel door, their attention was turned to the problem of improving the joint construction and casing work. Not being satisfied with the ordinary hot-rolled moldings, they invented a method of their own, and the moldings have proved so satisfactory in their own work that they have used miles of them for casings, crown and picture moldings, and for various other purposes.

A BASIN FIXTURE.—A quicker action, said to give more satisfaction all round, the "Ohio Basin Cock," is pushing its way ahead of the Fuller and Compression cocks by its established superiority. The "Ohio" is manufactured by the Ohio Brass & Iron Mfg. Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, who say that their faucet overcomes all the disadvantages of the ordinary Compression and Fuller Work and embodies all the best features of each, having a Fuller movement as far as operating convenience is concerned, and a compression seat for durability which far surpasses any other means of closing off the water pressure. The result is one of the best articles that has been placed on the market to-day. To use this cock on most of the marble lavatories it is necessary to have the spout half an inch longer than regularly. For the extra long spout there is no extra charge. The "Ohio" is made with either china plain, china indexed or N. P. brass handle. The manufacturers invite correspondence and ask the opportunity to quote prices.

MARQUETRY IN INTERIOR DECORATIONS.—The dining-room in the home may be treated in marquetry to excel in artistic effects any other manner of decoration. The walls may be covered with a high wainscoting of mahogany or other veneer inlaid with a harmonious combination of natural or colored woods forming designs taken from the French and English schools of earlier periods or of modern motif.

The same features introduced in the dining-room furniture with hangings to correspond complete a refined expression of decorative art.

We have seen a landscape picture made with inlaid woods, in which each color and shade is acquired by natural-color woods and the features brought out by the characteristic grain of the wood veneer. Twelve different species of wood were used in making the picture.

The original was made by J. Bernard Company (marquetry and fancy metal-work), 477-9 10th av.

THE WEEK.

It has been apparent for some time past that the real estate situation has greatly improved. A few months ago only a small number of sales were being reported, and the majority of those were put through by the larger and more prominent firms. It has been conceded generally that real estate brokers, with few exceptions, have not made their expenses during the past few months. A more optimistic spirit, however, prevails at the present time. Inquiries are more frequent, and offers nearer the asking price have been received. This has been particularly true of the Washington Heights section. Not only have large apartment houses changed hands, but also prominent corners. These will in the course of time be improved. The appearance of this section has been completely changed during the past twelve months or so. The paving of Broadway and making the center of the street into a park, conforming with that section of this avenue south of 116th st, has greatly enhanced its beauty. The extension of Riverside Drive is nearing completion. While there is considerable work still to be done, yet it is rounding nicely into shape.

It was a foregone conclusion toward the end of the boom period that a reckoning would have to be made. Many speculators with limited means had acquired holdings considerably in excess of their capital. It was a gamble pure and simple with them. Many blame their losses on one reason and another. The true reason was, however, in most cases that they over-reached themselves. When the demand ceased they found themselves high and dry with more property than they could possibly handle. This element is largely out of the market now. Their holdings have been foreclosed and in several instances re-sold into stable hands.

Though the time for consummating the spring leases has arrived, still prospective tenants are not anxious to come forward and either renew or rent another house. Every year the Fall is becoming more popular as the renting season, so consequently there is a corresponding decrease in the number reportd during Marach and April.

Among the building loans reported was one for $90,000 on the premises situated on the north side of 69th st, 265 feet west of Amsterdam av. The City Mortgage Co. loaned this amount to Silverman-Jones Construction Co. The North American Mortgage Co. gave a loan of $120,000 to the Charles Hensle Realty Co. on the property on the north side of 138th st, 375 feet east of 12th av, running to Riverside Drive. Pincus Harrison borrowed from Dina Conrad $4,000 on the property on the north side of Morris av, 940 feet east of White Plains road. James P. and Jane G. Knowles received a loan of $5,500 from William E. Thorn, on the property on the west side of Giles pl, 225 feet east of Montgomery pl. The Realty Transfer Co. secured from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. a building loan of $175,000 on the property at the southeast corner of Broadway and 144th st, 99.11x100.

One of the largest single loans of the week was one for $315,000. This amount was borrowed by the American Brass and Copper Co. at the southwest corner of Howard and Lafayette sts. The mortgagee is the Albany County Savings Bank of Albany, N. Y. The loan runs for four years at 5 per cent. The building covered is an 11-sty structure. Henry Hesse, Jr., gave to Henry Hesse, Sr., a purchase money mortgage on the property, 399 6th av, 20x100. This loan is due on demand, and bears the interest rate of 5 per cent.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week was 166, as against 156 last week, and in the Bronx 98, as against 104 last week. The total amount involved is $4,057,771, as against $3,701,601 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 61, of which 14 were below 59th st, 29 above, and 18 in the Bronx. The sales reported for the corresponding week last year were 165, of which 57 were below 59th st, 76 above, and 32 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The early part of the week in the salesroom was taken up with sales of property forced by foreclosure suits. The result of these is the same story that has been repeated almost weekly in this paper since last Fall. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday there were approximately 20 parcels advertised for sale. Of these one went to an outside purchaser, one to a party in interest and the rest to the plaintiffs in the various actions, or adjourned to a future date. Sundel Hyman purchased the 4-sty tenement, 204 West 40th st, 114.6 feet west of 7th av, 14.3x98.9. This was a partition sale and the amount paid was $17,450.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day, on Thursday, there were ten offerings at voluntary sale. All of these, with the exception of three, were sold. The estate of Harriet N. Talcott disposed of to Howell H. Barnes, for $45,000, the 3-sty dwelling and barn, on the north and east side of Bolton road, about 320 feet north of Dyckman st. This property contains about 3½ acres, and has some splendid shade trees. The 6-sty flat with stores on the northwest corner of Tinton av and 150th st, 50x94.7, was sold at receiver's sale to Walter Cohen, for $76,400. The 3-sty building on the south side of 50th st, about 110 feet west of Beekman pl, was knocked down to Oscar L. Foley for $11,000. The 3 and 2-sty tenements and factories, 249 to 253 West 19th st, were bid in at $48,000.

Taken all in all the auction market is in the same technical position that it has been for some time past. It really resolves itself into a matter of money. Where a liberal amount is allowed to remain on the property for a reasonable time prices received are fairly good, but in the matter of a forced sale prices have not been satisfactory.

Generally speaking the feeling is better. Should one carefully scan the results, not a great deal of improvement would be noted. Still, confidence is the first step toward better prices. Manifestly, without confidence, prices will be far below their actual worth.

The amount involved in the auction sales this week was $663,856, and since Jan. 1, $12,890,031. Last year the total for the week was $2,987,200, and from Jan. 1, $9,092,991.

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST.

The following are excerpts of the minutes of the meeting of the Law Committee and the decision of the Board of Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests relative to bills introduced in Albany, N. Y., affecting real estate:

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 408, PRINTED No. 454.—Mr. MULLANEY'S bill, making it a penal offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment, to conduct a moving picture exhibition in a room or apartment of a tenement house or dwelling house, and declaring such an exhibition to be a public nuisance. NO ACTION.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 426, PRINTED No. 477.—Mr. GILCHRIST'S bill, to amend Section 41 of the Tenement House Law, so that it may be possible to connect bake rooms with bakery stores by dumbwaiters, even though there be fat boiling in the bake room. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 818, PRINTED No. 955.—Mr. PALMER'S bill, to amend the State finance law in such manner that the United States deposit fund which is now invested in mortgages under the direction of the loan commissioners appointed in various counties, shall, as it is collected, be withdrawn from investment in land mortgages and invested in United States, State, and local bonds. Although this fund has been invested in real estate mortgages, it seems to be proper, in order that it be safeguarded, it be withdrawn from this investment and put into the safer investments intended by this bill. The sum withdrawn from real estate investments will not be sufficient to make any difference in the market. The State has from time to time found that this fund was improperly invested and has been required to make appropriations from time to time to replace losses. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 383, PRINTED No. 1024.—This is Mr. GLUCK'S bill relating to licensing moving-picture exhibitions, which seems now to have been amended to meet objections heretofore urged against it by this committee. The bill as reprinted adds amendments to Sections 1473, 1474 and 1482 of the Charter. NO ACTION.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 537, PRINTED No. 629; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1038, PRINTED No. 1259.—Mr. McCALL'S and Mr. GOLDBERG'S bill to amend the Lien Law in relation to priority of mechanic's liens. The intention of this bill is to make the mechanic's lien superior to all other liens on real property whether the notice of claim be filed before or after a mortgage. If this bill were to be enacted it would be impossible to make mortgage loans whether building loans or permanent, unless the lender be satisfied that all material and labor which has gone into the building within the time when a lien might be filed, has been actually paid for. It is impossible to make this investigation, for while the contractor may have been paid, the subcontractor might not have been paid, while the contractor may have been paid, the manufacturer of the material might not have been paid. The rest of the bill is objectionable. OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 538, PRINTED No. 630; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1034, PRINTED No. 1260.—Mr. McCALL'S and Mr. GOLDBERG'S bill making it a crime to defraud contractors, laborers, etc., for the improvement of real property by mortgaging the same, confessing judgment, etc. This would give an opportunity to harrass owners of property and persons dealing with them with criminal prosecutions, when no real criminal act has been done. OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 487, PRINTED No. 554; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 855, PRINTED No. 1030.—Mr. SAXE'S and Mr. TOOMB'S bills to amend the Real Property Law in relation to decrees of foreign countries appointing agents and attorneys to act with respect to real property or interests therein within the State of New York. This bill permits that where a foreign country has interests in or liens upon real property a decree appointing an agent may be recorded and will be presumptive evidence of the authority of the agent. The bill is made necessary by the large investments in mortgages now held by the Republic of Panama. APPROVED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 505, PRINTED No. 591.—Mr. McCARREN'S bill relating to lands required for streets. This amends Section 992 of the Charter so that in addition to requiring evidence from owners conveying land to the city for streets that the property is free of encumbrances, it will be necessary to furnish an abstract of title with a certificate attached by an attorney to the effect that he has examined the title and that he has found a good and marketable title in the owners making the deed. This part of the amendment would make it impracticable for the city to require title insurance policies on land thus acquired. The practice of examining titles by title insurance companies is such that there is probably no one man who could make this affidavit. OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 565, PRINTED No. 647; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No 554, PRINTED No. 646.—Mr. McCARREN'S and Mr. TRAVIS' bills relating to Rapid Transit. Neither of these bills covers the ground. The Travis bill seems to be carelessly drawn. NO ACTION.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1102, PRINTED No. 1360.—Mr. C. F. MURPHY'S bill to amend Chapter 689 of the Laws of 1904 so as to add to the real estate in the City of New York exempt from assessments land owned by library corporations and used for their purposes. This bill should be opposed. No property should be exempt from assessments and usually there should be no addition to the property so exempted. The work for which assessments are laid adds directly to the value of the property. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1080, PRINTED No. 1318.—Mr. HACKET'S bill to amend Section 1567 of the Charter so as to limit the height of advertising fences both on the ground and on roofs. This bill should be opposed. There is no reason why this subject should be regulated by general statute. The building code can sufficiently take care of it, and it is a matter of local concern which should be regulated by ordinance. OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 640, PRINTED No. 785; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No 1161, PRINTED No. 1460.—Mr. COHALAN'S and Mr. SILBERMAN'S bills to amend Section 1670 of the Code of Civil Procedure so that a notice of pendency of action must be filed not only in relation to actions to recover judgments affecting title to real property, but also whenever an action is brought which seeks to remove a front portion of any building which is in any street or highway in front of or adjacent to such real property. This bill would make it necessary that in order to get notice of the pendency of an action, public authorities or neighbors when bringing suit with regard to projections in a public street, shall file notice of pendancy of action if they desire to bind subsequent grantees. APPROVED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 571, PRINTED No. 677.—Mr. SAXE'S bill amending Section 149 of the Charter which relates to the powers of the Comptroller. The object of this bill seems to be to make it necessary that the Comptroller shall consent to the purchase of real property or easements by the Rapid Transit Commissioners. If this will be the operation of the bill, it should be vigorously opposed. It would give the Comptroller a vote upon all purchases of the Public Service Commission in relation to rapid transit and would compel that commission to resort to condemnation proceedings for nearly all the rights of property which would be required for city constructed roads. It is submitted that the existing provisions of law are sufficient to protect the interests of the city. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 383, PRINTED No. 1281.—This is Mr. GLUCK'S bill in relation to moving-picture exhibitions which, as it was printed No. 1024 seemed to be in proper shape. The reprint seems to intend to add the provision by which a license fee for moving-picture exhibition in Richmond Borough shall be $100. This has been inserted in the wrong place so as not to make sense. The bill should be reprinted. NO ACTION.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1037, PRINTED No. 1263.—Mr. B. R. ROBINSON'S bill to amend Section 375 of the Code of Civil Procedure so that the extension of time of limitation of actions to recover real property can be not more than ten years absolutely. As the law is at present that extension may be ten years after the disability ceases and it is thus impossible to tell in many cases when the limitation of an action to recover real property has run. This is one of the bills recommended by the minority of the commission to investigate the Torrens-System. REFER BACK TO LAW COMMITTEE.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"TIME WAITS FOR NO MAN."

In these days when equity has almost superseded law, and sentiment, logic, we have come to regard the interposition of a date in a contract or agreement as amounting to little more than an expression of opinion of the parties as to about when a thing ought to be done, and leaving to equitable consideration any real damage resulting from a variance.

Such has been the trend of decisions by the courts with respect to dates when contracts of sale of land were to be closed—in fact as to most anything to be performed or paid on a given date, with the exception of financial paper, the peculiar conditions and relations of which have always prevented a modification of the hard and fast doctrine of the "pound of blood."

Indeed, in the socialistic tendencies of the minor courts, whose judges are very close to the people, and their votes; certain of them, if newspaper reports may be believed, have almost declared that but for their oath of office they would not grant any dispossess warrants against the poor in favor of "grasping landlords" on the termination of lettings. And there are few cases indeed where a substantial adjournment of at least a week is not vouchsafed the tenant from the return day of the process, making usually at most two weeks further occupation of premises free of rent to the tenant, quite a large proportion of whose tenancies are for a month only, and two weeks of free rent to be looked for as grace on the part of the next landlord.

But it was not with these lapses from exact justice in favor of the poor with which we seek to quarrel—all the world forgives a man who breaks a baker's window to steal bread for a starving wife and child! It is only in the abuse of leniency in which a court errs, and in the sudden stiffening of the spine in bending backward sometimes in the other direction!

"Hard cases make bad law! Hard cases need not be allowed to make bad equity, any more than bad law." So begins the opinion of one of our Supreme Court justices, in deciding as to a ten-year tenant of a lease, who had an option of renewal for five years, more if availed of on a given date, which he was unable to effect, though anxious to do so, by reason of absence in Europe at the time of the expiration of the option. The fact that he had built up a large business there and made expensive improvements in the property in contemplation of the further continuance of the term, and that he gave notice of his desire to continue, immediate on his return from abroad, enlisted the sympathies of the justice but did not sway his reason. Did his court entertain processes of "dispossess," we could assure him of a following of landlords and renting agents which would make him as famous as the Lindsay of Juvenile Court fame!

That the lessor was left in ignorance of the intention of the lessee to continue on for the extended period, and thus was led to the making of other arrangements, from which he could not be required in equity to withdraw, was not the fact, the evidence being that "from time to time the lessees expressed themselves toward the lessor's agent as desirous of accepting the benefit of a renewal of their lease." This was, of course, not binding, the notice of acceptance of the renewal being required to be in writing. The decision is without question sound, the courts not yet having arrived at a full control of men's consciences, as Courts of Equity aspiringly once pronounced themselves to be—"Courts of Conscience"— but the duty to one's neighbor has been in more than one case heretofore applied to an unwilling Shylock, on grounds of less cogency than here shown.

At any rate it behooves us to take warning that equity will not always relieve, even under the most vital need of the one party and the entire absence of injury to the other by its exercise, and that the old maxim of the law still survives, "Time is of the essence of the contract."

PASSING OF THE FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL.

The Fifth Avenue Building Co., Henry C. Eno, president; Walter E. Maynard, vice-president and secretary; Henry Lane Eno, treasurer, with offices in the Brunswick Building, started the work of demolishing the Madison Square Theatre, on 24th st West, last Thursday. This is a preliminary step toward the construction of a 14-sty store and office building occupying the site now used by the Fifth Avenue Hotel. This historic structure was opened in 1859. It has been continuously run as a hotel ever since.

From a tenant's standpoint there will be many favorable innovations in the new building. There is to be an arcade about 21 feet wide running from Broadway to the center of the building. There is a similar arcade connecting 23d st with 24th st. Nineteen high-speed elevators are going to be installed. Particular attention has been given to the supplying of daylight to the inside offices. There is a court running through the center of the building, open on the west. This court is of varying width. The space between the walls on the upper stories is 60 feet, the width of the ordinary side street. The average height of the ceilings is 10.3 feet, which insures ample room for ventilation and comfort. The structure will be of first-class construction and modern in every particular. The total number of square feet will be approximately 10,000,000. As far as is known from figures at hand there is only one building, the City Investing Co.'s, which has a larger amount of floor space. The difference between the two, however, is not considerable.

It is planned to close the hotel on April 4. All the store leases expire on August 1, when the tearing down of the old structure will commence in earnest. The contracts call for the completion of the new house not later than May 1, 1909. If this is accomplished it will break all previous construction records for buildings of this character. Undoubtedly there will be a large demand for space in this building, especially when its central location is taken into account.

ADVOCATING LAND REGISTRATION.

ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING IN REAL ESTATE BOARD OF BROKERS OFFICES.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Real Estate Board of Brokers at their rooms, 156 Broadway, Thursday, Mar. 19, at 3 p. m. Francis E. Ward presided.

Alfred G. Reeves, a member of the State Commission on Title Registration appointed by Governor Hughes under joint resolution of the Legislature of 1907 and the draftsman of the Act recommended by the Commission to establish State Title Registration was the first speaker. He pointed out that the Act made the use of the system entirely optional. That the advantages of having one's title registered officially and judicially by the State so that it should be incontestable, could be had or let alone. Also that the expense had to be entirely borne by the person asking that he be registered as owner, so that there was no compulsion to use the Act and no expense to the public when used. That the bill provided under the decision of this State for having titles cleared by legal proceedings through notices obliged to be given by newspaper and other advertisement more carefully and fully than any other statutes for partition, foreclosure or other proceedings. And that there were provisions as to boundaries that in time, would at private expense bring about the exact official measurements of all land as each parcel registered provided for the fixing of the boundaries on each side. That an assurance fund was provided to cover any clerical or other mistake like that of Massachusetts where not a single claim has been made against it on that account.

M. J. Harson discussed the minority report of the Commission generally.

Sidney V. Lowell presented strong reasons why the people wanted State Land Title Registration. He stated that if the State officially and irrevocably registers your title to the land you have paid for, that is the highest power to support and maintain your title. Troubles and losses have made the Title Companies so cautious now that one cannot depend on two applications resulting alike. They may refuse to pass the title when you sell, though they passed it when you bought. The present Land Title Registration Bill has been drawn with the experience of Massachusetts, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado and the three Pacific Coast States in view. It provides that title companies shall be recognized as official examiners, while it gives work to lawyers heretofore practically cut off.

Ralph Folks of the Commission gave his experience as to Massachusetts, where he investigated the working of the law in Boston which he found to be in operation with great success as to certainty of title, facility of transfer at small cost, mortgages being made by most of the savings banks on the certificates without examination.

Chicago Department Store Renews Lease.

The announcement comes from Chicago that Siegel, Cooper & Co. have renewed their lease from the Leiter estate for a period of twenty-five years from 1912. The amount is reported to be $200,000 annually and taxes, water tax, repairs, insurance and other incidental expenses which brings the figure close to $300,000.

In New York the leading department stores own their own buildings. Altman, McCreery, Stern Bros. and several other firms in this line of business have title to their holdings either in their own names or in the name of a realty company which is controlled by them. This is probably due to the limited amount of ground available for this class of business.

Siegel, Cooper & Co. are owners of record of their Sixth av store. It was transferred to them after the building was completed on January 12, 1897. The consideration mentioned was $4,000,000. There is 84,640 feet in the plot. The Chicago building occupies about 57,200 feet on ground space.

PAY-AS-YOU-ENTER CAR.

INSTALLED ON MADISON AND FOURTH AVENUE LINE AND SUCCESSFULLY OPERATED.

The pay-as-you-enter car was put in operation on the 4th and Madison av line on Sunday, March 22. Almost from the first the innovation was a success. The public at large must get accustomed to some new rules and regulations. It has been found by experience that, as a whole, the riding public in Greater New York is willing to comply with any reasonable regulation, and do it in good spirit. They have had many hardships to put up with in the past. However, the railroad company has had its share of the burden to bear. If the public once understands that the company is trying to do its best for the convenience of its patrons, many discomforts are forgiven and forgotten.

The new cars just put on are longer by about eleven feet (forty-eight feet all told) than the standard closed car. The width is slightly greater than those of the present equipment. The entire object of the new equipment is to shorten the time of stops without endangering the lives of the passengers. With this end in view, according to the new arrangement, the passengers must enter the car by the rear part of the rear platform. The conductor stands on that platform all the time and collects the fares as the people board. This compartment will hold about twenty people. Those not having the exact change will receive it from the conductor after the car has started. No person after he has paid his fare is allowed to remain on the rear platform, though he has the privilege of standing on the front platform should he so desire. Smoking is prohibited.

REAR PLATFORM. FRONT PLATFORM.

Those desiring to leave the car may do so by either the front platform or the front part of the rear end, marked exit. These persons, however, do not come in contact with those entering the car. Between each window on either side of the car there is placed a small push-button by means of which a passenger desiring to leave the car may communicate his wishes to both conductor and motorman.

The aisle within the car is about six inches broader than that on other cars. In order to afford ample illumination at night there are three rows of electric lamps in the ceiling. An experiment will be made with colored light-signal displayed upon the front of the car indicating the destination for which the car is bound, that is:

	North Bound.	South Bound.
Blue light,	135th street.	Brooklyn Bridge.
Yellow light,	116th street.	Broome or Canal streets.
Green light,	86th street.	Astor Place.
Red light,	Not carrying passengers.	Not carrying passengers.

There are four powerful motors in each car and it is equipped with both air and differential brakes. The car is heavier than the one generally in use at present. The stopping and starting of the car should never be attended with any discomfort. The electrical equipment is so installed that it may be used as a powerful brake if desired.

Similar cars are at the present time in operation in Montreal and Chicago with considerable success, and the inhabitants of those cities feel that it is a step in advance toward the bettering of transportation conditions.

A slot machine will be installed in the new cars so that the passenger may drop the fare directly into it and save additional time. Should change be required the conductor will furnish it.

In speaking of this feature of the innovation, General Manager Oren Root said: "As soon as the public has become accustomed to entering and leaving the new cars and having change ready, we will put on the rails of the entering passageway a machine which will collect the fares. This will leave the conductor entirely to the important task of starting and stopping the car, which means the elimination of many accidents. He will also have to make change."

THE HARLEM PROPERTY OWNERS' ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of this association was held on Thursday evening, March 26, and the Torrens System of Land Registration was made a special order of business.

ROCKINGHAM INTEREST TRANSFERRED.

CITY INVESTING COMPANY TRANSFERS ONE HALF UNDIVIDED PART TO MARY D. GERARD.

On the records of the week appears a deed transferring one-half interest in the Rockingham apartment at the southeast corner of 56th st and Broadway, by the City Investing Company to Mary D. Gerard.

This property has a very interesting history. It is one of the parcels belonging to the estate of Frederick P. James and was left by him to his widow, who has since married General Butterfield. Mrs. Butterfield, according to the will, has a life interest in the property, and at her death it reverts to other heirs. She is to have undisputed possession of one-half of the income during her lifetime, the remaining half to go to pay the running expenses of the property. Should any money be left over after making these disbursements, it is to be divided pro rata among the heirs.

CLAUSE IN JAMES WILL.

There is a clause in the James will which states that "in the event of my legal heirs making any attempt, directly or indirectly, in any manner or form, to interfere with or restrain in any manner my beloved wife from the full enjoyment, use, management and direction, and disposition of the property, and income of my estate as hereinafter devised, then, in such event, such one of my legal heirs as shall do or perform or aid or abet the performance of such an act, or cause the same to be done shall be forever debarred from any part, parcel, interest or ownership or inheritance to any of my property and be excluded fro sharing the same; and the share that would otherwise have gone to him or her shall be divided among the remaining heirs according to law."

There were originally six people interested in this will. It was found year after year, however, that there was no surplus to be divided between them and so one after another disposed of his holdings. As a rule speculators were the purchasers.

ROCKINGHAM OWNERS.

In the early part of 1902 the following people were interested in this property: Cornelia James, one-sixth part; Judith C. Prescott, one-sixth part, which has since been transferred to Charles H. Dow of Boston, Mass.; Frederick J. Midd'ebrooke, one-sixth part; Benjamin Sire, one-sixth part; Jacob Hirsch, three forty-eights part; Emily Beaver, one forty-eighth part; Benjamin Eichberg, one forty-eighth part; William W. Goodrich, one forty-eighth part; Ella Tam, one forty-eighth part and Mandelbaum & Lewine, one forty-eighth part. Since this time there have been several transfers of interests by tired holders.

The Rockingham is built a number of years and was constructed before the present law was enacted. It is a 7-sty. structure occupying a plot 139.9 on Broadway x 122.7 on 56th st x 120.2 on the easterly side x 87.7 on the southerly side. Adjoining on the south is the "Sonoma," an 11-sty elevator apartment house with a frontage on Broadway of 75.5 ft. It is located in the heart of the retail automobile district. Across 56th st is the new Broadway Tabernacle.

Among the other proprietors included in the James will are the following: 400 Fifth av, 501 6th av, northwest corner of 30th st; 103, 107 and 109 West 30th st; 106 West 30th st; 128, 130 and 132 West 30th st; 41 West 12th st; 43 West 12th st; 47 West 12th st; 44 to 48 West 12th st.

ENDORSE SHERIDAN MEASURE.

On Monday night a large gathering of property owners assembled in the Morris Building, at 3d av and 149th st, for the purpose of endorsing the Sheridan bill, which takes 3-family houses out of the jurisdiction of the Tenement House Department. The meeting was held under the auspices of the North Side Board of Trade and the Twenty-third Ward Association.

In discussing the measure, Chairman John F. Steeves declared that there was no reason why such houses should be under the control of the Tenement House Department. Structures of that character, he affirmed, were not tenements, in any sense of the word, and a building occupied by three families was just as much a private dwelling as one occupied by two families.

Other speakers on the subject were not less emphatic, including Dr. Korn, chairman of the Tenement House Committee of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations who delivered a caustic dissertation on the absurdities of the Tenement House Law.

The trouble, argued Dr. Korn, is not so much with the Tenement House Commissioner as with the law which leaves him no discretion; that if the law called for 24 feet in a room, 23 feet 10 inches was a violation, and that if the janitor's rooms were two feet below the sidewalk and the inspector reported insufficient light there was a violation, and the Commissioner had but one rule to follow.

That part of the resolutions adopted by the meeting affecting 3-family houses calls attention to their superiority as a class, as each floor would be independent in all parts, and would be attractive to families accustomed to live in private dwellings.

VALUE OF A BOND.

THE RELATION OF THE BOND TO THE MORTGAGE.

Theoretically a bond which is secured by a mortgage is the principal obligation and the mortgage is a mere collateral, and the less important instrument.' Practically, from the view point of the lender upon a conservative loan, so long as there is no unusual break in prices, this condition is usually reversed, the lender usually looking more to the value of the mortgaged premises and the security of his lien than he does to the responsibility of the obligor on the bond. But, when trouble comes and the lender finds that he has an insufficient or precarious security, then he often gives considerable attention to the value of the bond; and it is at such a time that a responsible person who has signed a bond or otherwise becomes liable on it, realizes that from his point of view the obligation which was so lightly entered into when the mortgage seemed a good security for the debt, may become very burdensome and expensive. For this reason some of the principles applicable to the responsibility of the maker of the bond may be found useful.

BONDSMAN LIABLE.

The general rule is that the person who executes a bond remains liable on it until it is paid off, unless the holder does some act by which the obligor is relieved from his liability either in whole or in part. So long as the obligor remains the owner of the mortgaged premises he is able to watch and care for the security which protects him from being held liable for a deficiency on the foreclosure of the mortgage; but when the property passes out of his hands he has no such control, another person is in receipt of the income and may pile up taxes, costs of foreclosure and accrued interest which will make a very burdensome showing when the date of sale comes along. As between the maker of the bond and his grantee, when the grantee takes possession of the property a relation like that of principal and surety arises; the owner of the property to whom the principal of the mortgage was allowed in closing his purchase becomes liable, as between himself and the bondsman to permit resort to be had to the collateral before the bondsman becomes liable to pay any deficiency; or, if the bondsman must pay the debt, he is entitled to be subrogated or substituted to all the rights against the premises and other collateral which the holder of the bond had. But it must be remembered that no act of the person liable on the bond and those dealing with him in which the holder of the bond does not participate, can operate to relieve the obligor from his liability.

OBLIGOR RELIEVED.

The obligor may be relieved from his liability, if, after he has parted with his property the holder of the bond varies its terms or does any act which operates to extend the time of payment; then, to the extent of the value of the collateral or mortgage lien at the time of the variation, the obligor may be relieved from the liability or the liability reduced. If there be a mere assumption of the debt by a subsequent purchaser of the property, that does not operate to relieve the original bondsman; but if such assumption be accepted by the holder of the bond, he may hold both the maker of the bond and the person who has assumed; and, as against purchasers of the property subsequent to such an assumption, the relation of the person who has become liable and the subsequent owners of the property is similar to that of an original obligor with a subsequent purchaser of the property.

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT.

When the property comes to be foreclosed, the obligor or maker of the bond is entitled to have the property sold at public sale under the direction of a court, and if it brings enough to pay the debt and all prior encumbrances, that ends the liability. If it brings less, so much less as is brought will be a deficiency for which judgment may be entered and enforced personally against the maker of the bond. If one makes a bond secured by a subordinate mortgage, which mortgage is afterwards cut off by a foreclosure of a prior mortgage to which the maker of the second mortgage bond is not a party, it may happen that the lien of the second mortgage will be cut off and thus the collateral disappear, but the holder of the bond which was secured by the second mortgage may pursue the maker of that bond, who, if he is good, may find that he has to pay the debt without being able to recoup anything out of the security which has disappeared.

So long as prices are going up, no obligor is worried about liability on bonds, and no holder cares much about the responsibility of his bondsmen, but when the market drops or merely becomes stagnant, all hands find that the bond which they regarded of such little moment has returned to its theoretical place of the principal, and an important obligation.

WALTER LINDNER.

THE WASHINGTON HEIGHTS TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION.—The March business meeting of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association took place on Friday evening, March 27. Among the things that came up for action was the reduction of the surface car service; demand for extension of local subway trains north of 137th st; nuisance of public garbage dump on Riverside drive, and the need for fire protection on river front.

A WELL LIKED FLOOR PLAN.

Among the legion of new apartment houses erected on the upper west side of Manhattan none is more typical of the popular in that class of buildings than the Reed House, at the northeast corner of West 121st st and Broadway. The structure is full 7 stys in height on the Broadway side and is constructed of Indiana limestone, terra cotta and red standard brick. Having been built under the new law it has an extra wide rear court which provides an abundance of light to each apartment. The entrance in 121st st is attractive in its simplicity. On each side are richly carved columns. The main hall is 15 ft. wide, treated in the latest designs of Italian and Siena marble. As in the average structure of this type the corridors have tiled floors and fireproof doors to every apartment.

It will be seen by the floor plan the arrangement of rooms is such that each may be reached conveniently by a private hall. Besides the open centre court, 25x25, which affords good light and air to the interior chambers, the building is also provided with a wide rear court which affords equal advantages.

The apartments contain from five to seven rooms each and rent for from $600 to $1,200 per annum. As an evidence of their popularity, it is stated that there are at present no vacancies, in fact the Reed house has been fully occupied since last October. Its owner, David B. R. Chapman, acquired the property one year ago, and has since refused an offer of purchase which would have yielded a profit of fifteen per cent on his investment.

In alluding to the parcel, Albert E. Gibbs, of Gibbs & Kirby, Broadway and 103d st, agents for the owner, said:

"The arrangements of apartments in the Reed House meets the requirements of the most fastidious, in fact it would be difficult to improve on the layout of the rooms. This is attested by the fact that the apartments keep fully occupied, notwithstanding numerous vacancies elsewhere in that section."

In commenting on the floor plan an authority remarked that when the space which it occupies is taken into consideration it would be a difficult matter to sub-divide apartments to better advantage.

Several property owners in the immediate neighborhood of the Reed house have signified their liking for its interior plan, and it is probable that apartments of similar design will shortly be erected thereabouts.

WORKING AGAINST FIRE ESCAPE BILL.

A committee appointed by delegates of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations attended a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday, with instructions to oppose the Grady Fire Escape Bill. Chairman Chas. H. Schnelle argued against the passage of the measure on the ground that its provisions are vicious and unjust, besides creating an additional burden upon the taxpayers. Delegates from the various local property owners associations attended the hearing, including several prominent Harlem operators.

A feeling prevails that the bill will not be passed by the Legislature.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assesment roll of 1907.

Vol. LXXXI. APRIL 4, 1908. No. 2090.

FOR the quarter ending with March the record of building operations projected, as well as work under way, was one of the lightest in a long period of years, but at the same time one of the least discouraging of all the dull winters within easy recollection, owing to the good years immediately preceding, and to a general expectation of an early return of life and vigor. We would be obliged to search back through many years to find another winter of like inactivity, but not very far to reach a twelvemonth when building operations were no larger than in the twelve months just past. The year 1903 as a whole was not equal to last year in activity, mainly attributable to the labor warfare which continued throughout the whole of that year and left consequences for its successor as well. According to the official figures and proportion of population, the year 1898 corresponded closely with 1907 as to the degree of activity in building work, and the year 1898 was considered a normal one, and typical of the time when the city had fully recovered from the effects of the panic of 1893. Previous to 1895 the estimated cost of building operations never equaled the total for 1907 except once. For thirty-three years, from 1868 to 1900 inclusive, the average yearly appropriation for new buildings in old New York was but $48,500,000. From this it is apparent that the huge undertakings of 1905 and 1906, when the estimated cost of new buildings approximated one hundred and sixty-two million and one hundred and thirty-five million respectively in the two boroughs, were the fruit of abnormal conditions rather than standards to be regularly reached by the building operations of succeeding years. Yet things must be judged in proportion, and the relative standing of one year with another must, in order to be just, be figured with respect to growth of population. Dull winters do not necessarily make dull years in a builder's calendar, and the announcements of several exceptionally important projects during the past fortnight, which are to be undertaken at once, together with a marked increase in real estate activity, indicate that the current year's work is likely to gather a very fair amount of headway before long.

NEXT MONDAY the Public Service Commission will advertise for bids on the construction of the projected Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn as the next necessary proceeding under the resolution to build on this route at the expense of the municipal corporation. While the case is by no means closed and every chance of defeating the project eliminated, yet the probabilities seem to favor the prediction that the Board of Estimate will eventually ratify the contracts when about to be awarded and will find a way of meeting the cost of constructing some portion of the line, and that the work will be actually started. Several contrary things, including injunctions, may intervene, but among men who have followed the proceedings closely the weight of opinion favors the assumption that the Borough of Brooklyn will have its way in this case through to the end, as it has thus far. Private capital would not undertake to build, but the prophecy is that it will be ready enough to operate the road upon completion, as in the meantime a very large development will arise in the attractive sections of Bay Ridge, Fort Hamilton, Bath Beach and Bensonhurst, through which the route is laid, as well as in old Brooklyn,—in consequence of the new rapid transit conveniences. Manifestly, the primal consideration with some of the interests behind the scheme is a subway construction started. A finished work and a road in profitable and satisfactory operation are matters of much less importance to them. With the chances thus favoring the beginning of actual construction sometime this summer, and the absorption of the city's surplus means therein, there is but one way left open to Manhattan-Bronx of obtaining a similar line, and that is by enlisting private capital, and this will be possible only after adequate modifications in the existing rapid transit laws have been secured. Mr. John D. Crimmins holds that under the Public Service law in particular it will be difficult for the city to obtain a responsible association of men to undertake the operation of new transit lines, as investors will not readily be found to supply capital for an undertaking "so absolutely subject to such an administration." A fifty-year period for a franchise would be none too long, he thinks, in order to provide a sinking fund so that the city could possess the property at the end of the period without any outlay. While this may be regarded as an extreme view, it suggests the prospect of the city having to make a larger concession than has been generally reckoned on unless some new financial elements and resources are about to come forward.

A CRITICISM rged upon the Aldrich bill in Congress and which was found pertinent enough to necessitate an amendment in that respect, was one made as to the issue by savings banks of credit-money based on railroad securities. "It may be the entering wedge for the acceptance of undesirable bonds as securities for note issue," and "there are recent examples in the laws of New York State legalizing such bonds for savings banks," was the language of criticism used—decisive to kill the proposition in the national councils, scathing in its satire of New York local legislation. Again, a report of a New York savings bank, quoted a few days afterward, that it was a loser to the tune of $200,000 by its investments in Alton or some other similar railroad bonds, was a fitting climax to the criticism! And what, after all, has been the good of it (for the patron or depositor of the local savings banks throughout the State)? What used to be a system of stimulating home trade in realty, a strong arm for the farmer to lean on when private necessity or greed "called in the mortgage on the farm," and an always efficient local real estate and financial pulse, has now become a mere feeder throughout the State for the grist mill of the "Street." With no present purpose to criticise Wall Street, or its always urgent needs, or to inveigh against the much belabored System which has turned banks of note discount into banks of collateral loan, turned private banking houses into trust companies for the utilization in finance of both sides of a dollar, converted the country banks into feeders, and the savings banks into railroad bond investors, yet we do think, if mortgage on realty is ever to have a future again, and the charity settlements a rest, savings banks must be turned back to some form of investment of use to the local resident, and the growth of the immigrant census at Castle Garden (for this year at least) cut back a few inches.

TIME and again, when those who in a professional capacity have sought to cash some country mortgage for a client, have said in reply to oft-granted requests for further time in which to replace the loan, "why don't you go to your local savings bank?" the reply has been, "Oh, our savings bank don't loan any more on mortgages much; they buy railroad bonds down in New York." Now, we are of those who believe the world will go all right in its appointed course if let alone, and needs but little legislation or medicine to keep it straight; and that even when the axe is laid at the foot of the tree, to change the metaphor, the tree will ultimately even grow round the blade, and go on its way upward to fruition,—but we regret to see all roads lead to Rome—vernacular now for Wall Street—and would gladly see the balance of investment restored. Thus would be rendered unnecessary the protective union benevolent loan associations which now seek to meet the want formerly supplied by the local savings banks throughout the State. As in early days when neighbors in small rural hamlets joined shoulders to a barn-raising, impossible for one man, so through these loan associations have neighborhoods sought to pool their pennies month by month to enable each member in turn to build the home or addition, or pay off the incumbrances, which in former times the local savings bank was supposed to be there for, like the local bank of note-discount. Both still survive, but one at least has survived its usefulness, or a part thereof.

LIGHT AND VENTILATION.

By A. L. A. Himmelwright.

(Certain features of importance in connection with the problem of height, area and ventilation of buildings were discussed before a committee of the Building Code Revision Commission by Mr. A. L. A. Himmelwright, general manager of the Roebling Construction Co., at a recent public hearing, when he made the following remarks.)

WE all know that the present Code in effect in this city is hopelessly inadequate. The proposed revision that was submitted by a former committee to the Board of Alderman last December has made a considerable advance in the right direction and has provided for some of the important matters that should be regulated by law. The revised Code, however, as formerly submitted, limited the height of buildings and was defective in that it made no provision for the following important details:

First—There were no specific regulations in relation to lighting and ventilation. The sizes of light courts were carefully designated, but there was no provision as to the minimum number or location of such light courts.

Second—There was no provision which would have prevented freak structures, i. e., there was no restriction as to the minimum frontage or depth or any other provision except that a yard at least 10 ft. wide was required at the rear of all buildings.

There can be no question but that the time has arrived when it is absolutely necessary for the protection of the public health that some definite and effective regulations should be provided governing the questions of light and ventilation. Unscrupulous and grasping owners and speculators are so prone in these days to evade the building law and construct buildings which will have the maximum amount of renting space irrespective of sanitary conditions, light and ventilation that regulations governing these matters must positively be enacted and enforced.

Many persons erroneously believe that the conditions in regard to light and ventilation are due to the height of buildings, and that the limitation of the height of buildings is the proper and only means of correcting the difficulties in regard to light and ventilation.

The leading argument against high buildings is that they obstruct the light and impede the fresh air currents. Localities such as Nassau st, near Printing House sq, and Lower Broadway, are pointed out as illustrating the wanton and exorbitant appropriation of sunshine and air. It is asserted that high buildings at such places produce the effect of continuous canyon-like walls on both sides of the narrow streets, intercepting the light and rendering the streets dark and gloomy; that offices and stores in the lower stories are dark and in many cases must be lighted by artificial means.

While these assertions are undoubtedly true, it is necessary to consider this subject in a broader light and look into the conditions of light and ventilation that exist in other sections of the city where the buildings are of moderate height, and we will see that the high buildings are not the many headed monsters some would have us believe.

Every one who is familiar with lower New York and other closely built up sections of our large cities is well aware that block after block of buildings present a solid front on the streets. The depth of the buildings generally averages between 60 and 90 ft., the average frontage being about 25 ft. per lot and the average height from 5 to 7-stys. These buildings flanked on both sides by solid party walls are wholly dependent for light upon the windows in the front and rear. In some instances, additional light is obtained by means of skylights in the roof. The great majority of these buildings are dismally dark and artificial light must invariably be resorted to whenever they are to be used for business purposes.

Even in 4 and 5-sty residences, of which there are many thousands between 23d st. and the Harlem River, practically the same conditions exist. These residences have only a few well lighted rooms in the front and rear, while the hallways and the interior rooms are dark, cheerless and frequently are lighted only by doorways leading to the front and rear rooms and have insufficient or no ventilation.

When we find the same conditions as to inadequate lighting and ventilation in practically all the moderate height residences and commercial buildings that have been built under our existing laws, is it not conclusive proof that the question of light and ventilation is one wholly of design? This is the important point to which I wish to call your attention. The question of light and ventilation is simply and absolutely a question of suitable design and depends only in a very small degree on the height of the building. It would amaze your committee if you were to have correct knowledge of the actual number of owners and architects who besiege the Building Department after plans have been filed in their effort to evade the laws and sacrifice necessary stairways, light and ventilation to secure maximum renting space. It is also to be regretted that there are numerous architects, who, for a consideration, are willing to smother whatever professional pride they may possess and in opposition to their better judgment and good taste, cater to the vicious greed of unprincipled speculators and owners.

The question of light and ventilation is from a sanitary point of view without doubt the most important of all the problems that you are called upon to solve in the new law. Whether or not the height of buildings is restricted, the time has come when it is absolutely necessary to regulate the light and ventilation in all buildings, irrespective of their height. If the section in regard to light and area should be substantially as submitted by the former Revision Committee, very little improvement in the conditions would result, and if the Board of Aldermen should later remove the restriction in regard to the height of buildings, we would have practically the same conditions in the future as exist today. It is morally certain that the public health will suffer if present conditions are allowed to continue, and it is impossible to speculate as to the far reaching and baneful effect of a law which would permit buildings to be constructed approximately as they have been in the past. It is therefore highly important and essential that the question of light and ventilation should be regulated independently entirely of the height of the buildings.

I am convinced that the conditions existing now in so far as ventilation and light are concerned, are as bad and inadequate to maintain public health as it is possible for the large population to exist under in the densely populated sections of the city; and that if these conditions are permitted to grow worse, epidemics of disease and new and peculiar ailments growing out of special conditions will surely result.

Practical and experienced men, familiar with building construction with whom I have discussed these problems during the last five years, have held that in order to effectively correct the present evils (which all of them admit) drastic and radical changes and regulations would be necessary. They asserted that the public would with difficulty consent and agree to drastic measures, especially if the permissible area of the lot which a building might cover would be more restricted.

It seems to me that the permissible area of a lot which may legally be occupied by a building can be properly further restricted, and that there cannot possibly be any reasonable objection in requiring this, if an owner by complying with legal regulations governing light and area, is permitted to build to any desired height. This, in my opinion, is the key to the present situation.

The area of lots which buildings may occupy should be further restricted, if necessary, so as to permit conformity with reasonable and sufficient regulations governing the problems of light and ventilation, and owners then be permitted to build, to any desired height to offset the loss in lesser area of plan.

The practical and profit producing limit of height to which buildings may be built has been approximately reached in the cases of the Singer Building and the Metropolitan Life Tower. From authoritive sources it is learned that these buildings, provided they can be kept filled with tenants, will only furnish sufficient revenue to pay a fair rate of interest on the entire investment. They are, therefore, not attractive investments from a business standpoint, and never can be. The committee, consequently, need have no fear that any considerable number of such buildings will ever be built in this city.

It is my belief that to arbitrarily limit the height of buildings is not only a mistake, but that the 100,000 property owners this city whose interest and influence would overwhelm any other influence would never consent to it. Take for example, a man owning a lot with a 100 ft. front on Broadway, which at the present time may be covered with 5 or 6-sty buildings, alongside of an adjoining property of the same size improved by a building 25 stys in height, would not the owner of the property with the low buildings make an instant and vigorous protest against a law which would restrict any proposed new building to a height of of 1½ times the width of the street and thus prevent him from ever constructing a building as high as his neighbor's, and forever cut off the possibility of his ever obtaining the same income or returns for his property as his neighbor? In other words, all owners of such property would have the actual value of their properties arbitrarily diminished. This would result in a universal protest, which could only be remedied by a modification of the law restricting the height of buildings, and this would probably be done within a few months after its adoption.

In view of these conditions, it is, therefore, incumbent upon you, and it is your undoubted duty to anticipate any such result, and so regulate the questions of light and ventilation that the height of the buildings will affect the sections on light and ventilation only in a slight degree.

What precedes relative to the height of buildings refers, of course, only to office buildings, hotels and similar structures which are never to contain large quantities of combustible contents. Buildings such as department stores, warehouses, factories, lofts, etc., which will become the receptacles of large quantities of combustible contents, should not be permitted to be built to a height above the effective zone of the Fire Department. The necessity of limiting the height of such buildings will be obvious to all of you.

Another consideration that should receive attention is the desirability of not permitting an abnormally high structure to be built on a lot with a narrow front.

If your committee should wish it, I would be pleased to submit to you for consideration a practical plan which will in a large measure solve some of the problems which I have discussed.

CONSTRUCTION

IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE OWNER.

LOFTS AND OFFICES IN ONE BUILDING.

ACCORDING to Mr. Gustav Fleischmann, of the Fleischmann Realty and Construction Co., and also a member of the 507 Fifth Avenue Building Company, which is erecting the 12-sty structure at 507 5th av, there have been far-reaching effects from recent improvements in the vicinity of 42d st and 5th av. One of the effects was to influence the owners of this site to erect a combination fireproof office and loft building. The putting up of a structure with the express purpose of fitting it out to meet these two requirements is regarded as a comparatively new idea in business circles. Speaking of this Mr. Fleischmann said:

"We decided to erect the combination office and loft building, which is original with us, as a result of the character of inquiries received from those who wanted to rent space. A number of these inquiries came from publishers who were looking for location near the new library, and who wanted loft room. Others were from high class milliners, tailors and the like, who believed that a second or third floor properly fitted up would be just as good as a first floor, while the rent would be very much less.

"The difference in rent is a great factor, the amount asked for the second floor being about 60 per cent. less than that required for the first floor. The third floor is proportionately cheaper. In our building we have arranged the second, third and top floors as lofts. The design of the top floor was carried out with a view to accommodating architects, photographers or artists. It is lighted by means of skylights facing the north.

"A feature we have introduced is a freight elevator with a separate entrance on 43d st. Thus, everything that will be moved to the upper floors, such as safes, etc., will not have to pass through the front entrance. Every office has a wash bowl, whether or not it is one of a suite, as this is now a necessity in any office building. The structure is fireproof, has all conveniences possible for the comfort of the tenants, including electric elevators, but we think that we have been adding to these by having the combination idea incorporated in one building. The demand for space is justifying the course we have taken."

The structure will be known as the "Columbia Bank Building," the Columbia Bank having leased the first floor. It is nearing completion.

NEW FEATURES IN APARTMENT HOUSES.

APARTMENT HOUSES with every apartment having a front view is one of the features in the most recently erected of this class. The improvements in dwelling houses of all kinds have advanced so far that it is difficult for owners to add on any convenience in the fittings, so attention has been given to increasing the advantages from the exterior. A light court arranged from the top of the first story to the roof, so that every family has an unrestricted view, is the feature adopted by Harris & Siegel, who are the owners and builders of a row of 6-sty houses on Boston road, Bronx.

Mr. Samuel L. Siegel, of this firm, spoke as follows, regarding this new idea:

"Several years ago, when I was reading one of the daily papers, I noticed a letter from a young man who complained that he could not get a respectable apartment in a good section for a moderate sum. He wrote that he was receiving $20 a week and that it was impossible to live within accessible distance of the business section and in a pleasant environment on that amount owing to the high rents.

"The letter made me think, and when I brought it to the attention of Mr. Harris we decided to see what could be done to meet the wants of the thousands of young men who had the same difficulties as the one who had sent his grievance to the newspaper. The result is the houses which we have just completed in the Bronx.

"We have not only succeeded in overcoming the financial difficulty, but we have a unique feature which ought to appeal especially to small families of moderate means. The advantage of the light court between the houses is that it gives a direct view to either Boston road or to Crotona Park. This is something not heretofore accomplished by tenement house builders. In the construction of this class of dwelling, having apartments of three and four rooms, builders have invariably found it imperative to have some of the apartments in the centre, with no windows except those looking out into the centre court. This difficulty is obviated by having three separate courts, one in the front, one in the centre and one in the rear.

"More space has been secured by this arrangement. The tenement house regulations call for one room in which there must be not less than 120 square feet, and no room in which there is not at least 70 square feet, making no provision for the bathroom and requiring merely the placing of a toilet in each apartment. We have however, by the arrangement of the light courts, secured rooms with from not less than 85 square feet to as high as 182 square feet. A bathroom is also provided in each apartment, although this is not called for.

"The houses appear from the front to be semi-detached, joined together at the first story, from which the court runs up. The front court is 13 feet wide, 6½ feet being allowed for each house. This width runs back 30 feet. The centre court is 25 feet square, and the rear court is almost a duplicate of the front one. Crotona Park being at the rear, a front view is given to all of the families. The family in the centre has the view from the parlor, which is at the end of the front or rear court.

PROPOSED LEGISLATION OF INTEREST TO OWNERS.

THE interests of a great number of property owners who have invested heavily in buildings of various kinds are being looked after vigilantly by the different organizations comprising the United Real Estate Owners' Associations. Mr. Chas. H. Schnelle, chairman of the Committee on Law and Legislation, was asked by a Record and Guide representative for information regarding the steps taken to protect property owners from measures promoted detrimental to their interests and he said:

"The seven associations comprising the United Real Estate Owners' Associations have been very active in caring for the cause of all owners. They had no less than thirteen representatives at Albany at a heavy expense when the Real Estate Consideration bill was up for a hearing. They have sent letters opposing the Sheridan bill and intend to take action to resist the attempt to make necessary the placing of water meters in private dwellings and apartment houses.

"Water should be as free as air, especially in private dwellings where there are families of limited means. We do not object to the use of meters in business establishments, such as factories but it is unjust to saddle the people with meters in apartment houses, tenements and flat houses. When the act to amend the Greater New York charter in relation to the supply of water by meters comes up the owners will be strongly represented.

"Another question is that of the repair of fire escapes as given in the measure proposed by Senator Grady. It is objected to on the ground that it is vicious and unjust. The reasons given by the associations are quoted as follows:

"'It is indefinite as to the manner of the test to be applied and leaves the matter of the sufficiency of the fire-escape to be passed upon by an inspector who is in a position to vary his tests as may interest him.

"'It creates an additional burden on the owner in creating new positions not required, as the present laws are sufficiently strong to cover matters concerning proper fire escapes.

"'It creates a new crime as the result of the refusal to comply with the arbitrary ruling of an inspector who may be partial, incompetent or otherwise unqualified to pass upon the subject.'"

The six organizations which are working in accord to protect owners are the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th wards, the Taxpayers' Association of the 10th, 11th and 17th wards, the West Side Taxpayers' Association, Inc., the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association Inc., of the 12th and 22d wards, the Harlem Property Owners' Association, Inc., the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the 4th, 6th and 14th wards, and the Eighteenth Ward Taxpayers' Association.

—The Municipal Civil Service Commission, No. 299 Broadway, will receive applications until 4 p. m., Monday, April 13, for the position of inspector of pipe laying, also until 4 p. m., April 9, for the position of inspector of pipes and castings. (No application received at the office of the Commission, by mail or otherwise, after 4 p. m., on April 9, will be accepted.)

WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE LOFT BUILDING.

The commercial value of light is well illustrated in a building which is to be erected in West 21st st, between 5th and 6th avs, in a section that has seen remarkably rapid transformation from residential into wholesale business occupation. Into this quarter—between 14th and 23d sts—has come within a few years lines of trade desirous of being near the retail shopping center, as well as to avail themselves of the highc'ass accommodations which owners and operators are providing.

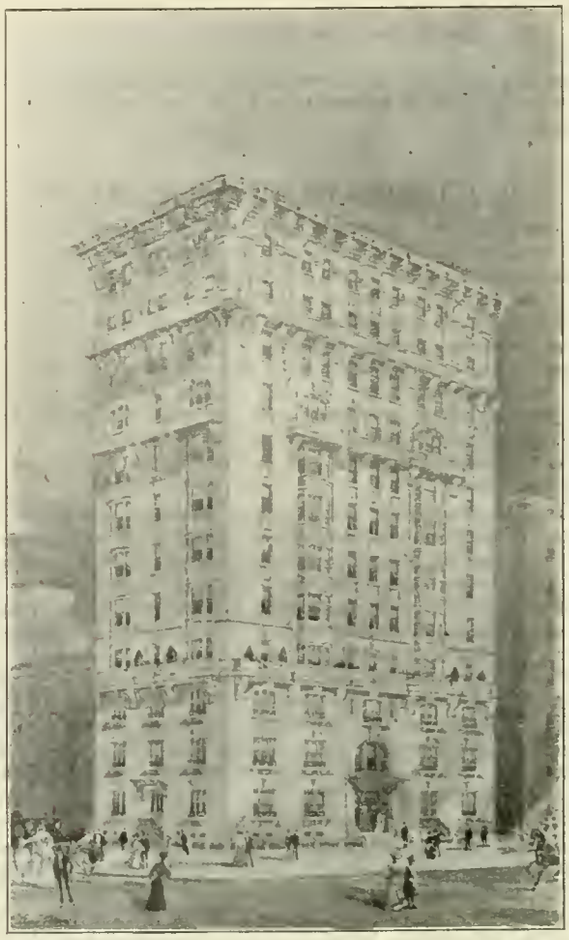
The building figured here is a final development of the type of loft building of moderate size which the latter-day preferences have evolved. The middle and lower sections of the facade have some resemblance to the new Evening Post Building, which was designed by the same architect, but similarly ends at the roof line, where the treatment here suggests certain architectural forms, with cresting for the piers and brackets over the mullions, to be worked out in terra cotta.

Light will be diffused through windows on all four sides for most of the lofts; tops of window frames are carried up flush with ceilings, all of which makes the building as light as any that has been constructed in recent years in this part of the city.



The structure is about to be erected at Nos. 19 to 27 West 21st st by David Spero, occupying a plot 105 ft. by 98.9 and will contain a basement, 105x113.9 ft., store building, 105x98.9 ft., and eleven lofts, 105x90 ft. First-class fireproof construction will be used throughout with the object of minimizing the cost of insurance carried by tenant as well as owner. All side and rear windows, sash and frames will be of metal, with wire glass; thus no wood is exposed to adjoining risks. There are two fireproof stairways and a large fire escape. There are only four columns in the width of the building, spaced 25 ft. apart.

It will be equipped with a mail chute, an automatic fire-sprinkler system and four high-speed electric elevators, two for passenger service and two for freight. Each loft contains one large combination toilet and washroom for women, one large combination toilet and washroom for men, and a small toilet for office employees.

The exterior of the building will be of Indiana limestone and buff brick. The main halls will be handsomely finished in Listavino marble, with mosaic floors. All the interior woodwork is of hardwood. Chas. A. Cowen & Co., 1123 Broadway, have the general contract; the Hay Foundry & Iron Works, 114 East 28th st, have the steelwork; Messrs. Weiskopf & Stern, 68 William st, are engineers, and Robert D. Kohn, 170 5th av, the architect. The cost is estimated at about $750,000.

TENANTS THEIR OWN LANDLORDS.

The 12-story apartment house shown herewith, which was completed recenty has a frontage of 100 feet on Park av and 57 feet on the street. Many regard the building as one of the most ornate and best equipped of its kind in the metropolis, and certainly none is arranged with more regard for the comfort of those who are to dwell within it. Fronting on 61st st are the library, drawing and dining-rooms, while four bedrooms are arranged along the Park av side. The rooms for the servants face the outer court to the west. Into the wall of each apartment are built two iron safes for the storage of silverware and other valuables. In its exterior finish the first three stories are of marble and the rest of white glazed sand blasted terra cotta. The architecture is a rather classic expression of the Renaissance. Tenants of this building are their own landlords. It is owned by what is probably the only incorporated dwelling house number in the city, for the company, which is organized under the laws of the State of New York, is known simply as "No. 540 Park Avenue." It was established by a group of men prominent in financial and professional circles who wished to have homes in New York. Those who constitute the corporation are William J. Matheson, merchant; John E. Borne, banker; George Bullock, electrical machinery; Alfred L. Norris, banker; Arthur Terry, of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.; Herbert Frazier, lawyer; William A. Boring, architect, and A. W. Callison, of the Berkeley School. The total cost of the structure, including the site, was about $600,000. Messrs. Boring & Tilton, were the architects.

RECENT ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BUILDER.

RAPID FACTORY CONSTRUCTION.

By CHARLES M. RIPLEY,
New York City.

A BUILDING contract notable for the time in which it was executed considering the amount of work which had to be done was that of the lamp factory recently finished for the General Electric Company, at Newark, N. J. The building covers an acre, and is one-story high, but the foundations and lower walls were made strong enough for three stories to be added later. On April 24 ground was broken by the contractor, Salmond Brothers Company, Arlington and Newark, N. J., and on May 23 the building was finished and the machinery was being installed. The elapsed time was 29 days, and there was no night or Sunday work, and the skilled labor had a half holiday on Saturdays.

A condition which developed caused the architects to grant the contractor an additional week over the time originally specified, but it was not required. The footings were designed for a depth of 4 ft. 6 in., but because the site had previously been occupied by a tannery and it was necessary to excavate large quantities of tan bark, these footings had to be made 16 ft. deep in places. In spite of this handicap, the work was completed two days ahead of the original contract time without taking advantage of the extra week allowed for the deeper foundations.

The provision in the specifications that the foundations and walls of the first story should be strong enough to allow three additional stories increased the difficulty of the contract. This, with the limitation of the ultimate pressure on the soil to 5,000 lbs. per square foot, made much heavier work necessary than would have been the case on the one-story factory building.

The cost of the factory was approximately $50,000, and in one week of five and a half days the payroll amounted to $6,000. About this time 400,000 bricks were laid in 11 working days, or an average of 36,000 bricks per day. The force included 280 men, under the direction of four mason foremen, four carpenter foremen and four labor foremen. Two timekeepers were continually employed, and one of the contracting firm was always present. When it is considered that no night work was done, it will be seen that the two timekeepers were an extra precaution, showing systematic cost keeping methods.

Aside from the large working force, the factor that probably contributed most to expeditious construction was the purchase of materials locally. The common Jersey hard brick, long-leaf yellow pine, Portland cement, window-frames, trim and, in fact, all materials were purchased in Newark for immediate delivery, and were trucked to the job. It is frankly admitted by the contractors that the response to their personal appeals to local business acquaintances resulting in prompt deliveries, enabled them to accomplish the work in record time, for the season was one in which slow deliveries prevailed on all building materials.

An arrangement that materially helped to hasten the construction of the roof was the allotting of the work to two separate roofing contractors. One employed men from a Newark labor union, and the other men from a Brooklyn labor union. These two gangs worked simultaneously each on one-half of the roof, and the good-natured rivalry between them was largely responsible for completing the work speedily. While this was going on a 4-in. tar concrete floor was being laid. The temporary roof of hemlock, with its final covering and the concrete floor were all finished within four days.

Throughout the factory standard mill construction was used. The girders rest upon post caps of the usual type. The posts are 14x14 in.; the girders, 16x16 in., and the beams 10x16 in. in unfinished size—that is, before planning. The sleepers for the 1¼ in. maple floor are of 3x4 in., long leaf yellow pine embedded in concrete and spaced 18 in. between centers. All mortar was made of lime and Portland cement, and the windows and door sills are of dressed bluestone. Wilson, Harris & Richards, Philadelphia, were the architects.

MODERN APARTMENT IN BRONX.

One of the most impressive apartment houses in the Bronx is the "St. Regis," situated at the southwest corner of Prospect av and 163d st, and owned by the J. F. Meehan Company. It fronts 100 feet on the avenue and 106 feet on the street. It is six stories in height, the first two stories being built of heavy white limestone, carved and moulded, while massive balconies of that material, projecting four feet from the building line, are carried up to the top floor.

These balconies are regarded as one of the strong features of the exterior of the St. Regis, for not only do they provide adequate means of escape from fire, but serve as a shield to the usually unsightly fire ladder. The beauty of their design strongly sets off the background of Harvard brick, uniting the architectural effect into a harmonious and pleasing whole.

As one enters the building he is attracted by the figured marbles, the mosaic floors, and the effective arrangement of mantels and seats. The apartments upstairs are equally attractive and are liberally planned. They vary in size from four rooms and bath to ten rooms and two baths, and are trimmed in red and curly birch, Flemish oak and hazel. A feature of many of the suites is the grouping of the parlor and dining rooms, which are connected with wide openings. The kitchens are equipped with glass lined refrigerators and ventilated garbage receptacles. Among other improvements the apartments are provided with a vacuum-cleaning apparatus, Lowrie wall safes, and electrical attachments for ironing and other purposes.

WHAT THE OWNERS SAY.

"We are proud of the St. Regis," said Secretary Emil Leitner, of the Meehan Company. "Personally, I regard the building as one of the best planned structures of its class in New York City. Its 32 apartments are now bringing from $32 to $100 per month. We were particularly fortunate in acquiring a plot 100x106, for this enabled us to get ten rooms out of a corner apartment, instead of seven, the usual number. Large rooms lend more readily to artistic treatment, which is ever an important consideration."

STRUCTURAL IRON AND STEEL IN NEW YORK.

By JOHN COOPER.

JOHN COOPER.

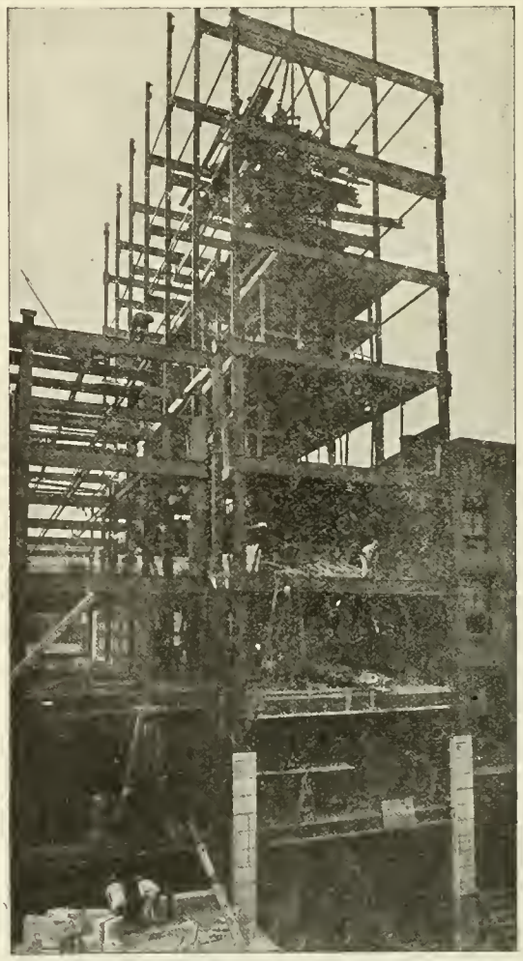
N 1609, less than three hundred years ago, Hendrick Hudson sailed up the river that bears his name, in an endeavor to find a passage to India, and gazed on Manhattan Island covered with virgin forest and glade. His descendants now sail up the same river in steel steamers and look not upon a forest of trees, but a veritable forest of buildings, composed of brick, stone and steel, and reaching skyward far and away beyond the heights of the tallest trees of Hudson's time.

In the earlier history of New York we read that in 1647, the private houses of that period were constructed of boards or logs, with wooden chimneys. The roof and sides being covered with bark or thatch. Ten years later, in 1657, by a city ordinance, thatched roofs and wooden chimneys were ordered removed, and the City Magistrates were authorized to collect from every house, great and small, one beaver or eight florins in wampum ($3.20) for the purpose of procuring two hundred and fifty leathern fire buckets, also hooks and ladders, for use in case of fire.

In 1633 the first church was built on Manhattan Island and was constructed of wood, and stood in Broad street at the junction of Pearl and Bridge streets, and a century later it was still standing, being used as a store and dwelling. In 1642 the first stone church was built, 52 feet by 70 and 16 feet high, and cost $1,000. In this same year was completed a "fine stone tavern" on the northwest corner of Pearl and Coenties alleys, to accommodate travelers from New England and Long Island settlements. The price of building lots at this time, was almost nominal, as we read that in 1643 a lot was conveyed to Anthony Jansen Van Fees for twenty-four guilders ($9.50), located on Bridge street, between Broad and Whitehall, and having a frontage of 30 feet and a depth of 110. This lot was perhaps as valuable as any in the town. After the English occupation we learn that in 1678 the number of houses in New York was 384. The sailing craft belonging to the port consisted of three ships, seven boats and eight sloops, and the total annual revenue of the city did not exceed $10,000. As the city advanced in size, population and importance, bricks and iron were imported for building purposes and the blacksmith and wheelwright added another branch to his business and became also a housesmith, making railings, stoops, balconies, shutters and doors of iron for use in the newer construction.

As time rolled by and the city kept advancing in its requirements, one story iron fronts with rolling shutters to the door and window openings became a usual method. This was followed by entire fronts being made of cast iron, a notable example of the many being the Harper Brothers' publishing house on Franklin square, built in 1854, and still standing. Also A. T. Stewart's, now Wanamaker's, store on Broadway, between 9th and 10th streets, 200 feet in width and 328 feet in depth, built in 1859.

ROLLED IRON SUPERSEDES CAST IRON.



Rolled iron for certain purposes rapidly superseded cast iron, and when steel displaced wrought iron and the price of rolled steel beams cheapened, fireproof buildings multiplied. Up to the time of the Chicago and Boston fires there were but a few private fireproof buildings within the limits of the United States. The chief number of fireproof buildings belonged to the Government. In the first examples of fireproof buildings the floors were formed with groined arches of brick. Beams of cast iron were sometimes used, with arches between the flanges of same, to form floors, and in cases riveted plate beams were used for the same purpose. In 1854 Cooper Hewitt & Co.'s mills at Trenton, N. J., rolled the first solid wrought iron beams ever used for the floors of any building in this country. These beams were of a shape similar to what is now known as deck beams, having a bottom flange, a web and a bulb at the top much resembling a railroad rail, but deeper in the web. These beams were to be used in the Cooper Union Building in New York, but they were diverted by request of the United States Government and used in that year in the U. S. Assay Office building in Wall Street.

The next building in which such beams with brick arches between them were used, was that of the Harper Brothers, publishers, a fireproof building erected that same year. It was the following year, in 1855, that deck beams were used in the Cooper Union building, the very first one for which they were manufactured. A little more than five years later, just prior to 1860 the first I-beams were rolled in this country, Cooper Hewitt & Co.'s Trenton mills and the Phoenix Iron Co. of Phoenixville, Pa., beginning their manufacture about the same time. Elaborate tests of their strength were made by an army officer, Capt. Anderson, who afterward became famous as the defender of Fort Sumpter. The first size made was seven inches and gradually all sizes from four inches up to twenty-four inches were put on the market. The earliest rolled beams commanded a price of 12 cents per pound or $240 per ton. The price today in New York for the same article is $35 per ton. The facility and promptness with which rolled beams can now be obtained, their admirable shape by which the greatest strength is obtained with the least weight of metal, the reasonable price, the preference of architects and engineers to use rolled instead of cast metal when the load imposed tends to separate or is in tension, the concise and simple tables of the bearing strength for the respective sizes and various spans freely circulated by the manufacturers and the growing knowledge of how to build fireproof in a much less expensive manner than was formerly the custom has vastly contributed to the increased amount of rolled steel used in buildings.

came to the front about 1868, when the original Park Bank was constructed, followed by the Equitable Building in 1869. (Afterwards enlarged in 1887.) The next fireproof building of importance was the Drexel Building, corner of Wall and Broad sts, seven stories in height and built in 1872. The Western Union Building at Broadway and Dey st, was the first of the really large office buildings to be erected. It was built in 1873, ten and a half stories in height with a mansard roof. Owing to a fire, which occurred in the upper part of the building some years later, the mansard roof was removed, and the building finished in its present form. About this time the original Tribune Building was started, and for many years was the tallest in the city.

Few fireproof buildings were erected between 1873 and 1878, owing to the business depression following the panic of 1873. But in 1878 the Morse building was built, followed by the original Temple Court in 1878-9, United Bank Building in

STEEL SKELETON CONSTRUCTION.

1880, Mills and Potter Buildings in 1882, Produce Exchange in 1881, Wells' Building, 1881, Western Union Telegraph Building at 23d st and 5th av in 1883, Standard Oil and Washington Buildings in 1884, Aldrich Court in 1886, U. S. Army Building in Whitehall st in 1886-8, and the Consolidated Exchange in 1887. These buildings were all of a fireproof type of construction with solid masonry walls, iron or steel beams and girders and iron or masonry interior supports. The first apartment house was constructed in 1869, but it was not until thirteen years later that fireproof methods were used in the building of the Navarro apartments on 58th and 59th sts and 7th av, followed by the Dakota on West 72d st, Knickerbocker, 28th st and 5th av, Chelsea on West 23d st.

High buildings may be said to have had their start in 1870, and were made possible by the improvements made in the construction of elevators, combined with the rising values of land, making additional floor space in the upper stories of buildings a necessity. With the incoming of high buildings came a safer construction. The requirements of the law necessitated all buildings above six stories in height to be fireproof, and for some years eight or ten stories in height were the rule, as it was not advantageous to go beyond this, because under the law, the extremely thick walls necessary in the lower stories used up the first floor space too much and made foundation costs too high. In 1888-9, however, a new era began, in the designing of what is now known as "skeleton construction" buildings, that is to say, a framework of iron or steel columns and girders, which carry the weight of the outer enclosing brick walls together with the floors down to the foundations at initial points. The first example of this construction in New York is the Tower Building, 50 Broadway, an eleven-story building fronting on Broadway, 21 feet 6 inches, and running back 108 feet in the narrow portion. In order to avoid the necessity of heavy bearing walls, which would at the sidewalk level have been so massive under the then existing building law that the first and lower stories would have been simply a passageway, cast iron columns were used to carry the wall and floor loads, and the masonry work was consequently cut down to a minimum.

This method of construction was so revolutionary to all existing ideas that when a permit from the building department was asked for the matter was referred to the Board of Examiners in the department, a board empowered by law to grant or reject applications in cases where the provisions of the law do not directly apply, or where an equally good or more desirable form of construction is proposed than that required by law. The discussion in the board was very exciting and it was only after two months' debate that a permit was finally issued, the building was commenced June 27, 1888, and finished Sept. 27, 1889. The Tower Building was constructed of cast-iron columns, the usual method adopted in nearly all buildings up to this time where columns were required. But the second building of the "skeleton" type to be erected, the Lancashire Fire Insurance Company Building, was built with Z-bar steel columns on a lot 24 feet wide and 74 feet deep and 10 stories in height. The use of steel columns, enabling the constructors to make riveted connections at all points, thus giving a much stronger, rigid building, and better calculated to withstand wind pressure. This building was commenced in October, 1889, and finished in 1890. Other "skeleton" buildings of greater area and height, followed in rapid succession, among which may be mentioned the Columbia Building, 29 Broadway, the Manhattan Life, seventeen stories, with a height of 242 feet to the main roof, above which a dome and tower rise 108 feet more; the American Surety Building, 21 stories, 312 feet high, the Park Row Syndicate Building, twenty-six stories, 386 feet high, Empire Building, 21 stories, and 300 feet in height.

The new method was so generally adopted after this, that it is now the rule rather than the exception to construct buildings in this manner, so that it is now applied to office buildings, hotels, apartments, schools and in many cases private residences, and to enumerate them in any way would be to practically repeat in a large measure the list of new buildings published in the daily papers.

The increased consumption of steel demanded by the use of steel columns made of Z-bars, angles and plates, or channels and plates, with the usual beam construction, for floors, was very marked. In 1890 the total production of all the rolling mills in the United States, of beams and channels, structural shapes, such as used in building work, did not exceed 100,000 tons, of which New York City did not consume more than 20,000 tons, yet so constant and increasing has the demand been that it is calculated that Greater New York City alone in 1906 contracted for 400,000 tons of steel in the shape of beams, channels, Z-bars, angles, plates and bars, for use in buildings, bridges, tunnels, etc., and the record for 1907 is equally good. To many this statement will seem incredible, that in less than twenty years the consumption would increase 2,000%; but a glance at the tonnage of a few of the more prominent structures will easily convince the sceptical that the statement is not far-fetched. To quote all the structures would be superfluous, but we note below a few of the better known buildings, such as:

American Surety Building, 3,000 tons; Bowling Green Office Building, 5,500 tons; Empire Building, 4,500 tons; Trinity Building, 5,000 tons; U. S. Realty Improvement Company Building, 5,000 tons; Singer Building, 9,000 tons; Singer Building Tower, 8,000 tons; Barclay Building, 3,500 tons; Hotel Belmont, 7,500 tons; Kent Av. Power House, Williamsburg, 6,000 tons; College of the City of New York, 4,000 tons; Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company, Water st, 3,500 tons; apartment house, Central Park West, 73d and 74th sts, 2,500 tons; new headquarters, Police Department, 1,500 tons; Stuyvesant High School, 1,600 tons; Engineers' Club, 1,000 tons; United Engineering Building, 3,000 tons; U. S. Express Company Building, 5,500 tons; Mills Hotel, 35th st and 7th av, 2,000 tons; New York Edison Company, new Waterside Station, 39th st and First av, 12,000 tons; Altman's store, 34th st and Fifth av, 8,000 tons; Post Office Building, Lexington av and 43d st, 7,500 tons; printing house, Charles Scribner's Sons, West 43d st, 2,500 tons; Apthorp Apartments, 81st st and Broadway, 7,000 tons; Hoffman House addition, 24th st and Broadway, 2,000 tons; National Biscuit Company factory, 15th st, 3,000 tons; Abraham & Straus warehouse building, Brooklyn, 3,000 tons; Academy of Music, Brooklyn, 2,500 tons; Trust Company of America, Wall st, 5,000 tons; Lawyers' Title Building, 146 Broadway, 2,000 tons; Piers 3 and 5, North river, 7,000 tons; Piers 60, 61 and 62, North river, 10,500 tons; Silversmith's Building, Maiden lane, 2,700 tons; City Investing Company Building, Broadway and Cortlandt st, 13,000 tons; Metropolitan Tower Building, 8,000 tons; Hudson Terminal Buildings, Cortlandt, Dey and Fulton sts, 28,000 tons; Pennsylvania Railroad Station, 38th st, 50,000 tons; New York City Subway, Manhattan and Bronx, 80,000 tons; Blackwell's Island bridge, 70,000 tons; Manhattan bridge, 65,000 tons; Williamsburg bridge, 45,000 tons.

The extension of the fire limits in New York City, combined with the growing scarcity of lumber, and consequently high price for same, will in years to come make still a further increased demand for fireproof buildings, and if New York grows as rapidly in the next twenty years as it has in the past, the total consumption of structural steel will be something stupendous and past belief. The value of the structural steel, erected in position, contracted for and used in Greater New York alone, during the year 1907 was about $28,000,000, and the number of men engaged in erecting this work, known as "housesmiths and bridgemen," approximated 5,000 with a yearly payroll of nearly $7,000,000.

BULLETIN OF THE TENEMENT HOUSE DEPARTMENT.

Bulletin No. 21:—In new buildings hereafter erected less than four stories in height, and which also do not contain more than four families in all, the department will not require the doors to be omitted from the ends of fire passages. In new buildings hereafter erected four stories or more in height, or containing more than four families in all, no doors will be permitted at the ends of any fire passage except where such passageway extends through the entire length of the cellar as is usually the case where the passageway is provided in the centre of the building. In such latter cases, no lock will be permitted upon the door at the rear of the passageway in the cellar. The door at the front end of the passageway may, however, be provided with a bolt only upon the inside. This order applies to all new buildings in course of construction, and to all plans not yet approved where this question is involved. (For further bulletins from 1 to 22 see issues Oct. 26, Nov. 2, 9, 16, Dec. 21, 28, March 7, 28.)

Larger Autos and Garage Construction.

The rapidly increasing size of automobiles is having its effect on construction work. At present the heaviest auto is under 6,000 pounds, at least as far as builders of garages are aware; but dealers in the horseless carriages are looking ahead to machines double that weight, judging by the size and strength of the elevators being installed in the latest homes for autos. Not long ago the National Elevator Company, 400 West 23d st, put in two elevators, each with a capacity of 8,000 pounds, in Mr. George Bolt's garage, erected by the General Supply and Construction Company, after the design of Architect F. M. Andrew. This was thought at the time to be about enough lifting capacity for all of the machines that would be manufactured for a few years to come. But in the erection of the Knickerbocker garage, just completed at 1618 Broadway, between 48th and 49th sts, the owners showed greater expectations, or were looking farther ahead. The elevators installed by the National Elevator Company have a capacity of 12,000 pounds each. This building was also put up by the General Construction and Supply Company, the plans being those of Architects Marvin & Davis.

MASON BUILDERS' BANQUET.—The first dinner held by the Mason Builders' Association since the eighties was that which took place in the Hotel Astor last Monday evening. Mr. Chas. A. Cowen, the president, officiated. The gathering was pre-eminently an informal social reunion, but some of those present were called upon for a few extemporaneous remarks. About eighty were in attendance, including Mr. Daniel Herbert, an honorary member, who is an octogenarian and one of the oldest of the masons in New York. The officers of the association are as follows: Chas. A. Cowen, president; F. E. Conover, first vice-president; Hugh Getty, second vice-president; Arthur Stone, treasurer; Wm. Foster, secretary.

FIREPROOF RECREATION BUILDING.

THE first fireproof building to be erected at any summer resort in this country solely for recreation purposes is being completed for Mr. Geo. C. Tilyou at Steeplechase Park. The structure was designed by Architect William Albert Swasey, 10 West 33d st, who has charge of its construction. Milliken Brothers, Inc., 11 Broadway, did some unusually fast work in putting up the steel skeleton, despite the unfavorable weather experienced in February. Five engines and ten derricks were constantly in operation, and the construction was rushed so that the amusement palace would be ready when the summer amusements started. The improvements are described as follows:

They will consist of two connected buildings covering an area of 300x700 ft. The main amusement palace will be located on Surf av. This building will have a frontage of 400 ft. by a depth of 190 ft. The average height will be 75 ft., with a central dome rising to a height of 135 ft. above the sidewalk.

This building will be of fireproof construction throughout, designed in modern French Renaissance. All of the exterior surfaces are to be faced with cream glazed terra-cotta, and the roofs with a moss green Spanish tile.

FIREPROOF RECREATION PALACE FOR STEEPLECHASE PARK.

George C. Tilyou, Owner. William Albert Swasey, Architect.

The main entrance will be 60 ft. wide, entering into a rotunda 65x65 ft. under the dome. On the right hand side will be the ballroom, having a floor area of 200x200 ft., with 15-ft. balconies and promenades, with a glass roof 30 ft. from the floor. The central portion of the room will have a palm garden in which will be the band-stand.

THE BALLROOM.

The ballroom itself will be finished in Louis XIV. style, with dull gold decorations. On the right hand side of the rotunda will be a cafe 70x90 ft., finished with dark oak paneling and beamed ceiling in German Renaissance style. The floor will have dull glazed tile, and the room will be connected with the service department in the rear. In addition to the ballroom and cafe, the first floor will have ladies' parlors, and toilet rooms for men and women.

Two broad marble stairways will ascend to the second floor restaurant and ballroom balconies. The restaurant will have a floor space of 70x100 ft., connecting through the service rooms with a kitchen 45x75 ft. In the third floor of the main building there will be 36 sleeping rooms with baths.

On the western end of the front elevation there will be another entrance for pedestrians, automobiles and carriages, extending from Surf av to the end of the landing dock. In the center of the east elevation there will be another large entrance facing the Bowery. This entrance will open directly into the rear pavilion.

This building will have a floor area of 300x450 ft., by a height of 65 ft., and will be fireproof throughout. In this building the new Steeplechase will start and terminate. This Steeplechase will have many new features, such as hurdles, water jumps, tunnel dives, etc., and its unusual size will enable it to accommodate enormous crowds with ease.

At the south end of the pavilion will be two large swimming pools, the upper one having an elevation of 40 ft. from the floor, with a waterfall to the lower one arranged so that the bathers can go over the falls with safety and amusement.

The ground floor will be divided off into every known device for the amusement of the public, and every convenience for its comfort and safety will be installed.

The building will be lighted from its own plant, it being the intention of the owners to have the exterior and interior a blaze of electric lights, and the main palace will be heated and used throughout the winter.

The contracts for the work were awarded to the P. J. Carlin Construction Co., at a cost of, approximately, one million dollars. The amusement palace is to be finished by May 1, 1908, and the front palace the year following.

LIGHTING HAS ITS PROBLEMS.

"There are many who do not readily grasp the advantages to be secured in having the lighting problems in large buildings submitted to a specialist in this work," remarked Mr. Arthur A. Ernst, president and general manager of the Bureau of Illuminating Engineering, when asked by a Record and Guide representative to explain some of the features of this comparatively new branch in construction work.

"I find that the idea is best brought out by using the garden hose as an illustration. When a lawn is to be watered it is not alone necessary to merely use so much water, but it must be properly distributed. In some places just a light sprinkling is required, in other places more is needed.

"So with the light. It is largely a problem of distribution. When lights are installed it is not a question of how much can be secured for a certain amount of money, but rather how it can be distributed in such a way that just as much as is needed in a particular place and no more is secured. Sometimes a flood of light is required, sometimes it should be subdued. Experience shows that the same candlepower can be used in two places, if the proper arrangements are made before the lights are installed."

The question of obtaining the advice of an illuminating engineer when a large sum is to be expended in lighting is attracting more attention, even in connection with government work.

No compromise has been effected between the fire brick and paving brick interests. From indications there will be a merry row for some time over the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission that a "brick is a brick." The paving brick interests will soon have a chance to have their complaint heard. They will endeavor to show the commission that it erred in its finding that there should be no difference in brick rates.

TALKS WITH THE OWNER OF THE BUILDING.

A DWELLING AT LOWEST COST.

ARCHITECT GIVES INFORMATION TO HOME BUILDERS.

FAMILIES could save the speculative builder's profit if they would build their own homes instead of buying them already built. They save themselves personal effort and some little trouble by not building, but are under a wrong impression if they think they are not capable of undertaking such a task and carrying it to a successful conclusion.

More would build if they understood definitely what they could get for their expenditure. This is information they could easily obtain from an architect who has had experience in the neighborhood where they think of settling. There are architects who make a specialty of small dwellings and understand local conditions. Their advice and services are worth far more than the small fee they charge.

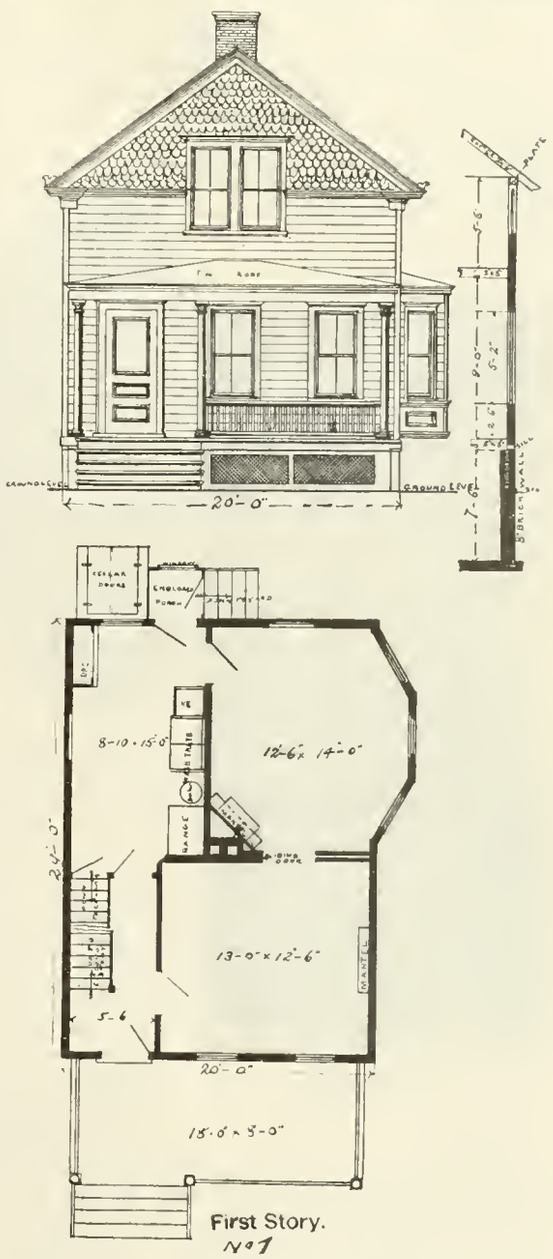
If all the heads of families who desire to build and can command the means were to undertake it this spring, there would be an end to dull times in the building trades. It is with the object of giving some plain information to plain people as to what they can actually get a small house for in or near New York that we have asked an architect of long experience to tell in as few words as he can, and to illustrate by picture plates, the lowest prices that homes can be built for in the suburbs.

In this issue Mr. Thomas Graham shows a cottage that could be erected in the Bronx or Westchester county for $1,855, which is exclusive of the cost of the site. It is a house that would appeal to many, when set in a good neighborhood. In after years it could be added to and improved, and if well located and on a large plot it is a house that would always be marketable at more than its cost. In the next article Mr. Graham will describe a dwelling of eight rooms costing $3,000. The estimates of cost can be depended on—as we are assured by at least one responsible building firm.

By Thomas Graham.

PLAN NO. 1—FOR A SIX-ROOM COTTAGE.

When we mean to build,
We first survey the plot, then draw the model!
And when we see the figure of the house
Then must we rate the cost of the erection!
Which if we find outweighs ability,
What do we then but draw anew the model
In fewer offices, or at least desist
To build at all? —Shakespeare.



The plans illustrating this article are for a dwelling-house one and one-half stories in height, containing six rooms, with a bath room. The estimated cost is correct, as the house has been built for the sum hereafter stated. The quotation from Shakespeare given above covers nearly all points. I now add the following remarks to assist builders of homes to avoid mistakes:

THIS HOUSE WAS BUILT FOR $1,500.

In building the cellar walls, keep as much out of the ground as possible; put in plenty of cellar windows. Cellar walls can be built of brick, stone or concrete. If stone is available, use stone laid in cement mortar.

When building the frame make everything weather-tight. Cover first with rough boards well nailed, then apply a good building paper. Put on the siding or weather boards, nailed and fitted tight everywhere. Plaster and make tight around sills in cellar and in all other parts of house, which is very important. If no public sewer is provided, build a cesspool at the extreme rear of the lot, and connected by a house drain, properly trapped. Supply tubs and sink in kitchen with running water. If there is no water supply, have a pump on the kitchen sink to use the well or other supply water. If the bathroom is omitted a water-closet must be built outside. Run off the rain water; don't connect with cesspool. The plan submitted is made to build a good, neat dwelling on a lot 25x100 feet. If fences are required, wire frames and driven posts are the best and cheapest.

ONE WAY OF DEVELOPING IN SIDE STREETS.

It appears to be a perplexing problem among owners of old side street dwellings in the 42d st section just what is best to be done with their holdings at this time. While many are content to await developments, not a few of the large number of recent purchasers in that locality incline to the belief that the time is becoming ripe for the building of modern loft structures to accommodate the expected overflow from 5th av, and with this end in view preliminary sketches are being prepared for several projects of that character.

Some of the more venturesome property owners have already taken the inititative, and recently there was completed at 36 to 38 West 37th st a 10-sty loft building with a large basement and pent house for Thomas R. Ball, of Best & Co. Its construction is extra heavy throughout, and in adhering to solidity and safety the artistic effect was not lost sight of. The front is of granite and limestone, and the interior is trimmed with hardwood. The dimensions of the plot are 51x98.9, and the depth of the lower floor of the building is 95 feet. The chief features consist of unusually high ceilings, which insure excellent light and, what is equally important, good ventilation; a modern low-pressure steam heating plant; lavatories on each floor; two A. B. See electric freight and passenger elevators and an up-to-date fire sprinkler system. In additon to the improvements enumerated the building is also equipped with reel fire hose and a fire department connection on the sidewalk. These appliances not only assure safety to tenants, but meet all requirements of underwriters, and enable occupants to secure minimum rates on insurance.

BALL REALTY COMPANY BUILDING, No. 38 West 37th Street.

In alluding to the wisdom of the undertaking Mr. Ball recently said that although he regarded the operation as a speculation, he had no fear as to the outcome, more particularly since the site was acquired at a most reasonable figure. "Thirty-seventh st has greatly benefited by my improvement," he said, "and as other owners are likely to follow suit values are sure to enhance quickly. I believe that side street property adjacent to leading avenues in that locality offers splendid opportunities for improvement at this time. It is only necessary to go through the side thoroughfares between 34th and 42d sts to fully appreciate the weight of my argument. The trend of business of an especially high class is seeking quarters within those limits, and the location is convenient to all outlets of travel. It must be borne in mind that the leading business houses are only beginning to occupy quarters along 5th av, and their presence means that hundreds of smaller merchants, such as ladies' tailors, millinery establishments and custom boot makers must eventually occupy the side street lofts in that zone in order to keep their trade. The benefits that will accrue to owners of well planned loft buildings in these cross streets is therefore apparent. My building was constructed with a due regard to the peculiar requirements of merchants of the class mentioned and I am sure that my judgment will be vindicated in this respect."

—Those interested in reinforcing will find useful information in the recent publication of "Truss Method of Reinforcement," by the Truss Metal Lath Company, 147 Fourth av, New York City. A partial list of the buildings in which this system was used is given, as well as detailed explanations of the advantages of the method. The additional uses to which truss reinforcement is put besides the purely constructive work in buildings is shown.

Manhattan Mercantile Property as an Investment.

By FRANCIS E. WARD.

"The rich also have their troubles," said an opulent English Bishop to a needy layman: "It is almost impossible for me to combine an adequate return of interest with a perfectly safe investment."

Now that the financial storm has subsided, general account may be taken of the disaster and a fine opportunity is given the investor and speculator to determine whether for the future he will put his money in land or water.

FRANCIS E. WARD.

Those who have invested indirectly in water know how easily it evaporates, and when securities are squeezed how it fairly pours forth, leaving a very dry residuum to contemplate!

It was only a poor sailor who, unconscious of his own danger in a storm at sea, said: "God help the people ashore with the chimney pots falling on them!" We who are ashore, even those who are left high and dry, when we survey the results of the recent unpleasantness, must conclude that the flotsam and jetsam show that the greater disasters have been by water, and that little harm has come to realty, and especially to Manhattan mercantile property. Perhaps there is no other investment in the world so conservative.

New York being a commercial city, the housing of its commerce is of primary importance. Our particular Island of Manhattan being one of the greatest of the world's markets or distributing points, the produce of the ground and the products of reaper, mill and bobbin must be dealt in on the spot, while those who deal in them may be housed across the rivers.

As the living must be fed and clothed before they are sheltered, mercantile realty which provides for the first two of the three primary necessities for mankind, always shall be first in demand and therefore the most conservative and the surest income producing property available, whether warehouse or factory, stores and lofts or office buildings.

Of course, appropriateness of location determines the class of mercantile buildings desirable in any particular section, and Broadway, the world's greatest artery for commerce, has place for all.

Generally it will be found that the nearer to the source of production the material is that is to be housed the simpler the structure needed and the more conservative the property; and, conversely, the nearer to the consumer the more complex is the structure required and the more speculative the property. Thus along Broadway one will find many buildings running through to adjoining streets with stores and basements devoted to display of goods and the lofts above used for storage and warehouse purposes. Then come the modern stores and loft buildings, a good example of which covers the site of the old New York Hotel, where passenger and freight elevators run to all floors, and lofts of the highest class are well fitted for wholesale trade. Nor is it now uncommon to find factories of most modern equipment occupying lofts in the best districts and paying as high as 75 cents per square foot for space.

The least conservative of mercantile properties are those in the heart of the retail trade, where the highest rents are obtained. There the owner assumes far greater risks with his tenants who cater to spendthrifts—for when business is prosperous high rents are paid and when business fails the tenants fold their tents and steal away! Yet one investor whose spectacular purchases of highest priced realty have been in the most fashionable section claims that he can be three-fourths wrong in his buying and yet make money, so great is his faith in Manhattan realty.

No safer investment can be made than by direct purchase of income-producing mercantile property on Manhattan Island unless it be by direct investment in the same in bond and mortgage. The former has the attraction of increasing value and the latter of absolute security.

As the desirability of such investment must now be apparent to the investing public we should look forward to an active market in the near future and a plenitude of money for mortgage loans.

SIDE STREET PROPERTY BENEFITED BY OFFICE BUILDING.

Owners of property in 27th and 28th sts, between 4th and Madison avs, have reason to be pleased with a substantial improvement now being completed at 125-127 East 27th st, running through to 122-124 East 28th st. It consists of an 8-sty central office building for the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations. The structure in question marks the advent of the first modern office building in the immediate neighborhood, and its effect on the value of surrounding property has already caused a rise in lot prices in that vicinity.

Secretary Fred. B. Shipp, when asked why the International Committee selected a site on the East Side for its permanent home, said that there was no particular reason, except that a plot such as it required was for sale in that locality, and its convenience to the 28th st subway station and other transportation lines was an attraction.

"We required considerable space for our growing departments, and in order to do more effective work it appeared necessary to construct an office building especially suited to the needs of its members and secretaries. Ours is the largest office building in America owned and occupied by a religious organization. Each floor in the new structure is different from the others.

"The main entrance is in 28th st. On the first floor is a large reception room and general office. The upper stories are partitioned off as required, no uniform arrangement being observed. In all there are about 125 offices in the building, including a large library. The trim throughout is of selected hardwood rubbed and polished, the principal rooms being trimmed in mahogany. Included in the many conveniences are dumb waiters, alcove drinking fountains, open fireplaces, a high pressure steam heating plant and four A. B. C. electric elevators. Our new headquarters is eight stories in height, of brick, granite, terra cotta and steel, covering a plot about 40x197.6. The cost of our plot was $135,000, and the building stands us about $350,000."

The committee consists of 80 members, organized in fourteen departments. Edward Corning is the contracting builder. He has also received the contract for the Y. M. C. A. building at Long Island City.

IDEAS OF AN OWNER-BUILDER

Paterno Bros., builders, have been identified with apartment house construction in the section around Columbia College for some years past. Joseph Paterno said the other day: "In the first place we always try to select a central spot. We believe in putting up a good substantial house, for we find that they are more readily rented. For some years past we have been constructing apartments with an open court in front. There are several advantages in this sort of a structure. It does away with inside courts, you gain the first story entrance hall, the rooms that open on that court are in a measure facing the street, which is a decided advantage.

"We are at present constructing an elevator house at 606 West 116th st. This building will have every modern convenience. There will be cedar closets in every apartment, the vacuum-cleaning system will be installed, and we have gone so far as to put in a double set of boilers in case of accident and a drying plant in the basement. There are no inside rooms. Every room will have light and air."

This firm recently completed two 10-sty high-class apartment houses on this block, about 250 ft. west of Broadway. They are on a lot 75x100 and are built to a depth of 83.6 ft. They are of light brick and limestone trim. The estimated cost was $400,000. There is a commanding view of the Hudson River and the Palisades from these buildings. Every endeavor has been made to incorporate in the building all practical features used in high-class private dwellings. The apartments consist of five, six and seven rooms and baths, with servants' toilets, and are so ingeniously arranged as to secure excellent light and air to all rooms. Every room is of good proportions with plenty of closet room. The comfort of the tenant has been this firm's objective point. In many buildings this has been sacrificed to the demands of the architect. Very fine woods enter into the scheme of decoration, but only when their beauty is not a menace to safety.

TWO-FAMILY HOUSES POPULAR IN EAST BRONX

Two-family houses in the East Bronx are now considered one of the features in that zone, although it may be said that they are to be found in greater numbers in some of the older parts of the borough. Builders affirm that the demand for good buildings of the type mentioned will soon exceed the supply, and even at the present time better prices are being obtained for them than formerly.

Among the most substantially built buildings of the 2-family order recently undertaken in the Bronx, those erected on Faile st, near Westchester av, by the American Real Estate Company, are worthy of comment. The houses are three stories in height, with finished basements. They contain nine rooms and bath in the lower apartments on the first and second floors, and six rooms and bath on the third floor. The fronts are of brick, but by varying colors each house is different from the other, the entire row of twenty-two presenting a pleasing appearance. The interior finish is white enamel with mahogany doors in the parlors and Flemish oak in the dining-rooms, with paneled wainscoting and beamed ceilings. A prominent Bronx builder in commenting on their structural features recently said that they probably represented the best type of 2-family dwelling yet designed.

It is the consensus of opinion of those best informed on the subject, that the 2-family domicile is, particularly for the person of limited means, the ideal form of real estate investment.

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING—3.

Many of the notable buildings in New York came from the hands of the master builder who has been chosen for the subject of these brief notes, Mr. Richard Deeves, of the firm of Richard Deeves & Son. The first building for which Mr. Deeves was a contractor was situated in Water st. It was built for Scudder & Carter, who were then very well known lawyers. Mr. Deeves started on this building as a contractor on the 11th of March, in the year 1869, or 39 years ago.

RICHARD DEEVES.

This makes him one of the very oldest builders in the city. He learned the trade of masonry, which then included plastering, with George S. Dixon, who was one of the best builders of that era in New York. Early in his business career Mr. Deeves built the Fulton-Municipal Gas Works in Brooklyn, which led to his doing a large amount of work in that line. He put up the first buildings for the Equitable Gas Company, buildings for the Kings County Gas Company, and various other gas works, notably the first concrete gas tank built in this country.

This concrete gas tank was 200 feet in diameter and 46 feet deep. Mr. Deeves was granted a patent by the Government on the centering and forms which he used on this job in order to perform the work in a safe and economical manner. Mr. Deeves has had two other patents issued to him that he has used in his business,—one a patent scaffold that has saved him a large amount of money, and the other for a system of concrete arches, which he used in the construction of the Manhattan Storage Warehouse, at the corner of Lexington av and 42d st, which Mr. Deeves built, and which he considers the nearest approach to an absolutely fireproof building in the country.

If we were to name only the principal buildings which Mr. Deeves has erected the list would be long. He has built hundreds, large and small. The Navarro, or Central Park apartment buildings, the Manhattan Life Building and the Mutual Reserve Building were all very notable works in their time, and all were built by Mr. Deeves. Often he has been called to erect buildings in other cities, and the Stuart Memorial Hall, at Princeton, is the result of one of these contracts.

Apart from his private business Mr. Deeves has been active in large public affairs. He was one of the commissioners appointed by Mayor Strong to build the Williamsburgh bridge, and during Mr. Deeves' term they laid out the route, bought the land, adopted the plans and specifications and gave out several of the contracts. They saved over $360,000 from the chief engineer's estimate on three contracts. Several laws relating to buildings have been put on the statute books through the instrumentality of Mr. Deeves, the present mechanics' lien law being one of these. It is also recalled that he was a member of that "Committee of Seventy," which some years ago headed a notable political movement.

Mr. Deeves is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade and the Arkwright, Engineers' and Republican Clubs. For some years he was an officer in the 12th Regiment. He has a country seat at Hollywood, as well as a city home.

—Mr. A. L. A. Himmelwright, of the Roebling Const. Co., has issued a very useful and handy pocket-size volume of 157 pages on practical information about pistol and revolver shooting. The historical side of this subject is brought to light and there is a great deal of interesting matter for both marksman and amateur. Mr. Himmelwright is president of the U. S. Revolver Association, director and life member of the New York State Rifle Association, and is connected with several prominent organizations interested in pistol and revolver marksmanship.

WOULD BENEFIT BUILDING INSPECTORS.

Association of Inspectors of Masonry and Construction of the City of New York.

New York City, March 27, 1908.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

A bill has been introduced by Assemblyman Schulz, which bill is known as Assembly Bill 1573, the object of the bill being for the regulating of salaries and compensation of the inspectors having supervision over the construction of public improvements paid for out of public money.

As attorney for the above association I submit the following information so that you might appreciate the status of the inspectors affected by the proposed bill and their rights in the matter.

I feel that there is abundant proof in the extracts for the past several years to show that the position of Inspectors of Masonry and Construction has been sadly neglected.

Considering the substantial increase in the salaries of the several employees of the cities in this State and most particularly the salaries of the engineers in general in this State, and the increase of all labor, skilled and unskilled, and the very small increase granted to the Inspectors of Masonry and Construction, I feel that I am justified in declaring that this position has been very much slighted in the matter of compensation for the service rendered, and is a matter of very serious import to the taxpayers inasmuch as it tended to lower the status of position in the eyes of contractors, their superintendents and foremen. It is not unusual to hear a foreman twit an inspector about the small wage he receives for the services rendered. Well he may! for he knows there is not a private corporation in America that would think of offering men with the ability an inspector is required to possess the salary an inspector at present receives.

You are aware of the fact that an inspector is put to a severe test as to his ability by the Civil Service Commission before he can enter the service. This alone would warrant the same consideration in the matter of compensation, increase of the same, as others increase and the benefit of other privileges now denied them.

The duties of an inspector are very exacting. They are held responsible for the structural value of the work they supervise, must see that lines, grades and elevations are observed; determine the proper quality of work and material and often stand as a buffet for warring factions of engineers.

One other point I wish to call to your attention is the fact that under the present Civil Service rules inspectors can be transferred to any of the departments employing inspectors, which means that with different conditions existing in different departments a man following the position of inspector is subjected to changes which are often disagreeable and sometimes humiliating.

Private corporations are constantly drawing men from the position of Inspector of Masonry and Construction, and are paying them good salaries. Why not hold such men?

It is the duty of the heads of the various departments to pay their various employees as defined by the labor law a compensation of not less than the prevailing rate of wages. Under Section 56 of the Greater New York Charter, the heads of the several departments are given discretion as to the salary or compensation paid to an inspector.

This bill endeavors to take away from the heads of the several departments where inspectors are employed the discretionary power which has been so much abused by the heads of the several departments.

It further endeavors to put all inspectors on an equal basis, and if found worthy they should be treated alike and paid accordingly, and only the prevailing rate of wages taken into consideration.

For several years past whenever a holiday fell on Friday the Board of Aldermen have voted two days off for all city employees with pay. Per diem laborers, per diem mechanics, monthly and yearly engineers and clerks, monthly inspectors, office boys and messengers have been allowed the two days off with pay. But the per diem inspectors have not. Why Inspectors of Masonry and Construction are made subjects of discrimination is hard to fathom. One other privilege denied per diem inspectors is the annual vacation granted to almost every person in the city employ, notwithstanding the fact that inspectors devote every minute of the working day to the work at which they are engaged.

The Association of Inspectors of Masonry and Construction has for the past five years made repeated endeavors to obtain an equalization of salaries and compensation for their services from the heads of the several departments wherein they are employed, by appeals to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen of the City of New York, but all without avail. Consequently they appeal to the State Legislature to give them equalization of salaries and fair compensation which they have not, after due efforts, received from the city government.

The bill provides for no greater salary than many of the inspectors employed by the city are receiving at the present time.

HARRY ROBITZEK,
Attorney for Association, 132 Nassau st, New York City.

THE MAN ON THE STREET.

KEEP your eye to windward, and sometimes you'll see quick wits and labor-saving devices which astonish one.

Coming across Madison av a day or so ago I saw one of the workers dragging around a long guide line attached to a "skip" many stories above the sidewalk, and suspended from a derrick on the tower of the Metropolitan Life Building. It was heavy, but he was "on his job." Along came a brewery wagon with two stout percherons and a sleepy driver. Our man took two turns of his line around the hub of the hind wheel, and with this improvised winch, 2 horsepower, dragged around his boom. The driver slept, the horses plodded on, two brawny arms were saved a pull, and the Hedden Co. were ahead several cents saved in time and labor.

Even the most pessimistic amongst us must feel a gleam of hope breaking through the over-clouded sky of professional practice when we consider two recent chronicles of the daily press. The first is in the New York Sun of recent date, and in nearly two columns on a prominent page, where is related the pathetic end of John L. Smithmeyer, architect, who with his partner, Paul J. Pelz, designed the marvelous plan of our Congressional Library at Washington, and who after a most scandalous intrigue on the part of the back-stairs politicians was deposed and relegated to temporary obscurity by corrupt influences.

Thus runs this article as a beginning of the recognition this man should have received ere he had passed into the great beyond:

"A man died all but forgotten on Thursday morning in a hospital in Washington who only about a score of years ago had set the Congress of the United States at loggerheads for weeks, whose name then filled the columns of the newspapers of the country and whose work is to be associated with the history of the nation for unnumbered years.

"He gave the best years of his life to the accomplishment of a really great work for the United States, his adopted country, and on his death was dismissed with a paragraph of obituary notice as one of the innumerable throng who pass to the pale realms of shade through the hospital door. His name was John L. Smithmeyer, and neither the fact that he was born in Austria nor the fact that he was 76 years old had the slightest interest for the American public, but he and his partner were the men who under the bounty of Congress gave to the United States one of the few public buildings of which the country is proud."

A careful consideration of the case follows, in which the actions of many are condemned, and a history in brief of the aftermath is given, including the law suit by which Smithmeyer and Pelz sought to secure justice's decree. This they did de jure, but not de facto, for Congress never had manhood enough to pay the claim as awarded by the court.

Smithmeyer will lie mouldering in the grave, but his soul, like John Brown's, will go marching on, in perhaps a smaller cause, but yet large enough to make us pause in contemplation. The building of a monumental structure is of no small moment to a great people, and if it be conceived in sin and executed in iniquity for the lasting shame of our memory to posterity, sad indeed is it. The Library seems to have been conceived in the right spirit, but surely the part which pertained to its pioneer designers was ignoble enough in the treatment which they received.

The other event is also in connection with a public building—the State Capitol at Harrisburgh, Penn. The same date brings news of the conviction of four of the "grafters." Though this does not necessarily mean punishment, for the meshes of the law in cases of this kind are sometimes very coarse, still in a State in which for years a certain element have practically defied law and its visitation upon the evil-doer, it is such a revelation of the workings of the forces for good that we can well rejoice.

The dangers to passing pedestrians from buildings being erected are omnipresent. Going along the street a day or so ago, the Man on the Street received a blow on the side of the head and a cloud of dust enveloped his cherubic head like a technical nimbus. When it had subsided he looked on the sidewalk and found that the subject of which his head was the objective was a piece of canvas such as is used by stone men to prevent slipping in hoisting. The contractors for this building are of high class and have taken every available precaution. In addition to the usual overhead bridge there is a scaffold running out 15 ft. high above the other. It was proposed to protect the entire street by an extension of the sidewalk bridge, but the opposite side of the street is occupied by a church. The next building is owned by the corporation building the structure. It is asserted that the "property owners objected" to this safeguard, which would permit the man on the street and others to go about their business without the danger of having their lives snuffed out like blowing out a candle. Suppose this canvas had been a brick, a board, a bolt or rivet, the head of a sledge or any of the small yet rapidly moving things that may fly off a high building at any moment. One can watch a heavy section of steel being hoisted or a piece of stone, but how about these others?

OTHER PEOPLES' IDEAS AS THEY APPEAR IN COMMERCIAL PRINT

STATISTICS OF CEMENT PRODUCTION.

THE cement industry is one of the most individulalistic in building materials, and the impossibility of controlling the aggregate output was made plain to every one in 1907. The supply of limestone and clay cannot be cornered. Mr. Edwin C. Eckel, in his review of the industry for the Government, says that it is essentially one in which brains and money are far more important than raw materials, and consequently cement plants with intelligently directed capital will rapidly increase in size, while poorer or ill-managed plants either remain stationary or expand very slowly. This of itself operates to cause a gradual concentration of interest; the stronger plants grow at the expense of the weaker.

Most of the larger companies which now produce the bulk of the American cement output were originally concerns of only average size. Their growth has taken place in a natural manner, not by the absorption of competitive plants, but by using part of the profits of the business to increase the size of the original plant. In a strongly held and well-managed company this course of action is possible. In a company less strongly owned or less intelligently directed the tendency is always to sacrifice the prospects of ultimate success to the certainty of immediate returns. A company owned by a number of small stockholders can rarely withstand the pressure to pay out all the profits of an unusually prosperous year as dividends.

The larger company, growing by accretion, has also a certain advantage in the matter of advertising its products. When a new plant is established by an old company there is no difficulty in introducing the cement from the new plant, for it sells under an already well-known brand name, and has behind it the accumulated prestige of all the older plants.

Before the close of the year it was predicted by some manufacturers that the total output of Portland cement in the United States during the year 1907 would reach 55,000,000 bbls. But an estimate by the Government in February of this year (see Record and Guide February 22), based on returns from 95 per cent. of the mills, was 48,000,000 bbls. as the output of the last calendar year. Plants completed in 1907 provided a heavy increase in mill capacity, so that the existing facilities have now a total capacity of 60,000,000 bbls. annually. Mr. Eckel's opinion is that probably not more than two-thirds of this total capacity can be operated profitably in this year. Only when business affairs are in a generally prosperous state will it be possible to absorb the whole output of which the mill capacity of the country is capable.

The increase for 1905 over 1904 was above 8,000,000 barrels in quantity and $9,000,000 in value; but the gain of 1906 as compared with 1905 was $10,898,137 barrels of cement in quantity and $19,370,744 in value. The gain in production of 1907 over 1906 is less than 2,000,000 barrels, and the gain in value will be found to be comparatively slight.

The total production of cement in 1906 was 51,000,445 barrels, valued at $55,302,277; the total production in 1905 was 40,102,308 barrels, valued at $35,931,533.

The prices at which cement was sold in 1906 were higher than those which prevailed in 1905, and lower in 1907 than in 1906.

The following table is designed to show the quantity and value of the Portland cement made in those States which were producers in 1904, 1905 and 1906:

The following table is designed to show the yearly increase in the production of Portland cement in the United States, the fluctuations in natural cement, and the variations in imports for consumption of hydraulic cements into this country since 1901:

The puzzolan cement production, which is not included in this table, is as follows: 1901, 272,689 barrels; 1902, 478,555 barrels; 1903, 525,896 barrels; 1904, 303,045 barrels; 1905, 382,447 barrels; 1906, 481,224 barrels.

NATURAL CEMENT.

For a number of years the natural cement industry has been retreating. It has fluctuated between a production of 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 barrels from 1900 to 1904, when it fell to a little more than 4,500,000. In 1905 it decreased to a little less than 4,500,000, and in 1906 it stood at just above the 4,000,000 mark.

It seems unlikely that this form of cement making will ever revive to a very marked extent, because, although there will always be work for which natural cement can be used with perfectly satisfactory results, and there are many who, understanding how to use it to the best advantage, and having had long acquaintance with the reliability of certain brands, will continue to use them. In 1907 quotations for natural cements continued uniform during the year.

DERRICK HAS TWO THOUSAND FEET OF CABLE.—Approximately 2,000 feet of cable are being used now on each of the derricks to raise material for the construction of the tower of the Metropolitan Building. The derricks are on the 34th floor, about 450 feet above the street level, and three cables are attached to each, extending to the street. With some 500 feet surplus to facilitate the work of hoisting the heavy beams and marble the total amount of cable required for each derrick is about 2,000 feet, or 4,000 feet for both. The derricks will be raised one or two floors at a time, until they are about 600 feet from the street level, when probably the longest cable ever used for such purposes will be required.

The sending skyward of the 20 and 30 tons of material becomes more and more of an attraction every day and there is a constant crowd of onlookers watching the loads ascend almost to the disappearing point. The Hedden Construction Company, the builders, aim at having the first eleven floors of the tower ready for occupancy May 1.

THE CONSTRUCTION REVIEW OF REVIEWS-WHAT CURRENT PERIODICALS ARE TALKING ABOUT THE KRUPP WORKS AT RHEINHAUSEN.

FAMOUS for their military equipment yet active in the art of peace are the extensive works of the firm of Friedrich Krupp, of Essen, Germany, on the left bank of the Rhine, opposite the town of Duisburg-Hochfeld. With large iron ore interests in Spain and elsewhere, while considerable quantities are drawn from other foreign ore deposits, the location on the Rhine permits the assembling of materials at low cost. The first complete technical account of it was not published until October, 1907, in Stahl und Eisen, to which the American press are indebted for the following facts:

Building of the works occupied three periods. From 1896 to 1898 three blast furnaces of 400 cu. m. capacity were built. During 1903 to 1905 three additional blast furnaces were constructed, followed by a steel plant and rolling mill and the accessory shops. A fourth blast furnace was put up in 1906. The plant, therefore, now consists of seven blast furnaces, with a capacity of about 700,000 tons of pig iron per annum, a basic Bessemer steel plant with a basic open hearth plant and a rolling mill.

Parallel to the central line of the blast furnaces a harbor has been built for the ore ships, and from its docks the products of the plant are loaded to be shipped by water.

The discharge of ore is taken care of by eight unloaders, four of which were built in the United States, this having been the first installation of cranes of this type in Germany. Four other unloaders were built in Germany. Under ordinary circumstances they deliver the ore into pockets located in front of the furnaces, but they can also serve tracks from the ships. They can also load ore from the ore pockets and from the ore storage yards into cars on standard tracks, which are parallel to the harbor wall.

The annual consumption of ore amounts to about 1,600,000 tons. A part of the supply is produced in Sweden and in Spain and there are also added to the burden cinder drawn from the firm's own works and from other sources.

To supply the blast for the furnaces in operation there are now 14 double gas blowing engines and four vertical steam blowing engines.

A compressor plant is provided for each of the gas blowing plants, which provides the necessary pressure for starting the engines.

An electric central station for power and light furnishes current for the whole plant and for the houses of officers and workmen. Four large generators are coupled with double acting tandem four cycle motors and two large generators are driven by two Oechelhauser engines. The six large gas engines furnish normally 1,000 HP. each, running at 100 revolutions per minute.

The pig iron produced by the furnaces is delivered by steam locomotive in cars carrying 30 to 35 tons to the mixer at the basic Bessemer steel plant. The iron from the mixers is hauled by an electric locomotive to the basic steel plant, is weighed and is directly tipped into the converters. The four converters, each of 25 tons capacity, are located in a building which contains besides the converter platform, a platform for charging scrap and limestone.

Immediately adjoining the cast house is the open-hearth plant. The ingots, chiefly basic Bessemer steel, are taken to the pit shop of the rolling mill and there placed in the pits by electric cranes. They are then lifted from the pits and placed upon hydraulically operated tippers of the electrically driven rollers of the two blooming mills, sheared by steam hydraulic shears, delivered by rollers for shipment, or they are rolled down and forwarded by electrically driven rollers to the three-high trains. There they are rolled down to heavy rails, to beams of standard sections and channels.

The works are supplied with an elaborate pumping plant, with a foundry, repair shop and testing and chemical laboratories. The Krupp Company has provided at the Rheinhausen plant a workmen's village which contains 165 3-room, 230 4-room, 30 5-room and 11 6-room cottages. Unmarried workmen are provided for in three sleeping houses, with a total of 530 beds, a large dining house serving them. At the present time there are about 4,500 workmen and 400 officials.

INVESTIGATION OF STEEL AND STRUCTURAL MEMBERS.

In view of the recent report on the failure of the Quebec bridge and the building in New York of some colossal office buildings with large column sections, and yet to be determined abnormal wind stress, the investigation of steel and structural members by the engineering fraternity is interesting. Several months ago a meeting attended by about 25 consulting engineers and representatives of leading consuming and manufacturing interests was held at the Engineers' Club, New York City, with a view of determining the most desirable programme for the initiation of the proposed investigation. One session was devoted to a discussion of metallurgical questions applying to ingot structure, blooms, billets, slabs and forgings. The second session gave consideration to a preliminary programme for tests of structural members, including columns, riveted tension members, riveted splices, riveted connections in building construction and the general subject of riveting.

It was the sense of the meeting that the extension of the testing facilities in this country had not kept pace with the advance in engineering construction, and a resolution was adopted by unanimous vote that the enlargement of the present facilities at the United States Watertown Arsenal by the erection of a testing machine of at least 10,000,000 lbs. capacity was desirable.

At the recent metallurgical session of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the first paper was on "The Work of the Testing Department of the Watertown Arsenal in Its Relation to the Metallurgy of Steel," by James E. Howard, engineer of tests, Watertown, Mass., as noted in the Iron Age:

Mr. Howard indicated the scope of the tests to be made. The first item of the inquiry is ingot metal, open hearth, Bessemer and crucible—fluid compressed and uncompressed. "The chief feature to be taken into consideration at the time the metal is in the ingot state is believed to be that of structural soundness and continuity. Evidence seems to show that structural discontinuity in the ingots is not corrected in the subsequent forging operations."

The second item in the inquiry includes blooms, billets and rolled and hammered shapes from ingots, including finished products of all kinds. Working temperatures, reductions in the rolls or under the hammer and the number of passes in the rolls should be ascertained. In addition to the question of the influence of temperature on final properties is the question how much or how little work at a given temperature is essential to attain maximum tensile strength and the display of those other features which accompany the tensile test.

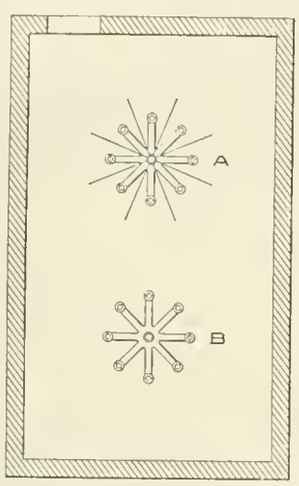
A general discussion followed which will shortly be printed in the Transactions of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

BY-PRODUCTS FOR BRICK WORK.

MANUFACTURERS of sand-lime brick realize after a little experience that they cannot compete under average conditions with common clay brick. Hence it is their present effort while the market is being well supplied to restrict manufacturing to face brick. But few are so fortunately situated that they can market 350,000 uncolored face brick per month the year round, and so are confronted with the problem of how to keep their plants profitably operating. This has brought up the question of having by-products, which is now being deeply considered by manufacturers of sand-lime bricks.

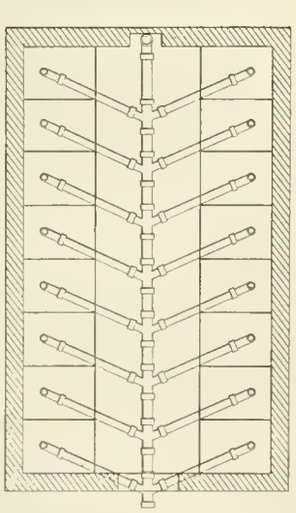
Mr. Clark Mellen, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, made this the subject of a paper at the Columbus meeting of the National Association. He has great faith that in a few years they will learn how to successfully manufacture artificial stone in such shapes as water-tables, door and window-caps, window-sills, coping and cornices, as well as discover how to successfully enamel and make a speckled brick:

We who have experimented to any extent know that we can produce such stones at our plants cheaper than the cement man, where he pays $1.75 or more for cement, and where we have to pay not over $7 per ton for lime. But though our material is more attractive in color, and more uniform than cement stone, we have a serious problem to overcome in tender edges and corners. If we can overcome this drawback I have no hesitation in expressing my confidence in the complete commercial success of artificial stone manufactured with sand and lime. How are we to proceed to solve the problem?



It is my private opinion that the members of this association should take this question up with the interest it certainly merits and authorize a committee specially appointed by the chair to confer immediately with some competent and reliable chemist to ascertain what the cost of investigations covering a period of, say, three to six months would amount to, if possible, on a basis of a nominal charge for his time if successful in overcoming the abovementioned difficulty. The committee's report with its recommendations can then be communicated to our members and leave each one to decide whether he will agree to contribute his proportion of such expense. It is no doubt true that there is a great deal of variation in materials at our plants, but I should think it would be quite possible to make the by-product a success at all, or most all plants, if the chemist can tell us how it can be accomplished with one set of materials.

In view of the fact that without any knowledge of chemistry and little scientific assistance, after several months' experimenting in a rather primitive manner, Mr. Mellen has succeeded in greatly improving the edges of some artificial stone by applying simple insoluble wash, he thinks he is justified in feeling sanguine that a clever chemist should be able to show how to obtain the desired result on a practical and commercially successful basis. If the treatment of the material acts only as a temporary protection of edges, etc., in handling and transit from the plant to the wall, the manufacturers will have made considerable progress.

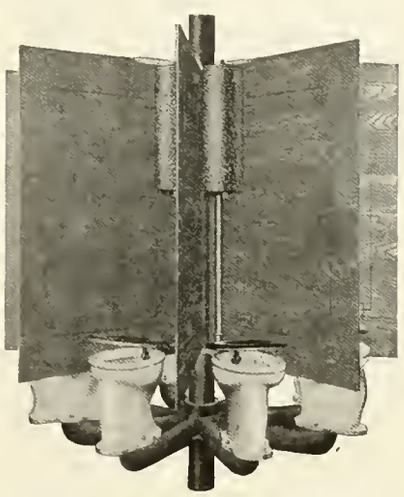


SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SPECIFICATION ROOM-STANDARD AND NOVEL BUILDING MATERIALS.

THE KELLY OCTOPUS CLOSET FITTING.

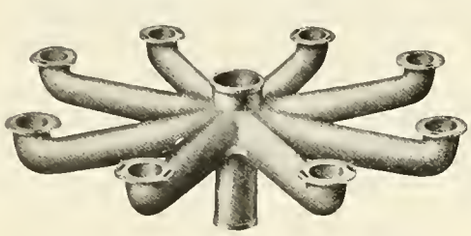
A rather startling innovation in cast fittings is that which Thomas Kelly & Bros., Congress st and 46th av, Chicago, have recently put upon the market. The simplification of sanitary appliances is the most vital thing in connection with plumbing, and in the comparative plans herewith is shown how this may be effected and an idea of the economy of material also obtained.

Showing two Kelly Octopus closet fittings in place, completing the roughing in for 16 water closets in a toilet room. Partition divisions shown in A. Note the absence of joints—no closet over 20 inches from the main soil pipe—no additional venting necessary.



This shows the roughing-in necessary for a toilet room containing 16 closets as usually arranged along two opposite walls. Note the number of joints, the amount of material and danger of clogging and leakage at joints in this hidden work. Note also that the nearest closet is 10 feet from the ventilation soil pipe, and the farthest is 30 feet, which necessitates the expensive back venting.

The use of the Octopus fitting takes closets away from the walls and arranges them rationally in circles in the middle of the room, surrounded by light and air. The walls are left free for lavatories and windows.



Public toilet room plumbing is entirely changed by this space and money-saving device, in the saving in cost of labor, material and time.

Partitions are fastened to special fittings around the main stack—closets are bolted to the Octopus fitting, and are suported independently of the floor.

Each closet is 20 inches from the main stack, and has independent discharge into the stack. No back venting is required, and every closet has perfect ventilation—not possible with the customary runs of pipe.

Kelly Octopus closet fitting complete with eight Kelly Automatic Closets. Illustration shows screens for school or factory installation (no doors). Either single or double doors may be used. Cut shows floor taken away.

Kelly Octopus fitting (patents applied for), when set in place, completes the roughing-in for eight water closets. Note that this fitting is a one-piece casting.

By this method eight closets can be installed in a space of seven feet six inches in diameter.

Some advantages, the fitting is cast in one piece, and has no joints to leak or long runs of pipe to clog up. Perfect ventilation secured—does away with the necessity of back trap venting.

Flaming Arcs.

The chief merit of Flaming Arcs is the penetrative power of their light, which is similar to the Sun Beam, and their great light output at a small current consumption.

The "Excello" is one of this type. It is manufactured by the Excello Arc Lamp Co., 24-26 East 21st st, New York. One of its special claims is that the lamp has been largely purchased for use abroad, in countries like Egypt, China, India and Japan, where they are attended to by natives mostly ignorant of the English langauge. A lamp used so far from headquarters must be immune from trouble, otherwise it is of no or little practical value only.

The warm attractive glow of the light (known as the "Sun-Beam" effect) has caused it to be much sought after, and it is well, therefore, to know to what class of work the "Excello" lamp is particularly applicable.

The whole of the globe being intensely illuminated, producing what is known as fire ball effect, eliminates a large number of shadows, and also decreases the specific brilliancy of the arc, thus rendering it possible to use the lamps for interior as well as exterior illumination.

In addition to this, the lamp, being finished in white, black, gold or any color, and many artistic forms, makes it available for placing indoors; to this it is well to suggest that the rooms should be provided with some ventilation, as otherwise the products of combustion become slightly noticeable.

The greatest field of application for these lamps is exterior lighting, either in the form of powerful lamps to give a good light distribution over large areas, such as railway stations, railway sidings, shipbuilding and engineering yards, surface workings of collieries, etc., or for the illumination of streets, parks, gardens, etc., also especially for the attractive illumination of shops, business premises, theatres, places of refreshment, entertainment, etc.

The lamps are most satisfactorily burnt two in series on 110-125 volts, either direct or alternating current, or four in series on 220-240 volts: they can, however, if desired, burn two in series on 100 volts, or four in series on 200 volts.

The special windings of the coils in the direct current "Excello" lamps render the shunt coils immune on all ordinary supply voltages, even if the carbons of one lamp burn out before those of the other lamps in the same circuit.

When the voltage of the direct current line circuit is in excess of 240 volts, it is advisable that each lamp should be connected in parallel with a type 14 automatic cutout with compensating resistance. This can be so combined with union lever switches that perfect safety is given to the lamp trimmer on circuits of as high an electrical pressure as 2,000 volts, while at the same time the fullest requirements are complied with.

In the case of alternating current lamps the winding of the shunt coils is of necessity somewhat different, and it is not recommended that a circuit of more than three lamps in 150 volts line pressure should be used without connecting a union safety coil in parallel with each lamp; this coil may either hang above the lamp, or be adjacent to it, or in the lamp column.

For high voltage alternating current circuits, "Excello" lamps can be dealt with in the same way as the direct current lamps, so far as protection goes, up to, say 2,000 volts, connecting up a union safety coil to each lamp with an isolating and earthing switch.

The Excello Company manufactures a lamp for ten hours, and a lamp for seventeen hours, standardizing in ten amperes. The ten-hour lamp costs $55, and the seventeen-hour lamp costs $67.50. They make a D. C. and also an A. C. lamp, and stock sixty cycle lamps for the latter. Two lamps are usually run on 100-125 volts, four on 200-250; if single lamps are required, a special resistance is necessary.

Large contracts for Flaming Arc Lamps have been placed with the Excello Company by F. W. Woolworth (200 lamps), U. S. Steel Corporation (150 lamps), United Cigar Stores Co. (100 lamps), Sam S. and Lee Shubert theatres (100 lamps). They are also used in the N. Y. Post Office, on the Brooklyn Bridge and the Hudson tunnel construction work.

BRICK.—Most of the boats in the Hudson River brick trade, as fast as they return up the river, are being laid up and the crews discharged. A few shippers impelled by their circumstances continue to send boats down. The lessened arrivals have given a little firmer tone to the market, but notwithstanding quotations still continue nominal.

The Shamrock Towing Line has put its tugboats at the service of the Haverstraw manufacturers at the rates which prevailed before the Cornell Steamboat Company issued its higher schedule. The expectation is that the Shamrock Line will be able to extend the service to all brick shipping points.

The manufacturers, not liking the attempt of the Cornells to advance towing rates on a falling brick market, are disposed to extend the fullest encouragement to the Shamrock Line.

CEMENT.—The prevailing cargo rate on standard American Portland in this market holds without noticeable variation except as to some added firmness. Some manufacturers are not particularly anxious for business at the figure, and are putting their best efforts into the outside trade where there is a chance of a larger return. Locally, a few large contracts are among the assurances of the immediate future, with the day-to-day jobbing business gradually but slowly increasing. The possibility of the Brooklyn Subway work being started before the spring months pass has distinctly improved, as the latest information is that bids for the general contracts will be advertised for next week.

An advance in the price of cement is looked for shortly by some of the dealers. The opinion given by Mr. W. P. Corbett, general manager for the Alsen Cement Company, is the sentiment of all those who expect an increase.

"There ought to be an improvement by the first of May," said Mr. Corbett. "Prices have been very low and there has been no change for weeks, but the opening of spring, the advent of warm weather, and the general increase in construction work all over the country usually strengthens the market. More mills are reopening and we look for a healthier condition of things before the end of April. Railroad construction affects the market a good deal, but as the directors of railroads are holding back in improvements now we will have to depend more on a marked increase in construction work generally. The prices we have had have been largely due to a number of big enterprises, such as dams, tunnels and public undertakings."

IRON AND STEEL.—With the steel mills refusing to shade prices, most of the current orders for structural shapes continue to go to small fabricators, and some low prices are reported. The business for March exceeded that for February, and the month of April is certain to show another gain, as an increased number of contracts are pending. If but half of them are placed soon this will be a fairly active month.

Curtailment of production in hardware has hardened prices. Manufacturers have announced their intention of keeping down production in which there has been a surplus, as in cut nails. Business in wire nails is but little under the normal for this season. Builders' hardware in general is slow, owing to the backwardness of spring work. At the monthly meeting of the bolt, nut and rivet manufacturers the existing prices were reaffirmed.

In brass and electrical goods there is a good day-to-day trade, which seems to be increasing. The large electrical manufacturing companies are gradually increasing their working forces.

Business in sheet zinc continues in small proportions, but orders for tin plate—mostly for repair work—are coming in more freely. In the Bright Plate trade, the leading interest is operating about seventy-five per cent. of its capacity. Small concessions in the wholesale department are reported as being made on Black and Galvanized sheets. Sheet copper is on a basis of 17 cents for small lots, but business continues dull.

With the opening of spring there is some noticeable improvement in the outgo, but business is dull on the whole. LUMBER.—Prices for full cargo lots in actual transactions disclose a number of reductions within the past few weeks. All grades of Yellow Pine are about two dollars per M. cheaper, and quotations on Spruce, White Ash, Basswood and Birch have also been shaded in about the same proportion.

Practically all grades of Mahogany and Cedar are $10 per M. lower, the exception being the cheaper grades of Mexican. The range for Mahogany is from $60 to $90 per M., and $50 to $80 for Cedar.

In his annual report to the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association Secretary E. F. Perry, of 66 Broadway, New York, says that the relations with the various retail associations continue to be on the same broad and liberal basis as for several years:

"As an association we have always been very careful not to overstep the bounds of fairness, and have gone no farther in the matter of classifying the trade than has been shown to be fair after considering all the circumstances. We have claimed for the past few years that we have done a good work in educating the trade as to who are considered within the class of wholesale buyers and while at one of our annual meetings held a few years ago we reported on hand something over 600 cases which were being considered by our Classification Committee, at the present time we have less than a half dozen cases over which there is any question whatever. The retail associations and the retail lumber dealers have worked in the closest harmony with us in all these matters and are to be complimented on the very fair manner in which they have investigated and conferred on such cases as have been presented.

"This question of classification must be handled with the greatest of care so that no harm may be done to anyone, and so that no criticism of unfairness to our fellow tradesmen will be charged. The members of this association are to be commended upon their willingness to acquiesce in and be guided by the opinions which have been rendered by our various committees."

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices. The wholesale figures are given.

PAINTS AND OILS.—Improvement in the market for linseed oil is reported as the season advances. There is more of a tendency than formerly to buy ahead, and some orders have been placed for delivery in June. Moderate business in jobbing quantities is reported for shellac, but really important orders have yet to come.

Advices from Savannah, under date of March 31, marking the close of the year in the turpentine trade, state that there was a healthy increase in business during the year at that port.

Some improvement in the amount of business offering to the painting trade is noted, though mainly consisting of repairs.

The La Salle Hotel, for which the George A. Fuller Company has the general contract, will be in the Renaissance style of architecture, and polished granite will be used for the base. The building will have twnety-four stories, 162-178 ft. and the estimated cost is $3,500,000. A large amount of marble will be used in the corridors and lobby. Holabird & Roche are the architects. George H. Gazeley, formerly of the Waldorf-Astoria and St. Regis, in New York, will be the manager. Harry R. Moore is the president of the company, which is styled "the La Salle Hotel Company."

Plans were completed this week by Messrs. Clinton & Russell, 32 Nassau st, for the 31 and 36-sty office and tower building, to be built connecting with the Whitehall building by a wide court, fronting 206.3 feet on West st and 107.5½ ft. on Washington st. Taking in the present Whitehall building, the new structure will measure 264.3½ ft. on Washington st, 306.11½ ft. on West st, and rear dimensions of 179.11½ ft. The materials will be light brick, with trim of granite and terra cotta with tile roofs. The central tower connecting with the Whitehall building will contain 36 stories, rising to a height of 446.9 ft. The west wing on West st will have 31 stories, and the east wing on Washington st 16 stories. The tower roof will have a low peaked dome, with an ornamental balustrade arched in the centre of the spah. The specifications will call for a group of thirty electric elevators, four express to the 36th story, seven to the 30th story, and the balance local to the 16th floor. Floors, Roebling filling, terra cotta cornices and coping, copper and iron wire glass skylights, and the foundations will be of caissons on rock, with brick above. Seventeen old buildings on the site will be demolished. The estimated cost is placed at $4,600,000. The Battery Place Realty Co. and the Century Investing Co. are the owners. W. H. Hammerstein Starts Philadelphia Opera House.

Under orders from Mr. Oscar Hammerstein the work of demolishing the old buildings at the southwest corner of Broad and Poplar sts, Philadelphia, Pa., began this week. On this site he is to begin at once the erection of a new opera house. As announced in the Record and Guide of Sept. 28, 1907, the dimensions of the plot are 240x160 ft., and it is considered an admirable site for a large theatre, having a frontage on three streets, being one square south of Girard av and the Hotel Majestic. The new building will contain a seating capacity that will equal in size and magnificence of its appointments any similar structure in the world. It is planned to have the structure ready to open by next November or December. Wm. H. McElfatrick, of No. 1402 Broadway, Manhattan, is the architect. Mr. Hammerstein is also contemplating the erection of an opera house in Chicago, to cost nearly $1,000,000. A site on the south side of Michigan av, near 12th st, as a suitable location, is under consideration, but it is not thought probable that this project will be undertaken, until after the completion of the Philadelphia structure.

New Factory for J. F. Blanchard Company.

LONG ISLAND CITY.—Work is to start immediately for the new fireproof model factory building which the J. F. Blanchard Co., of Borden av, is to erect at Nos. 229 to 241 Borden av, Long Island City, about three blocks from the company's present factory. The George A. Fuller Company has obtained the general contract, and is to complete the structure ready for occupancy by September 1, 1908. The construction is to be absolutely fireproof, not a foot of wood being used throughout the structure. In size it will measure about 175x185 feet, containing seven stories in height. Architect Paul C. Hunter, 17 Broadway, Manhattan, prepared the plans.

James Knox Taylor, Treasury Dept., Washington, D. C., is supervising architect.

A 184th Street Project.

Messrs. Neville & Bagge, 217 West 125th st, are preparing plans for a 5-sty high-class apartment house to be erected on a plot 41.8x86.11 ft., on the north side of 184th st, 100 ft. west of St. Nicholas av, to cost about $150,000. Wm. J. Casey, 1953 7th av, is the owner.

Apartment House for 69th St.

69TH ST.—The Silvermann-Jones Construction Co., 17 West 17th st, will erect on the north side of 69th st, 265 ft. west of Amsterdam av, on a plot 80x87.5 ft., a 6-sty high-class apartment house, to cost in the neighborhood of $175,000. Messrs. Schwartz & Gross, 347 5th av, are preparing plans.

To Make Record in Wrecking.

"We intend to make a record job in the demolition of the Madison Square Theatre and the Fifth Avenue Hotel from the standpoint of both ingenuity and speed," said Mr. John Rheinfrank, of the Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st, when he was asked about the conditions of the contract awarded to his company to tear down these two structures as the preparatory step for the erection of the Fifth Avenue Building.

The contract has clauses that are very binding, emphasizing the necessity of speed to the extent of putting the wreckers under a penalty of $1,000 a day after the time that they are required to turn over the site to the building company. Work was started on the razing of the theatre last week, so that the United Engineering and Construction Company would be able to proceed with the excavating for the foundations and the construction of the same.

This company has the contract for all of the construction work up to the underside of the steel construction, including the caissons. Its special bucket trucks have been leased by the Rheinfrank Company to be used under the supervision of the United Engineering Company in order to facilitate progress. These buckets take the material to be removed direct from the structure and fit on the trucks. A second handling is not required, the buckets being hauled to the dump and returned to the scene of operations for another load.

Speed was the principal demand of the promoters of the building to be erected, and to insure this they did not secure estimates, but gave the contract direct to a large and reliable company that could guarantee the cleanest and most expeditious work.

The wrecking company will not be permitted to start on the hotel until May 1, when the western part will be vacated and turned over to the workmen. This part of the structure will be razed while the other part, in which the stores are located, will still be used until the leases expire. The entire structure is to be demolished Aug. 1. Incidentally there will be little saved from the theatre.

Mr. Walter G. Earl, superintendent for the Rheinfrank Company, said that practically all that would be of any further use would be the floor beams and a few odds and ends. In the desire to hasten the completion of the work the brick will not be cleaned, but will go direct to the dump. It would impede progress to clean them on the site and at the present price of new brick it would not pay to haul them away to be cleaned. The flooring and other woodwork will go to the firewood pile. The gallery railing has been saved and it will probably be changed, the plush removed, repainted and sold to some property owner as part of a porch front. The erection of the new building on such a valuable lot involves so many millions of dollars and heavy loss through taxes while the work of demolition is in progress that every available device to hasten the razing and cleaning to the street level will be requistioned by the Rheinfrank Company.

Elevator Hearing.

The public hearing held last Wednesday afternoon in the Aldermanic chambers by the Committee on Elevators and Escalators of the Building Code Revision Committee was very well attended. Manufacturers were represented in force and much interest in the question was shown. The speakers included Mr. R. P. Bolton, the consulting engineer; Mr. Chas. R. Pratt, Mr. Elias Marshall and the secretary of the Elevator Workers' Union. A number of important points were brought out by Mr. Bolton, who had prepared statistics to show the need of care and conservatism in changing the code. Mr. Bolton showed that in six months there were 24,209 accidents in Greater New York in connection with "horizontal" traveling, with 288 deaths, all reported by transportation companies. The number of people carried in this way in Greater New York is estimated at about 3,500,000. On the other hand a careful estimate of the number of people moved vertically every day in Manhattan alone shows between six and seven millions, or about twice as many as are moved "horizontally" in Greater New York in the same time. The accidents are comparatively few. Mr. Bolton said that there was no serious danger and that revision ought to be made carefully and with the advice of experts. There are about 8,000 passenger elevators in Manhattan, exclusive of those in residences and freight elevators.

Many details, some interesting and some more or less important, were discussed, but the point emphasized was the need of additional safeguards and prescience in making any changes. All suggestions to the committee must be in by May 14.

SPECIAL BRIDGE GOOD PREVENTIVE. — The value of a special bridge, such as constructed by the Hedden Construction Company on the 27th floor of the new Metropolitan Building, was proved last Thursday afternoon when the stone setters' derrick in use on the Madison st side of the structure fell from the 30th floor. Two pieces of marble were being raised by the derrick when the latter gave way. Instead of being precipitated to the pavement over 300 ft. below the derrick was stopped by the extra bridge several floors below the one from which it fell. The marble fell to the street. No serious damage was done.

The M. B. Foster Electric Co., 1161 Broadway, has recently completed the installation of the electrical work in the American Bank Note Co.'s building. THE WEEK.

The condition in the realty field is in the main satisfactory. While the aggregate number of sales reported does not show any considerable increase, still those who are placing their money into this class of investment are, in most cases, people who are content to hold for better prices. One of the features is that the demand is well distributed. It is not confined to one section, nor to one class of property. Builders are continually picking up choice corners or large plots, with the intention of improving them in the near future, private dwellings are being purchased for occupancy, and business and apartment houses acquired for investment.

In that section south of 59th st there were several sales worthy of notice consummated. The 4-sty and basement school building 344 and 346 East 52d st was sold to the Central Manufacturing Co., who will alter the structure. The estate of Albert J. Adams sold the 6-sty loft and store building on the northwest corner of 8th av and 37th st. This house was purchased by Mr. Adams from Henry Conolly and Henry F. Booth on Nov. 30, 1892. It was subject to a mortgage of $85,000. The reported sale price at that time was $130,000. This property was subsequently knocked down to William Kirkman for $160,000 at public auction on Oct. 16, 1907. Title, however, was never passed. With one exception, this is the only 6-sty building on the west side of 8th av, between 34th and 42d sts. In that section north of 59th st a dwelling 224 West 72d st changed hands. This is a 4-sty and basement dwelling, on a lot 20x102.2. A trade of considerable size was put through, involving the three 5-sty flats, 40, 42 and 44 West 135th st, 75x99.11, and the 6-sty apartment house 526 West 152d st, 40x99.11. This house on the Heights has been completed about two years. Levi P. Morton purchased the block front between 140th and 141st st on the west side of Broadway. These structures are built to a depth of 80 ft. on a lot 90 ft. deep and 99.11 each on the avenue. The Holy Child Convent is in the rear of this property. Across the way are two 7-sty high-class apartment houses occupying the entire block front. Both the northwest and the northeast corners of 141st st are vacant. The Bronx came in for its share of sales reported.

Among the mortgages recorded during the week just past was one for $275,000 given by Hellmuth (Charles H.), a corporation, to Kast & Ehinger, of Stuttgart, Kingdom of Wuertemberg, on the property 154 to 158 W. 18th st, 66x129.5x66x131.2. This mortgage is a purchase money mortgage and is due May 24, 1910, and bears interest at the rate of 4%. The Empire City Subway Co. (Limited) borrowed from the Mercantile Trust Co., trustee, $170,000. This amount is supplemental to a first mortgage or deed of trust covering telegraph and telephone subways and other work constructed during the year 1907. It was recorded March 28. It is due as per the bond. Mrs. Margaret O. Sage loaned on mortgage $100,000 for three years at 5½% to the Gouverneur Building Co., on the property on the northeast corner of Gouverneur lane and Water st, 45.3x94.6x irregular. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. loaned to Louis M. and Thomas W. Jones $700,000, on the property on the northeast corner of Broadway and Franklin st. This plot is 50x150 and runs to Cortlandt alley. It is due May 1, 1911. The interest rate is 6% until one year after the building which is to be constructed on the plot is completed, and after that date the interest rate will be 5½%.

THE AUCTION MARKET

There were about thirty-one parcels advertised for sale up to Thursday evening. There is a slightly better feeling in the auction market, though the bidding cannot by any means be said to be brick. The improvement is just this: Where a few months ago it was the exception for a parcel offered at forced sale to be bought by any other than the plaintiff, at the present time a few pieces are disposed of.

It is not yet wise to offer property for sale to the highest bidder, unless there is a very good reason. Prices obtained are not good, except on rare occasions. Those who can hold on to their property for a few months will make large interest. Unquestionably matters are on the mend. Nobody looks for the times to be as bad as they have been for the last six or eight months. There has been shown a disposition on the part of savings banks and some institutions to loan money out on mortgage. When the money market really eases up, conditions will be all right again. The banks have plenty of money on hand. In fact, it has been a long time since the surplus has been as large as it has been recently.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day the block front on the east side of Lenox av between 113th and 114th sts, 201.10x125, a 5-sty building known as Hotel Balmoral was put up at voluntary sale. This structure was knocked down to Jacob Mendelssohn for $300,000. The purchaser is the treasurer of the Sphinx Realty Co., who are the owners of record. The opening bid was $265,000. All told, there were twelve parcels disposed of, nine adjourned, five to the plaintiffs, four bid in and one withdrawn.

There will be several interesting parcels put up at auction during the coming week, belonging to the estate of Albert J. Adams, deceased. There is the 4-sty and basement single brick flat with store and basement store, 344 7th av, 19x64; also 181 to 189 Columbus av, being the northeast corner of 68th st. This is a 5-sty light brick and brownstone apartment with three stores; two families on each floor; hardwood trim and floors; open plumbing; steam heat and hot water supply, 30x100.5. The property on the southwest corner of James slip and Water st is also going to be disposed of. This is a 3-sty frame building with store, 22x irregular. There are also a number of other offerings in this sale including a parcel in Long Island City. Some parcels are going to be sold on this same day which do not belong to this estate, but which should attract attention of prospective purchasers. The purchasers have the option of allowing 70% of the purchase price to remain on bond and mortgage, for three years, at 5% per annum. Titles are guaranteed and policies are delivered free of cost to purchaser.

RESOLUTION FAVORING HUNTS POINT PARK.—At a meeting of the Vyse Estate Property Owners' Association, on Monday evening, at Hoe av and Home st, a resolution was passed upholding the action of the Local Board and the Borough President in endeavoring to carry out the wishes of that association by passing a resolution to acquire the property in the vicinity of Hunts Point to establish such a park as requested by that body.

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST.

The following are excerpts of the minutes of the meeting of the Law Committee and the decision of the Board of Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests relative to bills introduced in Albany, N. Y., affecting real estate.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1038, PRINTED No. 1264.—Mr. B. R. ROBINSON'S bill to amend Section 32 of the Real Property Law so that the absolute power of alienation of real property may be suspended for an absolute term of thirty years and for not more than two lives in being. This is another of the bills recommended by the minority commission to investigate the Torrens System. As the law is at present a trust or other provision which suspends the absolute power of alienation to real property for any definite time not measured by lives, say a year or two, is void in its creation, whereas the suspension may be had during two lives in being at the time of the creation of the estate. This leads to many anomalous situations and often operates to defeat the intention of testators. APPROVED.

SENATE BILL, INT. No. 584, PRINTED No. 690. Mr. FOELKE'S bill to amend Section 1525 of the Code so that in actions in ejectment in cities of the first class a new trial cannot be granted as a matter of right, unless applied for within six months after the judgment, and the judgment upon the second new trial shall be final and conclusive unless reversed or set aside for legal cause. It will help to make titles more certain and safe. There is no good reason why a person who has been defeated in an action of ejectment should have three years within which to apply for a new trial as matter of right and a possible third trial. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1016, PRINTED No. 1222.—Mr. C. F. MURPHY'S bill to amend Greater New York Charter by adding Section 952-A to create a right for compensation for the deterioration in value for all abutting property owners whenever a change of grade has been accomplished, and giving jurisdiction to the Board of Assessors to ascertain the amount of damage. The right of municipality to change grade without compensation has been upheld repeatedly by decisions. If this bill were passed, it would put upon the city needless claims for damages to very considerable amounts which would have to be paid by the city, as the bill provides that the benefit shall not be laid over and assessed upon the persons benefitted by the change of grade. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 898, PRINTED No. 1077.—Mr. GOLDBERG'S bill to amend the lien law so that whenever any owner desires to bond a lien, copy of the undertaking and notice of justification may be served at the abode of the lienor stated in his notice, of lien. At present owners desiring to bond liens often find it impossible to make service and are embarrassed in their proceedings. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1126, PRINTED No. 1403.—Mr. WHITNEY'S bill, permitting public service corporations to deduct from their special franchise tax any sums which they claim are owing to them by municipal corporations for water, gas, electric light, heat or power. This would give these corporations an advantage over their other taxpawer. No other taxpayer can set off his claims against his liability of tax. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1019, PRINTED No. 1225.—Mr. MERRITT'S bill to add Section 1801-A to the Code of Civil Procedure. The intention of this bill is to cover the cases where the vendor of land has died after executing a contract, so that the property may be conveyed by a personal representative upon compliance by the purchaser with the terms of the contract. As it is at present it often happens that the purchaser finds himself in the position of being required to pay his purchase money to the executor, while he must look to an heir or devisee for his deed, and often the heir gets no part of the proceeds and is unwilling to execute the deed, and the purchaser must bring action for specific performance. It is suggested that the procedure under the bill be simplified. The proceeding will be a special statutory proceeding, and it will be necessary to follow the statute literally. For that reason the less in the way of technical requirements there is the better; for, unless the petition contain all the statutory allegations, it may be that objection would be raised that the courts had no jurisdicion of the proceeding. The bill should be supported even in its present form and if it can be improved, it is very desirable. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1094, PRINTED No. 1344.—Mr. COSTELLO'S bill in relation to insurance of employes against the consequences of accidents. This is a bill which should be carefully considered and if it shows any chance of being enacted, should be watched. It may have very important influence upon the relation of employers and employes and labor unions. NO ACTION.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. No. 1101, PRINTED No. 1359.—Mr. LEVY'S bill to amend Section 30 of the stock corporation law restoring the provisions requiring annual reports of corporations to be made to the Secretary of State. The report contains no information that is useful to persons not interested in the company and those who are interested can get the information under the present law. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, PRINTED No. 1391.—This is the SAXE bill adding Section 221-A to the Code of Civil Procedure. Your committee has sent to the directors various memoranda opposing this bill. It seems to be triumphantly on its way to passage and has been reprinted so as to cover not only the corporations first embodied in the bill, but adding library corporations. The bill is vicious and the opposition of Real Estate Interests to the bill ought to be heard. It might be possible to require that if the bill is to go through it shall contain a provision that the applicant for cancellation of taxes, assessments, etc., must show that it has not received credit for the items upon any purchase of the property. This would point out clearly the vice of the bill. OPPOSED.

DOWNTOWN RENTING CONDITIONS.—A representative of the firm of E. S. Willard & Co., in speaking of the downtown renting situation, said: "While it is rather early in the renting season we find that the demand is not quite as brisk as last year, but that there will be very few changes. The older buildings are more than holding their own, notwithstanding the great amount of space that is offered by the completion of so many new buildings. That people are willing to put up with fewer conveniences in order to obtain large rooms and light, is well shown by the demand we have for apartments at an apartment house in 57th st, between 5th and 6th avs. The rents average $1,800, and when vacancies occur, which is not often, we have scores of applications for same."

NEW YORK-NEW JERSEY TUNNELS.

The consensus of opinion among leading real estate men points to the fact that tunnels to Jersey, while increasing the value of real estate in that State, will in no way have the opposite effect in Manhattan. On the contrary, they can foresee nothing but good coming from the improvements. The opinion of a few of these gentlemen, who have given this question some thought, is printed herewith.

Albert B. Ashforth, of 10 East 33d st: The effect of the opening of the New York and New Jersey tunnels on Manhattan real estate has had its influence on property adjacent to its terminals and stations, where the anticipatory rise has in some cases been quite remarkable, though it has not compared favorably with the great increase in values along the line of the New York subway.

Previous to the completion of the subway there had been an unusual rise in values, particularly in the upper part of the city, previous to its completion, and many keen real estate men supposed that the high water mark had been reached. This was not the case, as the final completion of the subway has proved. The boom that followed was on a much larger scale.

With the opening of the McAdoo tunnel to 23d st it was expected that values would be inclined to go up in greater proportions than they have. This fact is probably owing to the unusual condition of the money market. By the time the terminals at Dey and 33d sts are completed a great boom, however, in their immediate neighborhoods will undoubtedly be inaugurated.

Oscar L. Foley, of John R. & Oscar L. Foley, 149 Broadway: The final completion of the New Jersey tunnels will accelerate the demand for office space in the buildings adjacent to the Cortlandt and Fulton terminals for the reason of their convenience and reduction of running time to homes of New Jersey commuters having business in lower Manhattan. They will also have a good effect on the retail trade both in the streets in the vicinity of the downtown terminal and along 6th av and intersecting streets touched by the tunnels. It will be an easy matter for the housekeeper and shopper living in New Jersey to board a tunnel train and be in the midst of the large stores in a few minutes, and in this way save from twenty-five to fifty per cent. on their purchases. I know of a case of a party living in Hoboken who wished to buy a certain article and who priced the same in a Hoboken store; not being satisfied with the price asked, the party boarded a tunnel train and got the same article in a 6th av store at a saving of fifty per cent.

For this reason it is going to greatly increase the renting business here and I look forward to see the time when a vacancy in the tunnels section will be out of the question. This state of affairs is bound to increase real estate values. The effect of the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York tunnels has already been felt in the great increase in values of real estate in this zone. Prices have doubled and re-doubled since this work first started. Tunnels certainly help Manhattan. The more the better.

Frederick M. Hilton, of William A. White & Sons, 62 Cedar st: I think that the Jersey tunnels will be of the greatest benefit to several sections of Manhattan. Downtown values on the west side will be advanced, I believe, after the tunnels are opened, and as soon as the success of such structures as the Terminal Buildings is demonstrated, other plots in that general neighborhood will be developed for office purposes.

Uptown, in the amusement and hotel districts, the influence will be decidedly felt, and the tunnels will naturally bring thousands from nearby Jersey cities to the theatre and shopping centers who would not otherwise come. I do not believe that Manhattan as a place of residence will suffer. There will still be a sufficient number of people who will want to live right on the island to fill our residences and apartments.

TRACTION COMPANY INCORPORATED.

The Hudson and Long Island Traction Co., of New York City, was incorporated with the Secretary of State in Albany, to operate a street surface railroad four and a half miles long, from 12th av and West 42d st to Jamaica, Long Island. The capital is $50,000. The directors are Frederick K. Morris, Anthony Stumpf, Arthur C. Hume, Harold B. Weaver, Cassius M. Wicker, Henry A. Belden, William V. Lomax and John J. Clancy, of New York, and William B. Spencer, of Montclair, N. J.

John J. Clancy, who is the senior member of the real estate firm of John J. Clancy & Co., said, "undoubtedly 57th st would be a business thoroughfare and there would be an urgent demand for surface transportation. There will be many unthought-of changes take place when this new bridge is opened." It is understood that the majority of the abutting property interests are represented in the company. While the franchise has not as yet been granted, it is believed by the promoters that little opposition to the project will be encountered.

SUBWAY BIDS ASKED FOR.—Despite the fact that the Corporation Counsel refused to endorse his formal approval for the contract forms for the Fourth av subway, in Brooklyn, the Public Service Commission decided to advertise for bids for its construction Monday, April 6.

LARGE LOAN ON LEASEHOLD.

LARGE Loan on Leasehlod.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co. arranged a loan of $400,000 for a period of ten years on the 8-sty and basement new fireproof office building 13-15 West 34th st, opposite the Waldorf-Astoria, 50x114.6. The borrower is the corporation of Bonwit, Teller & Co., which owns the fee of the land 13 West 34th st, and which has a 63-year lease of the adjoining lot, 15 West 34th st, the fee of which is owned by the estate of Ernest G. Stedman, who recently committed suicide, the ground rent of the leasehold 15 West 34th st being at the rate of $22,500 per annum. The lender is a foreign life insurance institution, which is now considering putting out further large sums of money on improved property on Manhattan Island. It will be noted that this loan is for a period of from two to three times the average length of time that loans are ordinarily made on mortgage in this city. This particular piece of property has been interesting to the real estate fraternity, for the reason that the lease of 15 West 34th st established a new record, as did also the leasing of the store and basement to William B. Riker & Sons, at the rate of $43,000 per annum.

ADAMS ESTATE SALE.

There will be another sale of some of the holdings of the estate of Albert J. Adams on Wednesday, April 8 next. It will be held by order of Charles F. Bauerdorf and George Karsch, executors.

The properties involved are 344 7th av, a 4-sty and basement brick single flat, 19x64, subject to a mortgage of $10,000 at 5 per cent., due Aug. 11, 1908; also 181 to 189 Columbus av, northeast corner of 68th st, a 5-sty brick and brownstone apartment, 30x100.5. This house is mortgaged for $81,250, at 4 per cent., due May 15, 1908, held by Frederick de P. Foster; also 9 James slip, southwest corner of Water st, a 3-sty frame building, with store, free and clear, 22.3x38.11.

The 4-sty brick tenements, with stores, 413 and 415 East 34th st, about 25x98.9 each, mortgaged for $17,000, due Sept. 1, 1910, at 5 per cent., held by the Mutual Life Insurance Co., will also be offered, and 19½ to 23 Borden av, Long Island City, a 1-sty frame building, with three stores, 44x180, subject to a mortgage of $10,000, at 4½ per cent., due Feb. 1, 1909, will also be put up for sale.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE QUARTERLY.

The improved Record and Guide Quarterly (Annual Number 34) was issued on April the first. In its make-up the improved order of arranging records is observed. By combining all records relating to any given property (conveyances, mortgages, leases, alterations, projected buildings or wills filed) a much clearer idea may be obtained of their relation to each other.

The order followed is geographical and then chronological, according to date of instrument (not the filing date).

A new feature has been added. A cross index to the general classification of all leases, projected buildings, alterations and wills filed during the year 1907 has been appended to the volume.

In addition there is printed a valuable list of all conveyances, in which consideration is stated.

WILLIAMSBURGH BRIDGE TERMINAL OPENED.—The New York terminal at Delancey st is open and ready for the operation of cars. There are eight loops, numbered similarly to those of Park row. The loops are separated one from another by partitions and each has an individual entrance and exit stairway from the street. Incoming and outgoing passengers are completely separated. This, it is hoped, will do away with the crowding that has been a disagreeable feature at the Brooklyn Bridge.

REALTY LEAGUE ELECTS DIRECTORS.—At the annual meeting of the Realty League recently held in the board rooms of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, at 156 Broadway, the following directors were elected: Alfred R. Conkling, Wm. C. Demorest, A. H. Mathews, Chas. F. Noyes, Townsend Wandell, Chas. Schnelle H. G. Friedmann, John D. Crimmins, Ernest Tribelhorn, Louis Ettlinger, John P. Leo, Carlisle Norwood, W. E. D. Stokes, Cyrille Carreau, Chas. Brendon, Chas. Buek, J. Clarence Davies and Hamilton C. Rickaby.

SPRING RENTING OUTLOOK.—A. J. McComb, president of the Real Estate Management Co., speaking of the outlook for spring renting in high-class apartments, said: "There is a fair market for apartments in preferred locations, renting from $1,200 per year and upwards; the spring business in this class of apartments has been somewhat better than we usually expect at this season. The renting of apartments at lower rates has not been as active as usual, but we see nothing that indicates any particular change in the rental situation. The number of vacancies at the present time is not above the normal, and we see no reason to expect a change in rates.

The firm of Hirsch & Lincoln has been dissolved. Mr. Chester A. Lincoln will continue the business at 69 Liberty st.

E. C. M. Fitzgerald has opened a New York office in the Cambridge Building, 334 5th av, and has removed his Brooklyn office to 44 Court st.

The Hudson Tunnels Companies will move April 4 to their suites in the new buildings on Church st. The buildings are to be fully ready for occupancy by May 1.

Sol Freidus and Morris Steinberg formed a partnership under the title of Freidus & Steinberg, to transact a general real estate business, with offices at 143 West 135th st.

O'Reilly, Victor & O'Brien, of 37 Wall st, have taken a lease of the northwest corner of Broadway and 109th st from May 1. They will conduct there a general real estate business.

Mrs. Lilly W. Barney transferred to the Barney Estate Co. the block front on the west side of Broadway, from 86th to 87th st, together with several properties on Washington Heights.

The Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul have been given permission by Justice O'Gorman to sell their property on the north side of 118th st, 200 ft. east of Park av, 20x100.11, to Gertrude Tinsley for $13,000.

Pending a suit brought by William C. and Grace F. Adams against Samuel F. Adams and others for a partition of the property 46 West 35th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 20x100, Samuel Marx has been appointed receiver of rents.

The "New Jersey Dinner" has been postponed to Saturday evening, April 25. The date originally set was April 11. Invitations have been sent to about twenty-five boards of trade and it is expected that a large percentage of them will be represented.

Henry Leerburger denies the reported sale of 30 and 32 West 27th st, two 4-sty buildings, 33x98.9. These houses were recently purchased by Mr. Leerburger. They are, however, on the market for sale. The asking price is $95,000. There is a mortgage of $70,000.

Justice O'Gorman signed an order granting permission to the Beekman Hill Methodist Episcopal Church to convey to the New York City Church Extension and Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church three lots on the north side of 50th st, 170 ft. east of 2d av, 85x105x irregular.

Richard C. Voth, who for the last 20 years has been connected with the firm of Potter & Bro., and C. E. Deppeler, whose office was formerly at 1900 Broadway, have joined forces and taken offices at 115 Broadway, where they will conduct a general real estate and insurance business. Particular attention will be given to mortgage loans.

The dwelling 383 West End av, adjoining the northwest corner of 78th st, was conveyed by Emma J. Stewart to William Waldorf Astor. The purchase was made by Mr. Astor, presumably to get control of this corner and prevent the erection of any building which might detract from the value of the big Apthorp apartments on the opposite side of West End av.

Hudson Companies took title to the property occupied by Trainor's, at the southwest corner of Broadway and 33d st, from Edward A. Morrison, subject to a mortgage for $1,050,000 for 3 years at 4%. Mr. Morrison began buying this property in 1873 and he paid for the entire plot $321,000. The price he received from the Hudson Companies has not been disclosed, but the fact that he takes back a mortgage for $1,050,000 indicates that he is not sorry he bought Manhattan property, though he is quoted as saying about 20 years ago that he made the mistake of his life when he bought it. The property will be part of the McAdoo tunnel Herald square terminal. Title to the other parcels comprising the site also passed.

REPORT ON CONGESTION EXHIBITION.

A committee of the Harlem Property Owners' Association, consisting of Messrs. Edward J. Murray, M. Goldberg and M. H. Foster, which attended a session of the Congestion Congress at the Museum of Natural History recently, have submitted a report to the association, saying in part:

"We viewed the numerous exhibits which are intended to show the effect of congestion of population, and especially to show that tuberculosis is engendered in dark rooms of tenement houses.

"One exhibit, made of canvas, illustrates the so-called 'dark room in tenements under the old law, and beside it a very light room of the new law tenement. The dark room as shown has no windows whatever, and the walls are covered with black paint. Such a room is associated by the public generally with all bedrooms in tenements under the old law. Your committee have never in all their wide experience ever seen a tenement room resembling the one on exhibition. We believe great injustice is done to owners of many well-kept old-law houses by this exhibit.

"Your committee recommends that hereafter an aggressive campaign be carried on in all directions to overcome the false impressions that have been created against the owners of real estate by the representatives of the United Charities and the City Club."

OLD LANDMARK TRANSFERRED.—When Mrs. Geromina Consoroni transferred to her husband, Pietro, as a gift the old landmark on the north side of Vesey st, 41 ft. west of Greenwich st, an old story was revived to the effect that this property was once used as a lighthouse to guide navigation on the Hudson River. At one time the river ran close to Greenwich st at this point. The Title Guarantee & Trust Co. searched the title some time ago. It was brought to light that this building never was used as a lighthouse. The peculiar construction was due simply to a whim of the builder. Too bad in these quiet times to explode so good a legend.

Scarcity of Water in Upper Manhattan.

At a recent gathering of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th wards many matters of importance to property owners were considered, chief among them being the numerous unfavorable bills affecting real estate before the Legislature. In this respect the Law and Legislation Committee recently appointed by the association, consisting of Charles H. Schnelle, chairman; Geo. H. Beck and Adolph Bloch, reported to that body that its chairman appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee and presented a resolution opposing Senate Bill No. 395. A resolution was also adopted by the association requesting its Law and Legislation Committee to draw up a petition requesting the Mayor, the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity and the Board of Aldermen to take such steps as will give the upper section of Manhattan immediate and permanent relief from the scarcity of water from which that section is now suffering.

Through the efforts of the committee the following resolution was thereupon introduced by Alderman Reardon:

Whereas, There is an alarming scarcity of water in the 19th Ward of the Borough of Manhattan, and as it is absolutely essential that a more abundant supply of water be furnished to occupants of houses in that neighborhood;

Now therefore, be it resolved, That the Board of Estimate and Apportionment be and is hereby urgently requested to authorize the appropriation of funds sufficient for the construction and maintenance of a high-pressure service pumping station in that vicinity, preferably on a portion of the land now owned by the city, situated along the East River, between 90th and 91st sts, New York City.

BROKER WINS COMMISSION.—After about six years of litigation, the suit of Richard J. Donovan, of 170 Broadway, against William R. and F. A. Weed, of Potsdam, N. Y., for $4,000, as commission in connection with the sale of 4,500 acres in the Adirondacks to A. A. Low, has resulted in a final verdict from the Court of Appeals awarding to Mr. Donovan the full amount, with interest and costs, amounting in all to about $6,300.

TABLET ON WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.—On the northwest corner of 153d st and Broadway, on the Trinity Cemetery property, there is a tablet erected by the Sons of the Revolution. It is made of bronze and is of artistic design. The inscription is as follows: "Upon this site and across these heights stood the main line of defences thrown up by Washington's army, September, 1776. It was held until Fort Washington fell on November 16, when part of the fighting occurred at this point." Erected by the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York, 1901.

CONGESTION OF MANHATTAN.—Harold M. Finley has an article in Federation, the publication of the Federation of Churches, in which he says: "There are to-day probably between 75 and 100 blocks on Manhattan Island having a density of over 1,000 people to the acre. Were we to conceive the entire 210,000 acres of Greater New York's area so densely peopled we should have a Gotham boasting a population equal to the combined populations of the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Spain and the German Empire. One whole section of the Borough of Manhattan actually approximates such a density to-day."

SUB-TENANTS SOMETIMES UNDESIRABLE.—The subtenant is often the cause of much disturbance and annoyance. There are few managers of office buildings that have not had, at one time or another, disagreeable experiences with this class of tenant. It is often wondered how the fly-by-night, get-rich-quick concerns ever get into a respectable office building. The rest of the tenants are indignant and feel that their references should have been looked up. The answer is, in most cases, through a sub-lease. The tenant who signs the lease finds he has more room than he wants, and promptly leases part of it, so that his expenses will not be so heavy. This is where the "undesirable citizen" enters. Most managers of large buildings have inserted a clause in their lease that any sub-tenant must be approved by him, before he will be accepted in the building. Even with this clause, it is sometimes difficult to put them out.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the lusurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

March 27, 28, 30, 31, April 1 and 2.

The Isthmian Canal commission will soon call for bids for 5,000 pounds ground lamp black, 50 pounds Bismark dry brown, 2,000 pounds ground light chrome green in pure linseed oil to be put up in 25-pound pails, 500 gallons japan drier to be put up in 5-gallon cans, 2,000 pounds Saxon dry green to be put up in barrels, 10 packs of gold leaf, 300,000 pounds ground white lead in pure linseed oil to be put up in 300-pound kegs, 12,000 gallons raw linseed oil to be put up in 5-gallon cans, 5,000 pounds putty in oil, 300 pounds white gum shellac and 500 pounds of orange gum shellac.

For general shop use on the isthmus the Isthmian Canal Commission will soon call for bids for furnishing 1,250 bars of double refined round iron and 900 bars of refined round iron, said bars to be from 12 to 14 feet long. For various uses in the several departments the circular will contain a request for bids for supplying 85,000 carriage bolts varying in size from ¼x1½ to ⅝x8½ inches, also 20,000 wedge point drift bolts, 800 countersunk head rivets, 400 hexagon head screws, 1,008 twist bits for track drills, 3 rail benders, 12 screw benders, 100 coils of galvanized barbed wire for fencing, 92 belt hooks and 6 breast drills.

The Isthmian Canal Commission will soon call for bids for furnishing 3,286 bars of merchant bar iron varying from ¼ inch by 1 inch to 2½ inches by 3 inches, also 949 sheets No. 12, B. & S. gauge, of various sizes of sheet steel plates, also 1,752 sheets No. 16 B. & S. gauge of sheet steel plates, and 150 sheets of steel plates, all to be used for locomotives, steam shovels, iron body dump cars, cranes, dredges, boilers and general shop use on the Isthmus. The circular will also contain a request for bids for furnishing 10,000 feet of 6 inch extra heavy wrought iron pipe with couplings, for use in the Empire water service department. There will be a stipulation that no steel pipe will be accepted.

Vol. LXXXI. APRIL 11, 1908. No. 2091.

SEVEN MILLION DOLLARS' worth of new buildings have been scheduled for construction in Manhattan since the first of April, for all of which financial accommodation has probably been arranged, and which are projects very certain to result in actual work. It is the best ten days' filings in a long period, and manifests not only a desire to take advantage of exceptionally favorable conditions in the material and labor markets, but also, as we believe, a praiseworthy disposition on the part of at least some large interests to provide work at a time when it is urgently needed. April has thus far marked a distinctly forward movement for building interests, hardly to be continued uninterruptedly at the same rate, but yet having some enduring power and certain after a time to gain more momentum. There may be some significance for speculative interests in the locations chosen for the three largest projects of the season, namely, Madison Square, lower West Street and Times Square; the first two for office buildings, and the third for an hotel enlargement. A great deal might be said of each section, as representing the judgment of some of the best minds that the real estate field can claim, and the advantages to result to others who may be able to follow these leads. The lower West Side, where the Century Realty Company is about to add to its existing improvements another monumental building, is accumulating what seems certain in time to become a preponderance of commercial and transit facilities over the corresponding East Side. The importance of the Madison Square region has been decidedly enhanced in the last few years, to which the improvement of the Fifth Avenue Hotel site is an early testimony. Equally certain is a large development around Times Square, led by the Astors. Large works will naturally take care of themselves, and what need to be especially fostered in New York are the smaller undertakings, the home-building spirit among individuals, whence comes the widest possible distribution of elements making for the general good. The lending institutions and the rapid transit powers particularly can contribute to this end, and legislative bodies co-operate. Business interests in the Bronx have unitedly asked for certain modifications of law to favor the erection of a three-family detached house, the granting of which request, it is declared, would start another building campaign in that borough. We should consider that every reasonable request unitedly asked for by the building interests, which are the real city builders, is entitled to well-disposed attention in legislative halls.

INVITATIONS to contractors to bid for the construction of six sections of underground road in Brooklyn for the account of the City of New York were issued this week. Proposals will be received up to the 8th of May, and then the contracts will be awarded, if at all, within twenty days. Apparently the beginning of another great line of urban travel is at hand, though the progress of the work will hardly be attended by the same amonnt of house-building and real estate speculation as would be the case if the whole route were to be put under contract at this time, rather than to be pieced out at some future period. The six sections about to be contracted for will carry the Brooklyn system of subways no farther south than Forty-second street, which is barely into South Brooklyn, after traversing long-settled parts that are already quickly and easily accessible from Manhattan by the existing traffic conveniences. The better part of the benefit to real estate will therefore come when the road shall be extended into those newer and more distant parts of the borough, but the confidence and certainties that will follow from the actual signing of contracts will put such a firm footing under property interests in southern Brooklyn as to warrant a very large amount more of anticipatory improvements. This is the second occasion when bids have been advertised for in connection with this route. In the first instance it was proposed to have the road built by a private syndicate with its own means, for the sake of the profit that would accrue from the privilege of operating the line for a term of years as provided under the existing Rapid Transit law. But there were no bids forthcoming under such an arrangement, and the present hope is to find a lessee after the road has been constructed at the expense of the city. Such an eminent authority as President Winter of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company predicts that there will be a long interim during which a subway in Fourth avenue will be unable to pay an adequate interest on the investment. But a more favorable prospect is presented when the road is considered not by itself alone, but as an integral part of a system including the Broadway-Lexington route in Manhattan with branches into the Bronx, all the divisions to be operated co-ordinately, as a real tri-borough system. It is in that light which most men prefer to think of a Fourth-Avenue-Brooklyn subway. Regarded as a means for employing large working forces and utillzing vast quantities of materials, the impending contracts are altogether an encouraging subject of contemplation to the building interests of the whole city.

A MARKED improvement in the condition of the streets is noticed this spring over some former years. The previous Commissioner of Public Works, Mr. Henry S. Thompson, during his very brief term in office gave particular attention, under Mayor McClellan's direction, to street repairs, and it is to this fact presumably that the public is indebted for the improvement. Commissioner Thompson found the paving of asphalt streets practically in the control of three companies, which had always been slow in complying with the orders of the department, and in a report, which has just been printed, he recommends that the city establish and operate an asphalt plant of its own, one which would not only maintain the large number of streets where the guarantees have expired, but also be able to make repairs to pavements at the expense of the asphalt companies when they fail to comply promptly with orders. An inspection system established last summer has, with the co-operation of the police department, proved a very effective aid in preventing injury to the streets and obtaining more prompt repairing. One of the principal causes of injury to pavements is fire burns. To repair the damage done in Manhattan Borough alone by bonfires after the election of 1906 cost a sum exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, at the rate of $1.75 to $2 per square yard. Over twenty-three thousand openings were made in the surface of pavements by plumbers last year, and in all more than thirty thousand, in Manhattan Borough alone. From the section of the report covering the work of the bureau of sewers it is learned that the borough is now almost completely sewered, with the exception of a part of the extreme northwest corner of the island, where the street system has not been fully determined. At the same time a large part of the system, being old and inadequate for the giant buildings that have displaced small ones, is in need of reconstruction, and here the old question arises of the necessity of a radical departure from the existing method of disposal, a question which will become acute when the rebuilding of some sixteen miles of sewers shall have to be undertaken on account of the Broadway-Lexington subway, connected with which are syphon problems that must cause the Department of Public Works no little anxiety. In this connection, it may be, a way can be devised to prevent the further pollution of the waters surrounding New York City.

AN amendment to the State law regulating the operation of steam engines and boilers, and restricting such operation to licensed engineers, is embodied in a bill which has been introduced in the Legislature again this year, after having been vetoed by Mayor McClellan last year. It would require a licensed man in almost every steam-heated apartment house in the city, and in every building where there are small boilers, motors and engines of various kinds not requiring licensed engineers under the existing law. The payment of union wages to such licensed engineers would have absorbed the income derived from many houses, as well as displaced a great number of persons sufficiently competent to discharge the duty of caring for the small heating apparatus now entrusted to their charge. The bill was opposed last year with unanimity by the property owners' association, the merchants' associations and other interests, and they are fighting the same measure again this year through representations at the capital. The bill would impose such a grievous and unnecessary burden on real estate that it is with general surprise and alarm that its reappearance has been noted by taxpayers. The new policy of licensing every trade that can bring sufficient organized influence to bear with the members of the Legislature if persisted in will work great hardships upon individual citizens, increase taxes and rents out of proportion to wages and incomes, bring disfavor upon real estate investments and react heavily upon the whole body of citizens. This particular bill, which has been advanced to third reading in the Assembly, should have the attention of every taxpayers' society.

THE SHERIDAN BILL FOR THREE-FAMILY HOUSES.

FAVORED BY THE NORTH SIDE BOARD OF TRADE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The editorial in your issue of March 28, relative to the bill now before the Legislature known as the Sheridan bill, and which has for its object the regulating of the construction of a certain class of dwellings to be occupied by three families but not to be classified as tenement houses, is so eminently fair that it must commend itself to the real estate interests throughout our great city.

From the attitude of the Record and Guide we are beginning to feel that there is one paper at least that intends to give the real estate and renting interests a fair show, and so deserves our endorsement.

For the past five years it has been the policy of most of the newspapers of our city to favor the interest of a certain class who themselves are non-burden bearers (but who belong to that large army of which Henry Ward Beecher said, "there is one place that any one of them can stand a boil, and that is on his neighbor"), and who in order to exploit their notions and theories have already fastened on the people of this city certain laws which have increased their burdens by tens of millions of dollars each year without giving them adequate compensation.

They say that these laws were passed for the purpose of getting better housing accommodations for the poor, and by the poor I presume they mean the small wage-earner. But what good are the lovely houses and the large rooms and all the accessories if the families who are to occupy them cannot pay the rent? These same people cry out against the congestion of population on Manhattan Island. How can it be otherwise than congested in view of the law that makes it just as expensive to build a home for the poor ten miles out on the farms in Queens, Richmond, Brooklyn and the Bronx as it does south of 14th st on Manhattan Island?

Yet when we propose the smallest modification of the law, so that we may build less expensive houses in the outskirts, and so induce the more fortunate class of wage-earners to move out from the congested districts, and allow a little more room for the poor men whose wages, or rather lack of wages, as well as lack of facilities to get out into the suburbs, prevent them from availing themselves of these improved conditions, we are immediately called "hyenas" and other euphoneous titles, and articles like the subsequent quotation are sent broadcast in this city by the newspapers, many of them under lasting obligations to the real estate interests of our city who pour into their coffers hundreds of thousands of dollars each year for advertising. Witness the following from an address by Mr. Jacob A. Riis:

> This congestion is a result of the enormous profits demanded by the landlords. They get twenty and thirty and some times sixty per cent. on the capital invested. An appeal must be made to the individual conscience that no man who takes thirty per cent. on tenement house money may call himself your friend. Cut him dead.

Now any man who has anything at all to do with tenement house property in New York City must know that this is a misstatement of the facts, and it was within the reach of the editor of any newspaper of New York City to disprove it if he were interested enough to find the truth. On the other hand, within a few days after this statement was published, a mass meeting of property owners was held in the Bronx under the auspices of the North Side Board of Trade to protest, not against the Tenement House law, drastic though many of its provisions are, but to protest against the extreme manner of its interpretation and execution. We have heard said that the extreme of any law is the extreme of injustice.

Now we come to the vital question: What are you going to do about it? The answer, the only answer that ever will accomplish anything is this: ORGANIZE, ORGANIZE, ORGANIZE. Let the real estate interests of the five boroughs organize themselves into one solid concrete organization for their own protection. Call a convention of representatives of every real estate association, every taxpayers' association, and every property owners' association, and resolve about as follows:

1. Resolved, that we will not subscribe to nor endorse any organization or society, charitable or otherwise, that permits its employees to in any way misrepresent the facts concerning the real estate owners in New York City.

2. Resolved, that we will not subscribe to, purchase nor advertise in any newspaper or periodical that wilfully persists in misrepresenting the facts and ignoring the great problem that the real property interests in New York City must solve.

3. Resolved, that we will not subscribe nor vote for any man or men or political organization that persistently refuses to hear our side of any question that concerns our interests and who persist in foisting on the taxpayers and rentpayers of New York City legislation in consequence of which our burdens are almost unbearable and our city finances forced into their present condition.

In addition to the foregoing, discuss the following subjects: Whether a two-year term is not better than a four-year term for the city and county officials in New York. Devise ways and means for a comprehensive system of public improvements, covering all five boroughs of our city; not only those for building and tenement house improvement, but also for rapid transit improvement by subway and otherwise, and also to devise some scheme for additional revenue to support our city, as we must all realize that if this city is to grow in the measure of its opportunities, there must be devised some additional way for raising money for its development, as real property is already bearing all that it can stand, and so far as it applies to the homes of the wage-earners, more than it can stand.

But who will take up the burden of these questions and solve them unless the real estate interests do, for they in the end have to bear the major portion of the expense.

JOSEPH HARRIS JONES,

(Chairman of the Tenement House and Building Committee of the North Side Board of Trade.)

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING—4.

ISAAC A. HOPPER represents a continuous family connection with the building trade of New York for some seventy or eighty years. His grandfather learned the trade here in the first quarter of the last century, and began business for himself in the year 1833. His father began work for his own account twenty years later, and Mr. Hopper's own independent connection with the trade began in the year 1875.

ISAAC A. HOPPER.

His first contract was for the brick foundation and plastering work of the extension of a house in 5th av, near 130th st. The money involved was the modest sum of $375. When Mr. Hopper began business the best known builders were Joseph Thompson, John Banta, Marc Eidlitz, Cummings E. Tucker, John J. Tucker, and Peter T. O'Brien, the builder for the Vanderbilts.

Mr. Hopper has done every kind of mason builder's work, and perhaps he has had a greater variety to do than any other builder of his time. One of the first important contracts he obtained was that for the St. Barnabas Home in Mulberry st, which was in 1878. In 1880 he built the "Portsmouth," an apartment house on West 9th st, and the next year the "Hampshire," adjoining. Subsequently he erected the Hotel Normandie, the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, the power stations of the 3d av cable road, the Montefiore Home, the Academy of the Sacred Heart, the Koch Building, the Carnegie Music Hall, St. Michael's Episcopal Church and the New Netherland Hotel.

More recent constructions have been the Speyer Building in Pine st, a 12-sty office building at 198 Broadway, the Kean-Van Courtland Building at 32-4-6 Pine st, an elevator building at 13th st and University pl, an office building at 34th st and 5th av, the Metropolitan Railroad power house at Kingsbridge, the Edison power house at 1st av, 39th and 40th sts, a large number of fine residences, the substructure for the U. S. Custom House, and the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum on Fordham Heights.

For two years, ending in January, 1906, Mr. Hopper was Superintendent of Buildings for the Borough of Manhattan, and he is now closing his second year as president of the Building Trades Employers' Association. As a delegate to the New York State Association of Builders, Mr. Hopper advocated the plan of licensing builders.

"If a man must pass an examination for inspector of buildings," Mr. Hopper holds, "he who has a greater responsibility upon him, the builder, should be obliged to pass an examination also."

Mr. Hopper's long prominence in political affairs need not be here alluded to, except to point the remark that he is one of the most influential men in the building trades, and one whose counsel is sought in many other circles. One of his favored connections is with the Empire City Savings Bank as president.

CONSTRUCTION

WHAT A BUILDERS' EXCHANGE WILL MEAN.

REPARATIONS are being completed by the Building Trades Employers' Association to move into their new quarters in the Builders' Exchange Building, 30 to 34 West 33d st, running through to 32d st, on May 1. The top floor, which is to provide the meeting and social rooms of the association, is being painted and decorated to meet the special design of the House Committee, of which Mr. Benjamin D. Traitel is chairman. A scheme of decoration will be carried out, the trimmings to be in harmony with the general appearance of the floor when it is ready for occupancy. On the 32d st side will be the lounging, billiard and dining-rooms, as well as the kitchen. An inviting reception hall and parlor will be immediately opposite the elevators and will separate the business from the social rooms. On the 33d st side will be the meeting rooms, including the one for the Board of Governors.

The platforms have been placed in position on the second floor, which will be given up entirely to the exhibition of building materials, and are being made as smooth as possible by the use of sand-paper floor surfacing machines. Mr. Jas. J. Conor has been engaged as director of this department. His efforts to secure exhibits have been very successful, considering that this is the aftermath of the industrial depression, and there is promise of opening very soon with an excellent display if those who have already signed contracts put their exhibits in position at once.

The fact that the association will have on the two floors nearly three times as much space as it has in the present quarters at 889 Broadway, indicates in a measure what the change of location will mean. On the two floors now occupied there are available about 8,000 square feet. On each of the two floors to be occupied there are about 15,000 square feet gross. This means about 12,000 square feet net. A strong feature to which Secretary Wm. J. Holmes refers is the magnificent flood of light afforded on the top floor. The roof of the new building is honeycombed with skylights, making the rooms among the best lighted in New York. Several members of the association say that they have never seen the amount of light equalled in any similar building. The partitions for the rooms are being put in by the owners of the structure, and the House Committee is attending to the fitting up of the new quarters. Mr. Conor will move to his office on the second floor in a few days, as he wants to be on the spot to show prospective exhibitors all of the advantages of particular locations and become familiar with every detail of the exhibition floor. Mr. Conor was chosen for the position on account of his wide experience in this line.

The variety of materials already represented in the contracts signed up is one of the most encouraging features of the preparatory work. They include metallic doors, door hangers, plate glass, grates and mantels, hoisting apparatus, hardware, electrical goods, marble and granite, plumbing materials, parquet flooring, roofing materials, roofing and ornamental tiling and vault lights. The general appearance of the exhibition room, when all of the spaces are taken and occupied, promises to be exceedingly attractive as well as instructive.

To the query: "What will the change in quarters and the opening of the exhibition of building materials mean to the association?" answers of the officers were as follows:

Mr. Isaac A. Hopper, president:

"The exhibition will be pre-eminently a time-saver. By concentrating the exhibits at a central point it will mean that a man who is going to build will be able to select his material in half a day or less by visiting the exhibition department in the Builders Exchange Building, instead of spending a few days or a week running about the city to look them up. The variety will be a feature of the display. Not only will he be able to see every kind of material that he will require, but he will be informed there concerning methods used in construction. It is very probable that the visitor will see materials of which he has not heard, and his visit would mean a saving of money as well as of time.

"I have had this exhibition idea in mind for fifteen years, and I am very glad to see that my expectations are going to be realized. The moving into such large quarters will show that the association is growing and that it is making advances all along the line."

Mr. Ross F. Tucker, second vice-president:

"The change is going to be of great consequence to the building industry in New York. It will be a practical illustration of the fact that the association is broadening, that it is traveling along a broad gauge road. We have remained too long in our shells. We should take the public more into our confidence, especially the technical public. The Employers' Association has been too long associated with the regulation of labor disputes, whereas that is but part of its object. It is not merely a fighting organization. It has been developing along various lines, and its establishment in larger quarters will bring this to light. We want to afford an opportunity to everyone interested in construction work to come and see us, and this can be best done by making our quarters commodious and attractive. The trades connected with the association represent at least $20,000,000, and such a power in the community ought to be known by the public."

Mr. Paul Starrett, treasurer:

"Having the association headquarters in a much better location will result in a larger attendance at all meetings, business and social, and this we look for. Everything will be more inviting, even the environment. More facilities will be provided for the members and more opportunity will be afforded for the interchange of ideas that should always be going on among the members.

"The exhibition of building materials promises to be exceedingly interesting, and we look for it to fill a want."

Mr. Wm. J. Holmes, secretary:

"Better opportunities will be afforded for the exchange of ideas among the members, and in this respect the name given to the building is significant. In our present quarters, where the business and social rooms have been on separate floors, the members do not have the most desirable opportunity to meet each other, as it is sometimes inconvenient to go to another floor after completing business affairs. The proximity of the business and social rooms in the new quarters will be of material assistance in developing the association as desired.

"The splendid light and ventilation which we will have on the top floor of the new building will also be a decided advantage. We could hardly have secured a better location in this respect.

"That the exhibition department will be a success there is no doubt. Of many replies received from architects to letters sent out recently there was not a single one which indicated disapproval of the innovation. The sentiment among the members is unanimous in favor of pushing the exhibition very strongly and making it what it ought to be in connection with such a big association as we have in the largest city in the United States. The members are showing their practical interest by assisting very generously in meeting the expenses involved in the furnishing of the social rooms."

Mr. Jas. J. Conor, director of the exhibition department:

"In the scores of individuals and firms which I have visited in the last few weeks I have not heard a single word disapproving of the decision to have an exhibition of building material. The sentiment is strongly in favor of it and this is indicated best by the way in which contractors and supply dealers are taking space. In the case of some large corporations where the matter has to be taken under advisement, a little time is necessary to close the transaction, but it has been most encouraging to meet approval on every side. We hope to open May 1, and have the exhibits installed as rapidly as possible."

Mr. Benjamin D. Traitel, the first vice-president and chairman of the House Committee, has spent much of his time in the preparations which have been in progress for weeks. Not a detail is being overlooked, and an agreeable surprise is in store for the members when they make their first visit to the new building.

The nominating committee has submitted the following names to be acted upon at the annual elections, which will be held at the annual meeting, April 14:

President, Isaac A. Hopper; first vice-president, C. G. Norman; second-vice-president, Bond Thomas; treasurer, A. N. Chambers; chairman of Board of Governors, Ross F. Tucker. Mr. Robert Christie is chairman of the nominating committee. The new officers nominated are, Messrs. Norman, Bond and Chambers.

—A joint public hearing will be held by the committees on Plumbing and Heating regulations on Wednesday, April 15, at 2 p. m., in the Aldermanic Chamber, City Hall. All persons desiring to make suggestions or recommendations for the amending of the Building Code in relation to these subjects are invited to be present. The Committee on Plumbing is composed of Messrs. P. F. Kenny, P. J. Byrnes and Joseph D. Duffy. Committee on Heating, Joseph D. Duffy, Charles H. Cullen, Edward R. Knowles.

THE ARCHITECT
WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

INNOVATIONS FOR A RIVERDALE RESIDENCE.

The form and expression of every building ought to be the direct result of two things—the exigencies of the site on which the building is to be erected and the individual requirements of the owner.

A conspicuous example of the logical development of this principle is the stone mansion now being erected at 253d st, Riverdale, New York City, for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Christian.

Mr. Christian is the well-known food scientist, and he has advanced ideas about light, air and hygiene. The owner's ideas have been incorporated in this design, as shown in the plates, and skillfully worked out in the plans, which were prepared by Herbert M. Baer, architect, of 542 5th av, this city.

The building is of rough native stone, quarried on the premises, and situated on a natural plateau on one of the highest points in the city. The ground falls off abruptly on the three sides toward the street, whereas granite cliffs and great trees form a background for the building toward the rear.

There is a beautiful view over Van Courtlandt Park and the valley toward Yonkers from this eminence, and the porches of the house have been so arranged as to command this view in its entirety.

The plan of the house explains itself. The main idea kept in mind has been all the light and air possible, and a feeling of spaciousness, as well as the effect of vistas, caused by the main rooms opening out into one another through great broad openings.

Some of the particulars in which this house differs from the usual residence are the following:

The large circular family room to the left of the entrance, 20 ft. in diameter, containing a broad stone fireplace, a high wainscot, and ribbed ceiling with half concealed electric lights at the end of each rib; the ingle-nook in the reception room, raised up two steps above the rest of the room, with a low, broad seat at either side of the fireplace, the whole divided from the rest by a low railing and lighted by a separate window.

One of the most attractive features of the house is a rustic wall-fountain (Fig. 3) with water spouting from a lion's head into a circular basin, and trickling over from this into a large basin on the floor in which gold fish dart in and out among water plants, stones, moss and shells. The outer rim of the lower basin forms a flower box, to be filled with growing plants, and the whole is lighted by colored electric lights, throwing various-hued rays on the moving water from above.

In summer time this fountain cools the atmosphere, and in winter time, if so desired, the water can be shut off and the

FLOOR PLANS OF THE NEW FIFTH AVENUE BUILDING.

The total floor space in the new Fifth Avenue office and store building which is about to be constructed on the block front Broadway, 23d and 24th sts, by the Fifth Avenue Building Co., Henry C. Eno, president; Walter E. Maynard, vice-president and secretary; Henry Lane Eno, treasurer, with offices in the Brunswick Building, will approximate 10,000,000 square feet, comparing favorably in size with the largest buildings erected. The structure will be imposing in design, and in a number of respects a notable departure from the usual style and plan of the uptown office and store building.

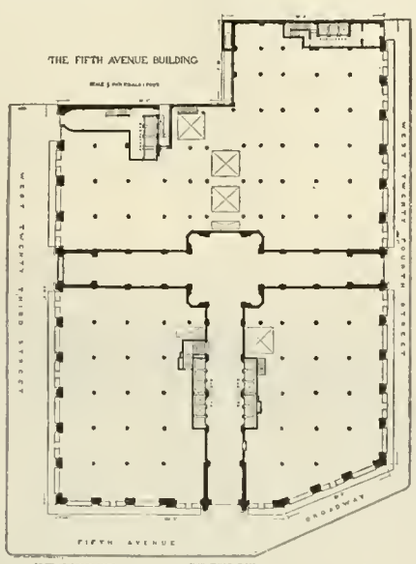

FIG. 1. GROUND FLOOR PLAN.

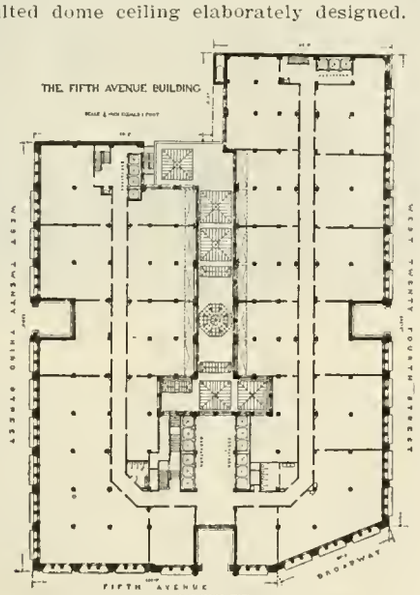
On the ground floor a feature of the interior will be an arcade 21 ft. wide, running from Broadway and 23d st to the centre of the building, connecting with a rotunda arcade 30 ft. square, with a vaulted dome ceiling elaborately designed.



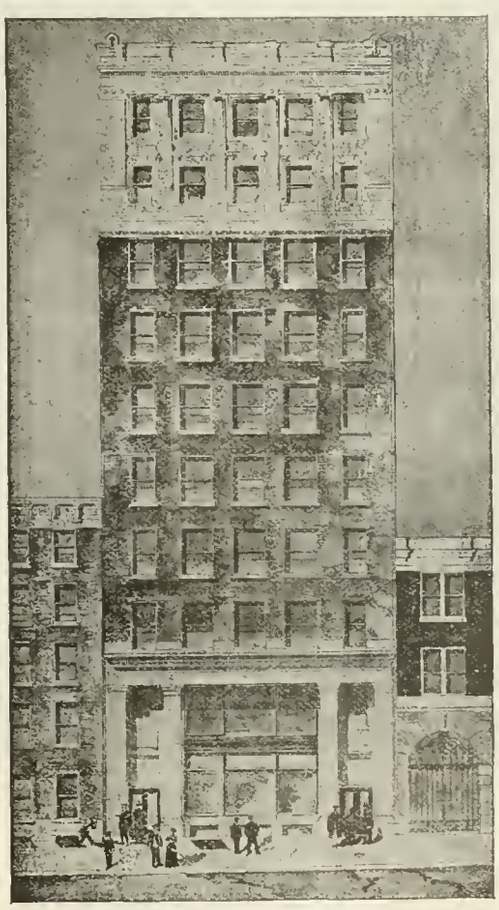


FIG. 2. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

On either side of the Broadway arcade will be twelve high-speed elevators required to handle the many tenants. At the rear will be seven elevators, making a total of nineteen in all. Particular study has been given to the supplying of light and ventilation.

The Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st, which has the contract for demolishing, will not start operations on the hotel proper before May 1, when the western part will be vacated. This part will be lowered while the other portion, in which the stores are situated, will be used until the leases expire. The entire building is to be cleared by Aug. 1. The estimated cost of the structure will exceed $2,000,000. Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, 298 5th av, are the architects, and The Hedden Construction Company, 1 Madison av, has the general contract.

FIRST TEN-STORY CONCRETE LOFT BUILDING.

One of the first 10-sty concrete loft buildings erected on Manhattan Island was constructed by Messrs. Tucker & Vinton, concrete engineers and contractors, with offices in the Terminal Building, Park av and 41st st, for McNulty Brothers, plaster contractors, at Nos. 549 to 551 West 52d st. The ground floor and first story are, equipped for store purposes, and the eight upper floors for lofts. Particular attention was given to the lighting, ventilation and sanitation, and all the latest loft building appointments have been installed. William C. Lewis, 13 Astor pl, was the architect. The building measures 50x90.5 ft., and cost approximately $100,000. The work was accomplished by Tucker & Vinton in record time. An interesting booklet of reproductions from photographs of representative concrete structures built by Tucker & Vinton may be had for the asking. It contains illustrations of prominent structures erected during the past ten years, during which time Tucker & Vinton have devoted themselves exclusively to concrete construction of every type. It includes the main power house for St. Lawrence Power Co., Massena, N. Y.; Hodgman Rubber Co., factory, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; Bowling Green

REINFORCED CONCRETE CHEAPER THAN MILL CONSTRUCTION.

It may be interesting to the building and investing public to learn a little more of the rapid strides made by reinforced concrete construction, particularly along the lines of economy.

It has been an acknowledged fact that buildings can be constructed in reinforced stone concrete cheaper than in steel, fireproofed with cinder concrete, but when a reputable firm comes to the front and shows a number of buildings which have been constructed fireproof instead of the non-fireproof, mill or other wood construction for less than, or for but a little more than the estimates for wood construction, the wise designer and investor will undoubtedly investigate.

We take pleasure in referring here to four buildings which were designed with brick walls and wood columns and floor construction; the Standard Concrete-Steel Company (31st-32d sts and East River) took the contracts and executed the work of installing stone concrete floors and steel and cast-iron columns instead of wood with the following results:

FIG. 1. NO. 35 VESTRY STREET. THIS STABLE BUILDING HAS STONE CONCRETE FLOORS WITH STEEL AND IRON COLUMNS.

Stable building, 35 Vestry st, 25x90, six stories, James S. Maher, architect. (Fig. 1.) Warehouse, Brook av, near 153d st, 50x170, three stories, for Conron Bros. Company, James S. Maher, architect. In these two buildings the contract price was actually less than for wood construction.

Stable building, 136-138 10th av, 45x95, five stories, for John J. Gillen, James S. Maher, architect. (Fig. 2.) Stable building, Adelphi st and Flushing av, Brooklyn, 75x100, three stories, for Sweezey, Son & Co., Oscar Lowinson, architect. These two buildings were contracted for at prices so little more than wood construction that the owners readily saw their advantage in making the change.

Aside from the actual first cost, the insurance and maintenance are large items of saving, and the question arises why for a moment consider a non-fireproof construction when "System M," used in all the buildings named, shows such indisputable advantages. The Standard Concrete-Steel Company is always ready to help architects or engineers in the designs where the use of their Standard System M is contemplated.

FOR A COMMISSION ON APPEAL.

The members of the Brooklyn Society of Architects held their last monthly dinner and business meeting at the Imperial, Fulton st, Brooklyn. The chief topic of discussion was the report of the Law Committee, whose chairman, with the President and counsel of the society, was delegated to represent the society at Albany in support of two bills now before the Legislature. One of these bills provides for the appointment of a Commission on Appeal, to whom questions may be referred from decisions of the Tenement House Commissioner. The other bill relates to occupancy of basement houses. The committee reports that conferences with several leading members of the Legislature had convinced the latter of the justice of the society's demand for the proposed Commission on Appeal, but adverse influences render it improbable that either of the bills will pass the Legislature. The only hope of successfully dealing with existing abuses lies in arousing public sentiment on these questions.

MEXICANS ASTONISHED AT AMERICAN METHODS.—The average American is not possessed of satanic qualities, but the American mechanics who assisted in the erection of the Edificio de la Mutua, or Mutual Life Building, in the city of Mexico a year or so ago for the Mutual Life Insurance Company by the Whitney-Steen Company, general contractors, of 135 Broadway, were credited with being very closely associated with his satanic majesty. When the pneumatic riveters were at work putting together the steel frame for the structure a fence had to be placed around the scene of operations to keep the curious natives of the neighboring republic from getting inconveniently near and retarding the progress. "Agency of the gringo devils" is a literal translation of the phraseology used by the Mexicans in describing the instruments in the hands of the riveters. "Gringo," in their vernacular, means about the same as "greaser," and is not expressive of admiration.

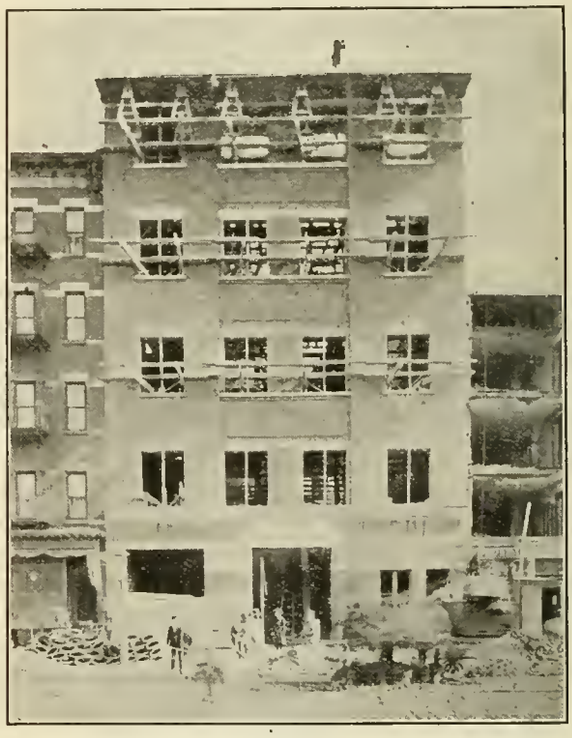

FIG. 2. STABLE BUILDING NOS. 136-8 10TH AVENUE.

The building is six stories and has every convenience of a Gotham skyscraper. A representative of the Whitney-Steen Company was sent to Italy to select the interior marble, and even the drawings for this part of the work were made in Italy, to insure perfection in every detail. The exterior marble was obtained in Mexico, coming from the Chiluca and Pachua quarries. The former was used for facing the base and first floor, and the latter for the rest of the front, including cornice. The structure cost nearly $1,500,000.

TRADE DINNER.—The Master League of Cement Workers held their trade dinner at the Building Trades Employers' Association Building April 6, preceded by the regular trade meeting. The dinner was principally to present Mr. Ross F. Tucker, the retiring president and the nominee for chairman of the Board of Governors, a gold watch and chain in recognition of his past services to the league. The presentation address was made by Mr. Ronald Taylor. The president, Mr. F. G. Webber, of the Webber Construction Co., acted as toastmaster, and the following made addresses: Messrs. Howard Wood, W. E. Cook, W. H. Murphy and H. C. Turner. About fifty were present at the dinner and it was a pronounced success.

LATE EXAMPLES OF POLYCHROME TERRA COTTA.

WITHIN the period of less than a quarter of a century the typical steel girder and frame have revolutioned our methods of building construction, and this development has probably in large measure suggested the attainment of greater safeguards and standards in structural work, as is demonstrated in the growing use and popularity of architectural terra cotta in public edifices, including office buildings, hotels, churches, schools, theatres, apartment buildings, and more recently in private homes.

The discoveries and exhumations made in recent years by Dr. Schliemann and other archaeologists suggest among other lessons the use of the incombustible and indestructible baked clay which constitutes the basic principle of architectural terra cotta as a talismanic protection against those dreaded elements of destruction—fire and water.

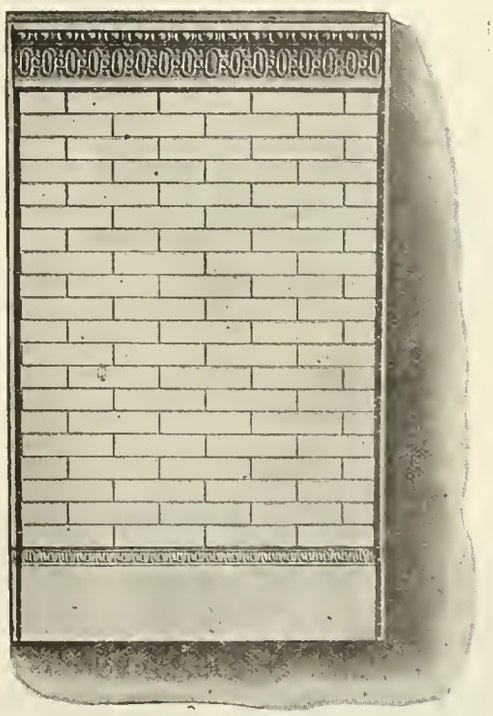
In the Baltimore and San Francisco conflagrations where the white-hot furnace of 1,500 to 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit melted the iron and cracked and damaged the stone, the marble and the granite, only one material showed effective resistance to the fire in those terrible tests. That material was architectural terra cotta. These appalling object lessons have opened the eyes of our architects, engineers and builders to the potential duty of adopting a preventive to a repetition of such holocausts.

It was the "Burnt Clay Line" that stopped further devastation at Baltimore. It is this clay after having been thoroughly prepared, baked in muffled kilns at a temperature of over 2,300 degrees Fahrenheit and thus rendered fireproof that safeguards the tall office building as essentially an outcome of the needs of the times. In the process of manufacture the surface terra cotta is thoroughly vitrified, and it is thereby impervious to water or frost.

In polychromatic effects, in flexibility of decorative treatment, in fireproof qualities and in economical construction, architectural terra cotta is probably without an equal. While it is lighter in weight and cheaper than stone or marble, it is more durable than either, and a vitreous surface will preserve its color.

The latest example of a polychrome terra cotta exterior is the St. Ambrose Roman Catholic Church in Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn, of which George H. Streeton is the Architect, the terra cotta having been furnished by the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company of 1170 Broadway, New York City.

The large amount of terra cotta used in the building of this church has been elaborately decorated in colors that produce a pleasing effect and show the almost unlimited artistic possibilities that lie in the judicious application of colored glazes to exteriors.



But the most advanced example of polychrome terra cotta construction achieved through the skill and admirable workmanship of the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company is the new Brooklyn Academy of Music, where the exterior exquisite relief work in cream tones, in red, in green, in yellow, and tints of sienna adorn the front of the edifice and fascinate the artistic eye. The Middle Ages have given up some of their secrets of Italian art as evidenced in the polychromatic adornment of the Brooklyn Academy. Nearly a hundred cherubic figures of a cream tone are set against the backgrounds of beautiful yellow, and dainty figures of glistening white in high relief against a background of blue present a brilliant example of the rejuvenated art of Della Robbia. It is only within a year or two that such marvellous shades and effects have been so skillfully produced. This notable phase in terra cotta work marks a new epoch in American architecture and adds a signal triumph to the record of the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company.

Gratifying tributes to the excellence of this company's products are evidenced in the beautiful new Plaza Hotel, the outer walls of which are made of white matt terra cotta, the Times Building at 42nd Street and Broadway, with its matt cream finish, the West Street Building in vitreous gray with color and striking shadow effects, and the latest notable monument to the Atlantic Terra Cotta Company's efficiency—the Hudson Terminal Building, the largest office building in the world, the upper walls of which are made of terra cotta and pose majestically in a cloak of gray interspersed with a reddish hue.

TESTS ON SAND-LIME BRICK.—The comparative tests made at the Underwriters' Laboratory in Chicago between clay brick and sand-lime brick have been completed. Engineer Robinson, assisted by George Riddle, conducted the tests. A committee on behalf of the association, consisting of H. O. Duerr, Professor Ira Wilson, of Columbia University, and Dr. E. W. Lazell, of the H. S. Spackman Laboratories, witnessed the tests. The sand-lime brick from the various factories were built into the panels with fire brick and other classes of brick, and the same were subjected to a very high temperature, and while in a heated condition the water from a hose at 30 pounds pressure was played against the panels. The behavior of the sand-lime brick under such severe conditions was equal in every way to that of the specimens of very high-priced clay brick. The members of the association committee expressed themselves as highly gratified with the results obtained in this test.

NEW TILING ON THE MARKET.

A new kind of tiling, the No-Co-Do, is that put on the market by Northrop, Coburn & Dodge Co., 40 Cherry st, New York. It is claimed to be a better metal tiling than others of the same character, and has an artistic appearance. The "joint" effect is produced by stamping in the lines deeply and clearly and no "stripping" is required. Each sheet is dipped by hand after the stamping process in a tank of specially prepared white rust-proof paint so that it is fully covered on both sides and on all edges. The final finish is then put on by hand. No-Co-Do is light in weight and flexible, and can be cut with a pair of tinner's shears to fit any nich or curve. It can be applied to any kind of a wall. The designs are attractive and popular.

fountain banked with palms. In order that the ladies may watch a game of billiards without entering the billiard-room, a balcony opening into this room from the large landing of the staircase has been provided.

The broad veranda shown on the plans is widened by a bay which forms a large open-air dining-room, served by the same pantry as the main dining-room.

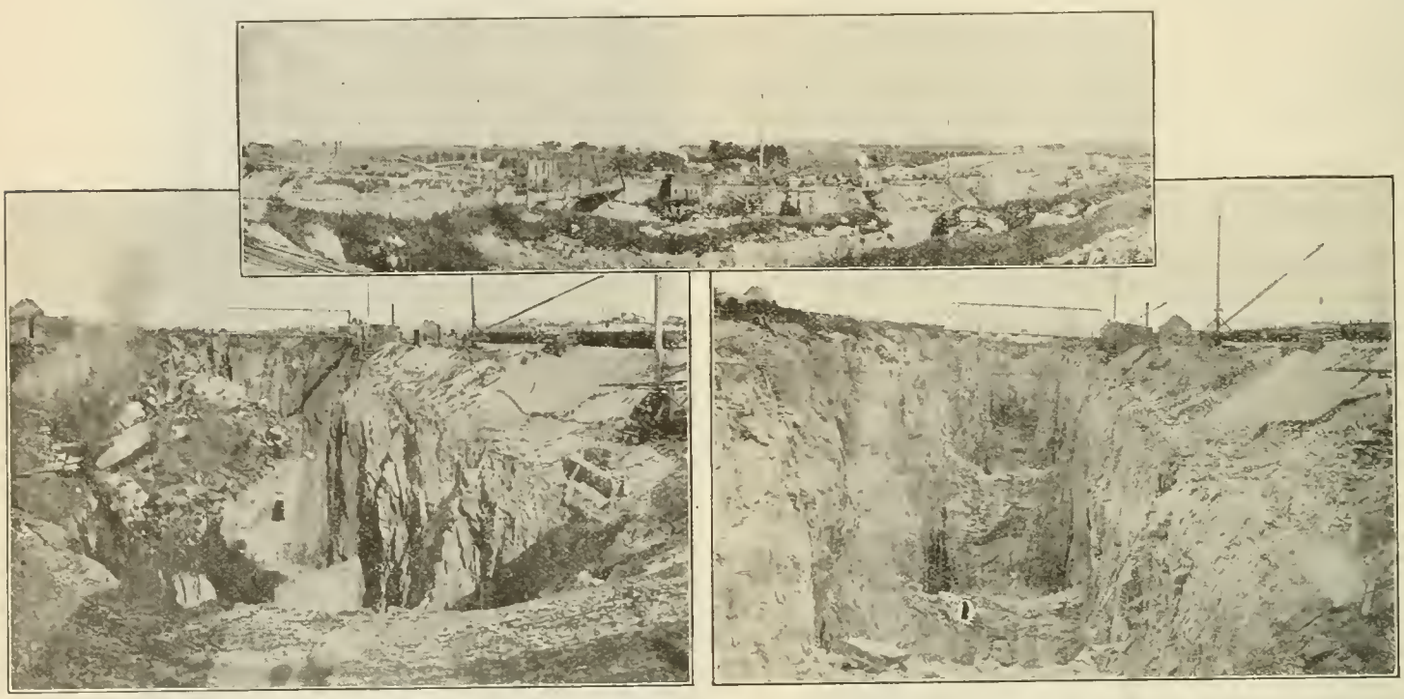
On the second floor is a gymnasium, with tiled floor and recessed shower bath. This adjoins the sleeping apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Christian, which is a large, round room, corresponding to the family room below. The servants' apartments are over a rear wing, entirely shut off from the main body of the house, giving complete privacy to this floor. Six large French windows open from the round room and other chambers onto the roof of the veranda, which is covered with canvas (the same as the deck of a ship), and will serve as an open deck where the spring and autumn sunshine and air may be enjoyed.

The main stairway continues on up through this floor in an octagonal tower, and gives access to the roof of the main building, which is flat and covered with vitrified tile.

Above the roof, in the open loggia of the big circular tower, is the most interesting and unique feature of the house. Extending 14 ft. above the main roof is the main tower, 20 ft. in diameter, in which there will be open-air bedrooms. The openings shown in the picture can be closed with glass shutters in severe weather, thus forming a solarium during winter and open-air sleeping rooms in summer.

This residence is the first to be erected on what was formerly the old Rivers estate, which is now being divided into large plots for high-class residences. When completed it will be a landmark in the neighborhood, and will most likely form a nucleus for a villa colony in this, one of the most beautiful sections of New York City.

WHEN COST IS AN ECONOMY.—It is undoubtedly true that it costs more to conduct a real estate business than ever before, and the reason is that the service furnished by the Record and Guide and the Realty Records Co., greatly increases the business horizon. An office pays a couple of hundred dollars for a service, but then does business without increasing the office force over three times the territory. The day of the real estate peddler is past. The broker to-day must be a high-class man who knows his business.



QUALITIES OF GOOD LIME.

The quarries of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. are situated in Knox County, Maine. The vein commences at Thomaston and extends through Rockland to Rockport, a distance of about twelve miles. The quarries are about two miles in length, fifty feet wide, with a varying depth. The rock is quarried by means of steam drilling and blasting. After the rock is broken up and assorted it is put into buckets or drags, hoisted to the top, dumped into cars ready to be hauled to the kilns.

For over a hundred years the quality of the rock has been famous in the lime industry, and the lime produced has been the standard in the building trade. Chemical analysis shows 96 per cent. calcium of oxide with less than 1 per cent. of magnesia. But a high percentage of calcium oxide in lime-rock is no criterion that it will produce a high-grade lime for building purposes. The physical properties of the rock must be taken into consideration; that is, ability to produce a lime that is quick slacking, that has great sand capacity and that produces a rich mortar with good spreading and bonding properties.

So many limes of high calcium oxide, and particularly those of the magnesia class, have what is called a "back-kick." That is, in the tempering of the mortar there is a shrinkage which leaves a gritty mortar with a shorter spread and weaker bonding properties. In finishing lines this "back-kick" is more noticeable, as a greater shrinkage in stiffening and more plaster and troweling are necessary, which increase the danger of fire-cracking.

Rockland-Rockuort lime, with its high percentage of calcium oxide and good physical properties, has no "back-kick." If produces a rich mortar that doesn't shrink, but has great spreading and bonding properties. The finishing lime requires less plaster and troweling, thus reducing the danger of fire-cracking. It is these qualities that have made Rockland-Rockport lime famous in the building trade.

VIEWS OF THE QUARRIES OF THE ROCKLAND-ROCKPORT LIME COMPANY.

Will Beautify Mr. Dun's Residence.

The original handsome appearance of the exterior of Mr. R. G. Dun's residence at 261 Madison av is to be restored this summer. Time has been playing havoc with part of the brownstone, and, as in the case with so many of the magnificent homes on Fifth and Madison avs, an artificial brownstone front will restore the former appearance of the dwelling. The contract for the work has been awarded to the Fordham Stone Renovating Co., 1123 Broadway. Work will begin about June.

The renovating of the exterior of Mr. Dun's residence brings to light the fact that about 25 per cent. of the best homes in that section have been treated in the same way. Many of the handsome exteriors with everything that indicates a brownstone front have really a facing of artificial stone of the same color as the original front. Some of the structures are so old that time has made ravages in the old stone and it frequently happens that the pieces of stone have to undergo extensive repairs before the artificial composition is used. The section where the artificial stone has been used most in the last twenty years by the Fordham Company is bounded by 34th and 80th sts, Madison av and Riverside Drive.

THE MAN ON THE STREET.

Have you ever stopped a moment and looked at a gang of steel erectors "getting busy" on a building?

Pulling down the great weight at the end of a long cable of a boom derrick, nicely balancing a heavy bunch of steel preparatory to the hoist, swinging in a beam or girder and deftly stopping it in place with a drift-pin? Brawny men these, ready "for a fight or a frolic." Blue-eyed, fair-haired huskies mostly. Children of the north probably, some of them descended from the same Lief Ericson who first trod our shores. Look at their square jaws and cool, steady eyes under the smut of toil. Character there too. You feel that in a scrap, they would be behind a friend even to "all in." Probably at home is the good wife and some sturdy children. These men's lives are always in danger, yet they face their task with no medals or red badges of courage to distinguish their hardihood. Their monuments of industry rise in many cities and bridge many streams. College men may well observe them, for they bear diplomas from the "School of Hard Knocks." So here's a cheer to them all.

He comes to New York on a North River ferry boat. On foggy mornings he goes up to the upper deck and looks at the city of the clouds. The dome of the Singer, the silhouette of the City Investment and Hudson Terminal, the castle of the West st building, backed by minor giants massed and towering. What a sight! As Jimmy Souter says in "Beside the Bonny Brier Bush":

"I'll no deny, I'm lifted.

When you pass a building nowadays like the Metropolitan Life Building Tower and hear a sound like the cicada or dog-day harvest fly (erroneously called the locust), loud and clear, know that it is the carving machine at work beyond the canvas screens. A much maligned tool by the handicraft people, but in the right hand carrying out the right thought just as legitimate a means of expression as the mallet and chisel. Pretty hard on the stone carver of old times, but like the wood and steel engraver he has got to go—"the sun do move"—and also modern methods of production.

Do you remember the Siamese twins? How they were joined by a bond of flesh, and through each body circulated the same blood of life?

Go to Vesey st and see how the two Hudson Terminal buildings are joined likewise at the third story by the copper covered fireproof block-filled bridge. One building is purposed for railroad interests, the other for machinery. Such interrelate much as the twin brothers above. It is a great scheme and makes possible these two great units; to be the heart of a great circulatory system of transportation and industry.

In a short time they will be filled with a new set of producers replacing the present erectors. Brawny sons of toil will be seen no more and deft typewriters will take their place. The sound of the hammer will be followed by the ring of the 'phone bell and the maker of dirt by the vacuum cleaner. Thus will commercial order evolve from apparent chaotic construction.

When I was a boy in technical school we had a professor who had charge of the physical laboratory and the classes connected with this branch of the curriculum. Likewise he was a civil engineer, a doctor of medicine and so forth.

He had charge of the schools at Cooper Union as a night task for many years. He worked every waking hour. Discerning students in his classes learned one thing if nothing else. The courage to say, "I don't know—"

We used to spring catch questions on him and lots that weren't. When he was up against it he never hesitated to acknowledge as above.

To-day many an architect is a sadly harried man. He is afraid of the owner, and often of the contractor. He is trying to occupy an impossible position as master of many trades, meeting specialists on equal and sometimes superior terms. Better cut it out on that tack. Building construction and design is yearly becoming more complicated and ramified. One man can't carry it all, even though he may be like the schoolmaster in Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

"And still they gaz'd and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all he knew."

So, if a man can realize that every man on a building has a brain and that it is moving right along with his hand, and that the foremen and bosses as a rule are the pick of the material, he had better get right down from his pedantic pedestal and learn even from the least of these. A word to the wise is sufficient.

If you read Moyer's article in our Anniversary number and haven't seen his house at South Orange, you may obtain a glimpse of his methods in the show window of a shop on the north side of 17th st, just east of 4th av. There is a mantel in the window, of cement as a base, and in which are imbedded various tiles of all kinds and shapes and colors, but harmoniously blended. To describe it is sacrilege and impossible, and a photo would not do much. Go and see it yourself. It is worth the car fare or a saunter.

When the small things of life become annoyingly numerous, he takes a walk up to the Pennsylvania depot site. Then they disappear like a cloud of mosquitoes in a high wind. The big scene of activity inspires, and tranquilizes. No sight like it was ever before seen in New York, or site either. The steam shovels, the puffing engines, derricks of all types, the concrete foundations, the steel superstructure et al, and yet always under the nice touch of level and theodolite. This all will soon pass away, as the enveloping masonry clothes the structure. Those desiring a liberal education, had best get a move on if they haven't already.

Walt Whitman lived too soon. How the old man would glue himself to the spot, were he here.

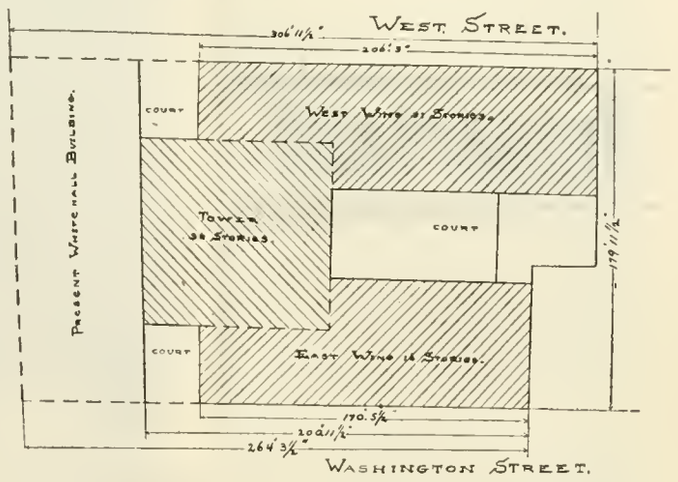
Once on a high building's top with its architect, a big man in the "profesh," watching a giant derrick swing its load into place far above the specks of humanity on the sidewalk, and thinking of McAndrew's Hymn, wherein Kipling makes the old Scotch chief-engineer immortalize the marine engine, I said, "Why don't you write the poem of the building?" "Ah," he said, "that is a task, indeed." Yet, some day, it will be done and in no minor key will the song be sung in this twentieth century as we build into the blue.

BIG CONTRACTS EXPECTED.

Mr. D. A. McLeod, vice-president of the D. C. Weeks Company, 289 4th av, looks for a number of big contracts to be given out this year.

"There are some pretty substantial buildings projected for this year," said Mr. McLeod, "although they are mostly out of the city."

This reference of Mr. McLeod's to work out of the city brings up the apparent fact that the big builders of New York will have to depend largely on out-of-town contracts this year. Contractor after contractor has said that few large undertakings are promised for Manhattan. In leaving the city to build, it means the farther away the work the larger must be the contract. For a New York builder to move a plant elsewhere to put up a structure—including machinery, superintendent, foreman, etc.—the contract would have to be at least $100,000. In the case of small jobs, local builders can invariably underbid outsiders, but where much machinery is required in the construction, the big concerns are better able to handle it, although the contract has to be enough to justify the great expense involved.



FORTY GOLDEN YEARS.

From the "Sunday Democrat."

Our enterprising and valuable contemporary, The Real Estate Record and Guide, last week celebrated its fortieth anniversary, the first number having been issued in 1868 in the old World Building. The initial issue contained 16 pages, while the fortieth anniversary number is a volume of 100 pages, all brimful of news and articles of interest to those in any way connected with real estate and building. We congratulate our 40-year-old brother on its prosperity, and hope that the present management will all be on hand when its golden jubilee is observed.

SITE FOR THE THIRD HIGHEST TOWER BUILDING

The accompanying diagram shows the plot of ground on which is to be erected the new 16-31 and 36-sty office and tower building for The Battery Place Realty Company, and the Century Investing Company. Taking in the present Whitehall building, the new structure will measure 264.3½ ft. on Washington st, 306.11½ ft. on West st, and rear dimensions of 179.11½ ft. The central tower connecting with the Whitehall building will contain 36-stories, 95½x94.3 ft., rising to a height of 446.9 ft. The west wing on West st will have 31 stories, and the east wing on Washington st, 16 stories. In height the proposed structure will add effectively to the change in the skyline, and will rank as the third highest tower building on Manhattan Island. The first highest being the Metropolitan Life tower, 658 feet above the sidewalk, with height from cellar floor to top, 680 feet. The second highest is the Singer tower, 593 feet. Next highest comes the City Investing, the West Street and the Park Row buildings. The estimated cost of the latest skyscraper is placed at about $4,600,000. Seventeen o'd buildings on the site will be demolished. No building contracts have yet been awarded. W. H. Chesebrough is president of both companies. Oakleigh Thorne is treasurer of the Battery Place Realty Company and John M. Stoddard, 135 Broadway, is secretary. R. G. Babbage, 111 Broadway, is secretary and director of the Century Investing Co. Messrs. Clinton & Russell, 32 Nassau st are the architects.

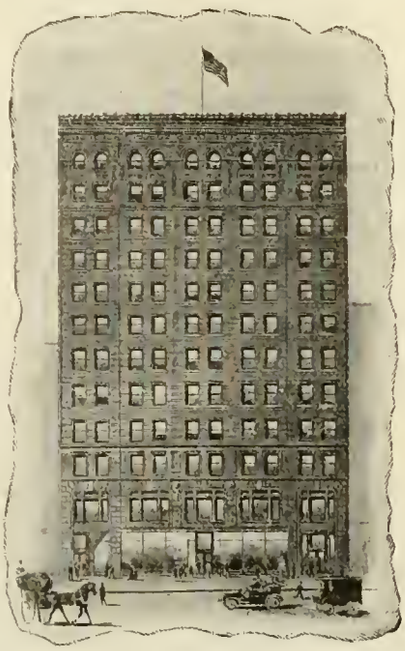
STREET PAVEMENTS IN EUROPE.

A NEW YORKER'S OBSERVATIONS.

Mr. Robert Butcher, manager of the Neuchatel Asphalt Co., Ltd., 265 Broadway, returned on the Mauretania after a six weeks' trip to Europe, during which he visited cities in Great Britain, Germany and France in connection with the business of the firm. In answer to several queries as to what he noted of interest to contractors, he said:

"The streets of the principal cities of Europe are much better paved than those in any of our large centers. This is notably the case in Berlin, where there is so much asphalt pavement. To prevent the necessity of making the streets unsightly by tearing up the pavements to repair gas mains, these are put under the sidewalks. But the authorities even go farther in the interest of the public comfort.

"Instead of the leakage in gas mains finding its way to private dwellings as a result of having no other means of escape, as it is here, the odor comes up through the very small openings in an attractive mosaic stonework along the outer edge of the sidewalk. This is something like a border to the pavement, separating it from the pavement, and is an ornament as well as very useful.



"In London there is a larger percentage of blocks used to overcome the difficulty of grades, this pavement giving the horses a better foothold."

It may be said that Neuchatel asphalt has been used to pave about six-tenths of the streets of Berlin and is also largely used in the other European capitals. More of it is being sent to South American cities than heretofore. The asphalt is from Lake Neuchatel, Switzerland, hence the name.

Mr. Butcher accidentally met Mr. Robert Eidlitz, of Marc Eidlitz & Son, while en route to Liverpool to board the Mauretania. As Mr. Eidlitz was bound for the same steamer, it made the voyage across the ocean very pleasant for both.

WILLIAM WHEELER SMITH.—One of New York's well-known architects, Mr. William Wheeler Smith, of No. 7 Wall st, died on Sunday, April 5, at his residence, No. 17 East 77th st, in the 70th year of his age. Mr. Smith was a director of the Metropolitan Realty Co. and a member of the Union League, Grolier, and Lawyers' Clubs. He was also a member of the American Geographical Society, the American Museum of Natural History, and the Metropolitan Museum of Art. His funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon last, April 7.

Object Lesson in Use of Metal-Covered Doors.

An object lesson that ought to attract the attention of those interested in construction work was afforded by the effect of the fire which partially destroyed the building at 32, 34 and 36 West 18th st on March 10. Owing to the great draft in an elevator shaft and an enclosed stairway, these parts of a structure are among the weakest in time of fire, as the flames receive a fresh impetus there.

For this reason the entrances to and exits from elevators and stairways are protected by careful owners, who wish to minimize danger to life and damage to property. The metal-covered door has proved to be a most effective agency in securing the protection required and the building on West 18th st was provided with this proof against the flames. However, the stairways were protected with one kind of doors, the elevator openings were protected with another kind.

A SUCCESSFUL FIRE TEST FOR RAPP DOORS.

The illustration speaks for itself and shows which resisted the progress of the flames. The door lying on its side closed the entrance to the stairway, but the fire played havoc with it. It is built in sections. The doors to the left remained intact, the only damage being in the removal of their fine ornamental appearance. The wire-glass window to the left was broken by the firemen.

Forty-seven pairs of these doors were installed in this building by John W. Rapp, 1 Madison av. They are of the metal-clad stamped, seamless class and are fireproof, in fact as well as in name. On the tenth floor of the 18th st structure, where the fire was at its worst, the doors were not affected except in having a tarnished appearance. The annexed illustration is a reproduction of that part of the tenth floor after the fire.

The panels of the doors can be seen even in the illustration, despite the effect of the flames. These panels, with the molding finish, are stamped under a 250-ton hydraulic pressure. The jamb also remained intact at the elevator entrance, as may be seen in the illustration, while the jamb of the door before the stairway was unequal to the test.

—That hinges have their importance is evidenced by a recent publication by Bommer Brothers, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who are manufacturing the Bommer Spring Hinges. The little book contains 16 pages of interesting matter anent hinges for various purposes. This particular hinge is a standard and is worth investigating.

Mr. Jennings Elected President.

At the meeting of the New York Metal Exchange on March 30, Mr. P. R. Jennings, senior member of the firm of Bruce & Cook, was elected president of that organization. Representing a wide range of business Mr. Jennings was selected for the high office which he now fills because he was eminently qualified for the duties devolving upon the first officer of the exchange. The firm of Bruce & Cook is one of the oldest of any kind in New York, having conducted its business for nearly a century. It is at 190 Water st and handles metals of all kinds and quantities, from carload lots of spelter, lead and copper down to parcels of but a few pounds. Mr. Jennings has been associated with the metal trade for two score years and has been a member of the New York Metal Exchange for several years.

More Alterations in Tenements.

Improvements in tenement houses are on the increase, according to Mr. Charles Appel, 210 Lafayette st, who makes a specialty of supplying doors, sashes, blinds, etc., in alterations made in that character of structure.

"Business has been very good in this line," said Mr. Appel in answer to a query as to prospects for the year. "Many owners are making extensive alterations in their buildings, especially in the tenement houses, and we are looking for a busy spring. Although we have an unusually large stock of window frames, doors and sashes on hand, we think that there will be none too many. Orders are coming for prompt delivery. Speed counts for more than ever now and the man who gets the goods first on the spot, assuming, of course, that they are good, is the one who gets the business. Naturally, we are after the business and it follows that we hustle."

Mr. Appel recently secured a large consignment of window frames, doors and sashes, and is well equipped to supply orders of all sizes anywhere.

Rubber Tiling in Europe.

Mr. Elmer E. McConnell, manager of the tiling department of the New York Belting & Packing Co., Ltd., has returned from a six weeks' visit to Europe in the interests of his firm. He reports that the use of the interlocking rubber tiling is increasing steadily in Great Britain, Germany and France, substantiating this by mentioning several of the contracts secured while he was abroad.

These include tiling for the new offices of the Hamburg-American Company in Oxford st, London; for the new building put up on Oxford st by Sir Thomas Dewar, known best by his brands of whiskey; and for part of a large store in Paris. The White Star Steamship Company recently had the interlocking tiling placed in its offices in London. The story of the spreading of the use of this kind of tiling to Europe on account of its non-slippery and noiseless qualities has an interesting phase. It is best told in Mr. McConnell's words:

"After it became generally known here," said Mr. McConnell, "it was introduced six or seven years ago on the transatlantic steamers, more especially on the decks of the social rooms. As there is a strong prejudice in England against using foreign goods if any kind of a substitute can be secured, it took some time before the advantages of the rubber tiling were acknowledged by business men there. However, with so many crossing the Atlantic, its fine appearance and good qualities as exhibited on the decks of the steamers were noted, and its use gradually spread to European cities. It can be seen now in large buildings in Hamburg, Bremen and Paris, as well as in English cities."

Mr. McConnell returned on the Mauretania when that boat had such a stormy passage the last week of March. He met Mr. Robert Butcher, of the Neuchatel Asphalt Company, and Mr. Robert J. Eidlitz, of Marc Eidlitz & Son, on the way back.

The interlocking rubber tiling of the New York Belting & Packing Co. has been specified for the new offices of the Hamburg-American Company in New York. This tiling is now being sent to South Africa, South America, and even to Australia. Mr. McConnell has a good word for the enterprise being shown by the Australians, who appear to be alert for the best that can be obtained in any line and favor American goods.

Rice's Process for Repairing Roofs.

The method of Rice's roofing process for repairing roofs consists of replacing defective tin and tar covering by a substantially strong woven cloth, which is applied by means of a liquid waterproof cement onto the worn and leaky parts of a roof. The cloth is again strengthened and protected by another application of this waterproof cement, then the whole roof gets a heavy coating of a rubber-like paint that has all the qualifications of rubber, excepting that it withstands the heat and is distinctly more durable, and the cost is very reasonable. Roofs fixed and coated by this process generally wear from three to five years.

The Rice Company secured the contract for the erection and maintenance of the roofs of the St. Regis Arms, a large apartment house, 557 West 124th st., owned by Chas. Lehman, 321 St. Nicholas av. The work on this 8,000 sq. ft. of roofing was completed by a gang of six men in two days under the Rice patent process for roofing.

PRICES CURRENT

BRICK.—Everything pertaining to the manufacturing end of the metropolitan brick trade continues on the same minor note. Material is moving at a very slow rate. A few manufacturers, urged by their necessities, send down occasional cargoes to add to the surplus in the market, or else to be sacrificed at prices below cost—or what existing circumstances really warrant, in the opinion of others. Quotations in the absence of anything like a normal demand are merely nominal. In view of the element of forced liquidation prices have a wide range, but no considerable amount of business could be transacted at the minimum or bargain rates occasionally reported.

Some of the dealers report that there is a disposition among builders having money at command to take advantage of the very apparent opportunity to obtain material at extremely low rates and the best service that mechanics can give, and they believe an improvement is at hand.

In general business lines there is noted a steady but slow recovery of normal conditions. Mercantile collections are reported as greatly improved. Merchants in good standing are now able to have their paper discounted at from 4½ to 5 per cent. against 7 and 8 per cent. last fall. "Bradstreet's" report on commodity prices as of April 1 shows a check to the downward tendency ruling for some months past. There is an increase of 1 per cent. as compared with March 1, but a decline of 2.7 per cent. from January 1, 1908, and of 11.6 per cent. from the high water price level reached on March 1, 1907.

About the busiest part of Manhattan in construction work at present is in the vicinity of Washington Heights, in the opinion of Mr. W. D. Goss, president of the Empire Brick and Supply Company, 874 Broadway.

"Most of the orders received recently are for delivery in that section," said Mr. Goss. "There are a number of apartment houses going up and a good many estimating in progress. In Brooklyn builders are putting up a number of three-story apartment houses, calling for a good quality of brick.

"Business is picking up somewhat, although it would be much better if the money market would loosen up."

Pessimism has no place in the business of the Harbison-Walker Company, 1133 Broadway, according to the sales agent, Mr. C. J. Henderson, who was queried as to what his concern has been doing the past few weeks and concerning prospects for the spring and summer. Mr. Henderson admitted that during the worst part of the industrial depression last winter, particularly from the first of the year to the middle of February, things were somewhat quiet, but he offset this by declaring that within the past six weeks the company has sold more brick than in any successive six weeks of last year, notwithstanding the fact that last year was a most gratifying one.

CEMENT.—No change is to be particularly noted in the market for American Portland beyond the gradual improvement heretofore referred to, and a gradual firming of quotations through slowly enlarging business. The local houses observe with satisfaction the arrangements for several large skyscrapers and a picking-up of smaller work.

A notice from Washington is to the effect that the opening of bids for Portland cement for the Panama Canal has been postponed from April 13 to May 1.

Advertisements appeared on Monday inviting contractors to bid for the construction of the new Brooklyn subway in six sections. The bids will be received up to Friday, the 8th of May, at 12 o'clock. A full description of the work to be done, with specifications, requirements, etc., is stated in the form of contract and in the detailed drawings therein referred to, on file at the office of the Public Service Commission.

IRON AND STEEL.—Concessions are being made in a number of lines of iron and steel products, notably wrought iron pipe, plates and sheets.

When the bids for 1,000 tons of water pipe were opened by the city officials of Jersey City, R. S. Wood & Co., of Philadelphia, were found to be the lowest bidders, at $23.35, delivered. The Long Beach (L. I.) improvement syndicate is expected to be in the market in a few weeks for about 3,000 tons of cast iron pipe.

Violation charges have been filed against a number of buildings on account of lightweight soil pipe found therein. If the Building Department insists that the pipe must come out, the courts may have to be called on to decide as to who will stand the expense. The Metal Worker, in commenting on the discovery, says:

"The weight of soil pipe is regulated by a law relating to buildings, specifying among other things that each 5-ft. length of single hub pipe should have a definite weight, ranging from 27½ lb. for 2-in. to 225 lb. for 10-in., subject to a slight variation. In addition to being regulated by law in the city mentioned, it is the custom of the trade for reputable makers to stamp the designated weight and the name of the foundry where made on the hub end of each length. The custom is that 2-in. pipe stamped "extra heavy" should weigh within 5 per cent. the designated variation, of 27½ lbs. The jobber or manufacturer who is trying to give honest values is handicapped by the light weight pipe, and the sooner something is done to root out the evil the better will it be for the trade at large. It may go far to settle the question of prices, which has caused much trouble in the trade."

The restriction of the production of hardware by the manufacturers is keeping prices in this line firm. The depression in the building trades being considered nearly over, better business in builders' hardware is expected to come forward before the month closes. The demand for wire nails continues strong.

Prices for structural steel continue to be highly competitive, but with fabricating companies still unsuccessful in obtaining reductions from the mills. In March the orders booked by the American Bridge Company amounted to 15,000 tons. The Brooklyn subways will take about 40,000 tons of structural shapes, but the date when the orders will arrive is exceedingly indefinite. Railroad bridge building is at the lowest ebb in years.

LUMBER.—For the first time in a number of years lumber quotations in any considerable number of items are on a downward grade. Through the winter schedules were adhered to with more or less persistency, but with the opening of spring, when business under normal conditions would be coming forward with strength—but has been for the most part characterized by dullness—inability to maintain past quotations is more freely conceded, and readjustments of actual selling schedules are being made.

A distinction must be made between local and general business, between conditions as they exist in Greater New York, and those which obtain beyond, as other places have been less affected by the general money tightness than the metropolitan district, though this applies more to some lines than others.

At the office of one of the largest wholesale dealers in cypress it was said that orders from the interior for cypress lumber represented very good business, but that local demand was poor. An improved business had been noticed, however, in the last two weeks.

The head of a house dealing in yellow pine said: "The general condition of trade, I find, is about one-half what we have considered as normal, as regards old trade. There is very little new trade. Prices in our line are holding up better than might have been expected under the conditions prevailing in general trade. Of all the boroughs in the city, Brooklyn is in the poorest shape."

In spruce and hemlock there is marked competition for good orders. Hemlock is down to a base price of at least $21 per M. from $22 of some months ago. Reductions in what may be termed nominal lists are also noted for spruce and yellow pine. Hardwoods of good quality are the firmest factors in the lumber trade as a whole, but this is more particularly true of those kinds which are in limited supply.

In connection with its April price current supplement the Lumber Trade Journal says: "It would seem almost unnecessary to say that the prices therein are at this time more or less of a tentative nature; that in individual cases stock is selling from one to two, and even more dollars under these prices is well known, but the cut is not so general, nor is the situation such that we deem it advisable to change the prices any more than is shown in our supplement.

"We do not suppose that any one is foolish enough to suppose that a price current supplement under conditions at present prevailing can be absolutely accurate."

Further, the Journal says:

"The business situation in the lumber trade of the Metropolitan district with the approach of suring has developed to this extent, that there is in various sections of the district a somewhat enlivened inquiry for stock through building estimates, etc., which, while not taken as a forerunner of any marked activity, or, in fact, even as a normal spring demand, is nevertheless, being generally considered as indicative of a fair amount of business for spring. As a matter of fact, after a careful survey of the entire situation, both as regards current and prospective operations in lumber consuming lines, the situation has pretty well resolved itself down to the point, in the minds of the general trade, that while there will not be any marked activity in lumber consuming lines, there will, on the other hand, be a fair run of consumption which will keep things moving along in fair shape.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Not in five years have oil varnishes been so moderate in prices, is the testimony of one of the largest manufacturers and distributors. Shellac gum values are also below the normal level of a long period. Current orders are more numerous than a fortnight ago, but are only for immediate necessities. Stocks in stores are low.

The demand for linseed oil and turpentine in the wholesale trade is not noticeably different from last week, but the painting trades notice an improvement in jobbing work, which, however, has not matured sufficiently to make much difference in the demand for materials outside of the contractors' shops. Terms to buyers have not been more favorable in a number of years.

STONE.—Locally the cutstone and granite lines continue quiet, but in no respect different from most other building trades. Naturally, last year was a good one for many, and there is still a great deal of work. But the distribution of it of late has not been to the best advantage of the trade.

The strikes at New England granite centers had not been wholly settled up to last accounts, though the principal seat of dissatisfaction is now at Barre only, where the men are on strike. At some other places work continues, notwithstanding that no agreement has been reached.

Locally, there is quite a little work in granite and cut stone in sight, though mostly slow in coming out. Perry-Matthews-Buskirk Co., No. 1 Madison av, will furnish the rubbed buff limestone for the new "Fifth Avenue Building" and Henry Hanlein & Son, of 103d st and East River, will cut it. The limestone will be laid, above a granite base, the full height of the walls. The same stone is used in the new Hoffman House.

The Hotel Astor plans have not yet come out for bids to the stone trades, but are expected soon.

FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION. — Henry Maurer & Son, 420 East 23d st, have issued a very attractive and interesting catalogue to illustrate and describe the advantages of the "Herculean" terra cotta flat arch and the "Phoenix" hollow wall construction. Leading qualities attributed to the Herculean arch are the overcoming of the danger of insufficient protection and the insuring of the steel from corrosion. The catalogue abounds in illustrations to show the advantages to be noted, and many letters from prominent architects, general contractors and industrial concerns testify to the satisfaction given by both systems.

ADVANTAGES OF A BUILT-UP READY ROOFING.—The H. W. Johns-Manville Co., 100 William st, New York, advances several reasons for specifying "J.-M. Asbestos Roofing." It is a prepared roofing which requires no preservative coating, and its first cost is said to be its only cost. Built of pure asbestos fibers, the layers are individually waterproofed and cemented together with asphalt. It is heatproof and fireproof, and hence it is adapted to foundries, smelters and ironworks, saw-tooth roofs, concrete roofs, as well as for all-around factory work. On flat, tin or shingle roofs it is laid without removing the shingles or tin.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Brooklyn Subway Bids Invited.

The City of New York, acting by the Public Service Commission for the First District, invites proposals to construct that part of the proposed Fourth av subway in the Borough of Brooklyn which begins at the northerly side of Nassau st and runs thence under Flatbush av extension to Willoughby st, thence to Ashland place to Fourth av, to 43d st. The general plan of construction calls for a four-track subsurface railroad, but the contractor will not be required under the contract proposed to provide or lay tracks, ties or ballast. The tunnels are to have a height of not less than thirteen (13) feet in the clear, and a maximum width of fifteen (15) feet for each track, except at curves, etc., where the width may he increased. The roof of the tunnels is generally to be as near the surface of the street as street conditions and grades will permit. The roof and sides of the tunnels will be of iron or steel and masonry. Entrances to the station are intended to be placed within private property, rights in which will be acquired for the purpose, or on the streets, or on the sidewalks adjacent to private property, as indicated on the plans. The manner of construction shall be by open excavation unless otherwise provided in the contract or directed by the Commission; such portions of the street, however, where the work may not be completed and the backfill is not placed at the expiration of fifteen months from the time of executing the contract, must be substantially boarded over to permit freedom of traffic, if so ordered by the Commission. In the detailed plans for construction, provisions for pipe galleries along the line of the tunnel are included. Bids for the construction of the railroad must be accompanied by a separate bid for the construction of the pipe galleries above referred to, as it is essential for the city to separate the cost of the railroad from the cost of the pipe galleries. The Commission reserves the right to accept a bid for construction of the railroad and at the same time to reject the accompanying bid for pipe galleries. A fuller description of the work to be done is set forth, and other requirements, provisions, details and specifications are stated in the printed form of contract now on file in the office of the Commission, No. 154 Nassau st, in the Borough of Manhattan.

DANBURY, CONN.—At Danbury the new hospital building to be erected will provide an extensive job. It will be constructed of brick and stone and will give employment to an unusually large number of bricklayers and stonemasons.

SUMMIT, N. J.—Balch & Moatz, 5 West 31st st, Manhattan, are preparing plans for the hospital to be erected at Summit, N. J., for the Overlook Hospital. This building will supplement the hospital erected by the same owners and same architects, about two years ago, and will include the office of the president, laboratories and pavilion. No contracts have been awarded.

PATERSON, N. J.—Very Rev. Dean McNulty has purchased ground for the erection of the new home for boys. The site is to the rear of the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, extending along Union av to the site of the Preakness Mountains. The tract contains about 60 acres. Architect William T. Fanning has been engaged to draw plans. He has been instructed to provide a plain brick structure, with accommodations for 50 inmates. The building will be so constructed that wings can be erected at any time.

Municipal Building Plans.

The new Municipal building plans, which are to be submitted in competition by Wednesday, April 15, by twelve New York architects, promises to be a lively contest. The selection of the winning plan is to be made by May 14. It was learned this week that Messrs. Helmle & Huberty of Brooklyn, the only representatives of the architectural profession having their offices outside the Borough of Manhattan, are hard at work on the Municipal building plans. There is no local feeling in Manhattan against "outside men." It's a case here of best man to the front and center. The estimated cost of the structure is placed at between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, and will be erected on the plot bounded by Park row, New Elm, Chambers sts and Tryon row. It will be 20 stories in height and contain more than 600,000 square feet of office space. One thousand dollars is to be paid to each of the competing architects and three jurors will each get $1,000. The winning competitor will receive $5,000 if it is decided not to build. If actual building is carried out the customary percentage is to be paid. The competing architects are as follows: Carrere & Hastings, McKim, Mead & White, J. Stewart Barney, Clinton & Russell, J. H. Freedlander, Heins & La Farge, Howells & Stokes, Trowbridge & Livingston, Warren & Wetmore, H. R. Marshall, Hoppin & Koen, of Manhattan, and Helmle & Huberty, of Brooklyn.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn.—Bids will be received, the 16th day of May, for the construction (complete) of the U. S. LE ROY, N. Y.—The Board of Education of Le Roy are considering the erection of a public school, and are receiving competitive sketches from a number of architects. The appropriation is not yet secured, and definite details are not yet available.

POINT PLEASANT, N. J.—During the week it was announced that plans previously prepared for the rebuilding of the school at Point Pleasant had been rejected, and that a new architect, H. C. Pelton, 1135 Broadway, Manhattan, had been selected. Building will cost about $30,000.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Voters of the Northeast School District voted to buy land and erect a school building at a cost of about $500,000. Building committee was named, consisting of the following: Marshall L. Hill, Walter G. Camp and Francis Coles of the school committee, and Henry C. Storrs, John Hendron, Henry E. Bradley and Frank Washburn.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Brown & Von Beren, New Haven, architects for the new school to be erected at New Haven, state that the structure will be fireproof, and that plans will be ready in about three weeks. The floors will be of concrete, gravel roof, terra cotta cornices, red brick exterior, long meadow stone trimmings, seating capacity 500, auditorium, library, kindergarten, classrooms, play rooms, etc.

MANHATTAN.—C. B. J. Snyder, 500 Park av, has completed plans for the 5-sty fireproof public school on 112th st, 132 ft. west of Lexington av, through to 111th st, 218x100 ft. The facade will be of brick, with trimmings of limestone and terra cotta. There will be interior playrooms for boys and girls on the main floor adjoining the auditorium. The building is to cost $280,000. Bids will soon be called for in the usual way.

It is very probable that local architects will be selected or appointed to prepare plans for most of this work.

This company is now arranging to enter the New York field, expecting to open an office in Manhattan within the next few weeks.

Charles F. Hoppe, who until recently was architect for the New York Edison Co., has severed connection with that corporation and has opened offices in the Terminal Building, 41st st and Park av, for the practice of architecture. Mr. Weisenberger has been selected to fill the position left vacant by Mr. Hoppe.

Mr. Walter R. Mount, for many years connected with the staff of this paper and "Sweet's" Index, has formed a partnership with Mr. S. W. Jennings and will trade under the firm name of Jennings & Mount, advertising agents, with offices at 180 Broadway. The new firm will handle several out-of-town accounts, among others the Pullman Automatic Ventilator Mfg. Co. (window ventilators) and the Burt Mfg. Co. (roof ventilators).

The Willkomm Building Supply Co., with offices in the Midway Building, San Francisco, Cal., represent the following firms in their territory: Toch Brothers, R. I. W. Damp Resisting Paint, 320 5th av; New York Prism Co., 497 West Broadway, and Asbestolith Mfg. Co., 156 5th av. The company has been recently incorporated in this State and desire to increase their representation on the Pacific slope. To those considering such a proposition would do well to communicate with them.

Modern machinery has been installed by the Weisberg-Mark Company, manufacturers of window frames, doors and trim, in their mill at Boulevard and Orchard st, Astoria. Increasing business has necessitated better facilities to handle the orders received, and the company has now one of the largest plants on Long Island. The firm has unusually good opportunities to ship lumber, an advantage that counts a great deal in the business in which it is engaged. With the opening of spring and the consequent increase in all kinds of construction work preparations have been completed to accommodate the demands made for the products turned out by such a concern.

The Classic Parthenon in Concrete.

Antiquity represented in concrete is a feature of the exhibition of the Concrete Association of America on the eleventh floor of the building at 225 5th av. Parts of the classic outlines of the historic Parthenon have been reproduced in this modern composition, even to the frieze. The mould was taken from the originals in the British Museum, where they were placed shortly after parts of the Parthenon were brought to England in 1816. The parts reproduced include several of the slabs of frieze, sculptured with a representation of the Panathenaic procession in very low relief along the top of the external wall of that celebrated pile. The frieze in concrete is part of the costly display made by the Whitehall Portland Cement Company, of Philadelphia, and a section of the cornice is seen in the exhibition of the Barrett Manufacturing Company, of New York.

The attendance at the exhibition under the management of the Concrete Association of America is increasing daily. Secretary Davis says that it will be but a short time before every available place for display is engaged. The exhibits are being made exceedingly attractive and illustrate the ornamental uses to which concrete can be put, as well as the necessary ways in which it should be used.

Old Pews for New Church.

In the new church being erected on Blackwell's Island for the parish of that place there will be installed the pews and confessional boxes taken out of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church when it was demolished by the Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st. St. Michael's was located on 9th av, between 31st and 32d sts, and had to be removed to make room for the Pennsylvania terminal. Among the things kept for further use by the Rheinfrank Company were the pews and confessional boxes. Father Noel, of Blackwell's Island parish, decided that they would be just the thing for the new church, and they will go from the storage yard at 620 East 14th st to the new edifice. This is but one of hundreds of incidents which might be given to show that the business of a wrecking concern is not wholly destructive.

WATERPROOFING ON CONCRETE.—The use of rubberoid for waterproofing on concrete roofs is increasing and the success of its adoption for this purpose has attracted considerable attention recently. The covering of the concrete roof of the all-concrete building on West 34th st, the Monolith, is one of the best evidences of the usefulness of this material in this connection. When the concrete roof was first constructed it was thought by architects and others that rubberoid, which had been confined principally to wooden roofs, could not be attached to the concrete. This difficulty was overcome by the Standard Paint Company by using a compound to cement the covering to the concrete and cement a second layer to the first layer, making its staying qualities permanent.

The interior of the concrete walls of the Monolith was coated with S. P. C. dampproofing paint. The plaster was applied directly to the wall and formed a perfect bond between the concrete and the plaster, also making the building moisture proof. The use of the paint in the cellar walls also keeps the interior free from musty odors and prevents the entrance of sewer and other gases.

TO SHIP STONE TO FLORIDA.—Fifteen hundred miles is a long distance to ship stone to be used in concrete. The awarding of the contract to the Turner Construction Company, 11 Broadway, for the erection of a second reinforced concrete warehouse at Jacksonville, Fla., for the J. G. Christopher Company, discloses the fact that the stone to be used will be from the quarries of the Clinton Point Stone Company. There is practically no stone in Florida available for this purpose, and as the freight rates are so high at present it was found that the stone could be shipped from here cheaper than it could be secured from the State of Georgia, where the nearest quarries are.

The satisfaction given by the Turner Construction Company in erecting the first warehouse for the Christopher Company influenced that concern to give the contract for the second structure to the New York firm without taking competitive estimates. The first building, which has just been completed, is 95x210 ft., and is two stories. The one to be erected will be two stories and will have a floor space 105x105 ft. The Turner Company will provide the schooner required for the transportation of the stone and will send down part of the organization always retained for the execution of contracts at distant points.

THE WEEK.

There was a general broadening tendency to the realty market during the week just past. Confidence is rapidly being restored. Realty owners are finding out that this class of investment is as safe as any in times of stress. People who have been in the habit of placing their money in other securities are coming into the market and either purchasing property or loaning on bond and mortgage. This is a method of investing capital where the control of the property rests solely with the investor. Each investment is unique. There are no two alike. Each has its own particular value. The natural result is that it readily finds favor.

Conditions are rather changed from this time last year, inasmuch that last spring the number of sales reported were on the decrease, while now they are on the increase. To be sure there is considerable difference in the total reported, and the balance is in favor of 1907. Still it is always pleasant to be able to look back and see progress being made, rather than the reverse. There is hardly anything so discouraging as when one looks over results to find things getting worse instead of better.

A well-known broker said the other day: "Unquestionably the worst is over. I do not look to see any great uprising in prices nor any large volume of business done until after the election. The speculators are taking on stock at the present time. Choice properties here and there are quietly being picked up. In many instances these sales have not been reported, but titles quietly taken. In several cases dummies have been used so that the true owners could conceal their identity. In the course of time all this property will be sold to investors. It has not been acquired for any other purpose than to dispose of it again at a profit. If private capital would look carefully over the field, some bargains could be picked up that in the course of a couple of years would net a handsome profit."

In that section south of 59th st several sales of importance were put through. The 5½-sty store and loft building 24 West 39th st was sold for $150,000; the Oriental Bank sold to the Van Norden Trust Co. the southwest corner of Bowery and Grand sts. The purchaser will occupy their new holding. The northeast corner of 8th av and 21st st was sold to a syndicate. A corporation is in the course of formation which will take title to this corner. The seller bought the property at foreclosure last month for $204,579.

In that section north of 59th st Joseph H. Jasper and John Goebel bought 20 West 65th st, a 5-sty apartment house, 25x100.5. The 4-sty American basement dwelling 114 East 76th st changed hands. Daniel B. Freedman bought the 4-sty American basement dwelling 315 West 77th st, 19x102, from Clara B. Sheldon. Thomas Healy took title to the northeast corner of 66th st and Columbus av from the estate of Charles T. Barney. The reported price was $350,000. This is a 4-sty structure on a plot 100x100. The late Charles T. Barney held title to this parcel since 1890, and about eight years ago he erected the present structure. The present purchaser has been a tenant in the building for the last ten years. The New York Operating Co., P. H. Lynch, president, sold 127 and 129 West 125th st, two buildings occupying a frontage of 38.9 and running to a depth of 99 ft. The gross rental of this building is $16,200. It is mortgaged for $110,000. About 4½ lots on Washington Heights, free and clear, were taken in exchange. This plot is on Haven av and runs through to Riverside drive. There is a splendid view of the river from this site.

Washington Heights and the Bronx also came in for a goodly number of sales reported.

A gold mortgage of $400,000 was given by Bonwit, Teller & Co. to the Scottish Provident Institution, of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, on the property known as 13 and 15 West 34th st, located about 325 ft. west of 5th av, 50x126.6. There is an easement or right-of-way 12 ft. wide extending to 35th st. This property is leasehold. The mortgage is due April 2, 1918, and bears interest at the rate of 6 per cent. Martha M. Wysong gave a mortgage to J. Frederick Kernochan and another as a committee for Marie Marshall of $100,000 for one year at 4½ per cent. on the property 30 East 34th st, the southwest corner of Madison av.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The sale that attracted most attention during the week just past was that of the Adams' estate holdings. These properties were offered by Bryan L. Kennelly on last Wednesday. The 4-sty and basement house 344 7th av, 19x64, 20.9 north of 29th st, was sold to J. Arthur Fisher. This structure is a single flat with store and basement store. It is mortgaged for $10,000, due Aug. 11, 1908, at 5 per cent., held by the Mutual Life Insurance Co. The opening bid was $20,000. The final price was $35,000. The 5-sty light brick and brownstone apartment with three stores, 181 to 189 Columbus av, was withdrawn and sold at private sale as reported in another column. C. F. de Casanova purchased for $9,850 the 3-sty frame building, with store, 9 James slip. This property is located on the southwest corner of Water st, and is 22.3x39.4x irregular. It is free and clear of mortgage. It is leased for five years at an annual rental of $1,000. This lease expires March 1, 1911. The two 4-sty brick tenements, with stores, 413 and 415 East 34th st, with two families on a floor, were knocked down to James D. Freeman for $58,000. This property is mortgaged for $17,000 at 5 per cent., held by the Mutual Life Insurance Co., due Sept. 1, 1910. This holding is located 100 ft. east of 1st av and near the Long Island Ferry. An elevated railroad station is directly in front of the door.

In speaking of the auction market, S. Goldsticker, of 149 Broadway, said: "The present condition of the market is the worst that I have seen in many years. I do not believe in forcing it. Not one-tenth of the parcels put up at voluntary sale are purchased by legitimate investors. In most cases they are bought in through dummies. This procedure simply puts a black mark against the property, and I for one do not believe in it. Undoubtedly after the nominations are settled in the coming Presidential election the situation will improve. I am advising my clients to wait until that time."

SPECIAL FRANCHISE TAX ASSESSMENTS.—The State Board of Tax Commissioners completed its assessments for this year.

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST.

The following are excerpts of the minutes of the meeting of the Law Committee and the decision of the Board of Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests relative to bills introduced in Albany, N. Y., affecting real estate.

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 699, PRINTED NO. 872.—Mr. GILCHRIST'S bill adding Section 162-A to the Tenement House Law. The object of this bill is to provide a commission of appeal in the Tenement House Department which shall have jurisdiction to hear appeals in relation to alterations to tenement houses erected prior to April 10, 1901, the time when the present act went into effect. There are to be four Commissioners to be appointed by the Governor besides the Tenement House Commissioner. The bill is objectionable in principle. It gives the Commission on appeals power to modify any provisions of the act relating to existing tenement houses or to limit or suspend its application whenever it shall be made to appear that the enforcement of such provision is impracticable, not feasible or unnecessary or will result in injustice. If such a commission is to be appointed, it should be by the city authorities. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1230, PRINTED NO. 1568.—Mr. GLORE'S bill, which is the same as Senate Bill, No. 426. The object of this bill is to permit bakery stores to be connected with bake shops by dumbwaiters even if fat be boiled or there be fat boiling apparatuses in the bake shop. This is objectionable and the Senate Bill has been objected to. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1037, PRINTED NO. 1263.—DIRECTORS have referred back to the Law Committee this bill to amend Section 375 of the Code of Civil Procedure for further explanation. As the law is at present, if title be claimed to have been quieted by adverse possession it is necessary to show that the period of limitation, 20 years, has run after the disability of the person against whom the statute is invoked has ceased, except that the time so limited cannot be extended more than 10 years, that is to say, title claimed to have been quieted by adverse possession is not considered marketable unless the proofs of possession be accompanied by proofs that the time has run against competent persons or that the possession has run for a period of say about 50 years, when the courts will indulge in the presumption that any disability which existed at the time of entry by the claimant has long since been terminated. The intention of this bill is to make the term absolute, not more than 10 years after the period of 20 years has run, so that proof of possession for 30 years will suffice without the necessity of proving family history of the persons against whom the title is claimed. The passage of this bill would result in quieting and making marketable a number of titles which cannot now be approved on the record. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1297, PRINTED NO. 1679.—Mr. SHORTT'S bill to amend Section 1051 of the charter so that in case any collector or deputy collector of taxes shall refuse to give a certificate countersigned by the Comptroller, that there are no tax liens upon the property, the issuance of such a certificate may be compelled by mandamus. Whenever such a certificate issued by the collector countersigned by the Comptroller is issued, it operates as estoppel against the city, and frees the property from all liens of taxes, water rents and assessments prior to the date of the receipt or certificate and from all sales for any of such items when the time for redemption had not expired at the time of the issue of such certificate. The object of this bill evidently is to make it possible to obtain from the city a binding declaration that specific property is free of taxes and assessment lieos. It would be very desirable to have this. The bill as drafted refers only to the refusal of the collector or deputy collector to issue the certificate and provides for mandamus to compel the giving of it. Apparently it does not provide for mandamus against the Comptroller to require him to countersign it. It should be made clear whether the Comptroller retains discretion upon the subject. If such a bill is to be passed it should take effect some time in the future so that the city may prepare its records so that it may safely comply with the requirements of the law. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1320, PRINTED NO. 1652; SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 718, PRINTED NO. 911.—Messrs. WAINWRIGHT'S and PAGE'S bills to amend the Public Service Commission Law generally and adding a new article placing the telegraph and telephone companies under the jurisdiction of the Commission. The general amendments to Articles 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6 are merely matters necessary to clear up definitions and powers of the Commission in administrative matters, the necessity for which has been developed by the operation of the law. The new Article 5 relating to telegraph and telephone companies places these companies under the jurisdiction of the Commission in the same manner as other public service corporations. Such action is to be commended on principle and the committee advises favoring the bill. APPROVED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1317, PRINTED NO. 1699.—Mr. GLUCK'S bill to add Section 51-A to the charter, giving the Mayor power to license the erection of stands on any street in this city for the sale of newspapers, fruit and other commodities. This bill is very objectionable. It does not limit the space upon the street within which such a stand may be erected, and under it the Mayor is not permitted to limit the kind of commodities which may be sold. There is no reason why the holder of a license for such a stand cannot sell all sorts of merchandise from it. There is no statement that the license shall be revokable or limited as to time. It is very doubtful whether the Legislature has a right thus permanently to appropriate the public streets for the sale of commodities. Whether it be doubtful or not, it is certainly improper that it should be done. Every scheme by which the streets are to be encroached upon for private purposes is objectionable. OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1378, PRINTED NO. 1851.—Mr. SILBERMAN'S bill to pay damages to owners of lots claiming to have been damaged by the closing of certain streets in the 23d Ward of the Borough of the Bronx, which were assessed for the opening of such streets. These streets seem to have been closed for the purpose of permitting the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. to cross them with its tracks. The damages to be paid are not limited to the sum paid to the city. If this bill is passed it will be a very expensive proposition. The damages which will be awarded will not only be the amount which was paid by the railroad compauy, but will also exceed that and all assessments paid by the persons receiving the damages. Assessments were paid on the basis of values as they were when the streets were opened. The damages will be awarded on the basis of present values. There is always power to close streets, and if every time the city closes a street it must expect to pay damages all over a very large region, it will be very unlikely that any streets will be closed, no matter how unnecessary they may become. OPPOSED.

"BROKERS' COMMISSIONS."

One of the most common sources of annoyance between sellers of real estate and a broker, and which often leads to a legal contest, with a very sore feeling resulting on one side or the other, whichever way the court or a jury may decide—results from the two more or less conflicting doctrines laid down by the courts; both of which are basically founded in common sense and justice, yet like many other good theories often result in confusion in co-application.

The doctrine of "sowing the seed" so termed in a flowery opinion, though founded in justice and equity, yet becomes confusion worse confounded when several, perhaps many, have sown seed in the same furrow, and the question arises, Whose seed germinated and produced the "full corn in the ear."

In a case not long since before the Appellate Division for review, the two brokers, the seller and the purchaser, being as usual the occupants of the stage, the plot was the usual one, too; both brokers had had the same customer in tow at different periods, but broker number one was dropped, and through broker number two the sale was effected. Had the purchaser been a private individual the reader would at once exclaim, "The same old story! A favorite broker substituted to reap the harvest!" But in this case the purchaser was the City of New York, to acquire land for a school site.

The court of first instance had been moved by the evidence, much as our reader who shall have followed us thus far will be influenced; but in this praiseworthy feeling had neglected to view the case from another point of view—there are always two sides to a case—and sometimes three! Broker number two had been, of course, paid his commission on closing the sale, and broker number one (the plaintiff) was now rewarded, and apparently legitimately, for his efforts which probably were the real moving cause of the sale. But there was a third point of view, that of the man who was thus to be made to pay two commissions for one sale! By strict legal propositions correctly applied justice had been done to all but him. On his appeal, the court of review escaped the illogical position of two commissions being justly claimable on one sale had, and relieved as well the seller from his dangerous predicament—one from which too many, like the late Comptroller Green, are led to seek immunity by waiting for a judgment had—of having paid too quickly. The fact that the seller had never known that the eventual purchaser was the same party whom broker number one had been first seeking to sell the property to, was made the turning point of the decision in relieving the seller from the payment of the double commission.

It is often quoted that "two wrongs don't make a right," and the converse might be equally admissible, that "two rights don't make a wrong," but for such cases as this. Both brokers were probably entitled to a commission, if no one's else rights were involved, as the first court virtually found, but the two rights did make a wrong, when applied against a seller, who was perfectly innocent of any knowledge of it being the same purchaser whom both brokers had been working to effect the sale to.

We know that brokers are very loth to disclose the name of the party whom they hope to turn into a purchaser, but it does seem to be, generally speaking, and in the present case certainly was, mistaken policy.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I read some time ago in the Record a decision holding that a broker is not entitled to a commission on a "Lease Privilege" whether exercised or not. You may be able to put your hand on the report.

Answer.—This opinion to which you refer was based entirely on general principles. The Statute of Frauds requiring any agreement not to be performed within a year, to be put in writing and signed, and an understanding to pay a commission at the end of several years on an option if then availed of by the lessee, seems to us to fall within the statute.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A title of real estate closing on the 23d of March at 11 A. M., rent to be adjusted. The rent has been paid from March 1 to April 1. The purchaser claims nine days' rent, stating that from noon March 23 to noon on the first day of April is nine days, and that the rent began at 12 o'clock noon on the first day of March. The owner claims eight days' rent, stating that from March 23 to the 31st is eight days. I would like an answer on this without publishing my name.

Answer.—The law assumes to the year twelve months and to the month thirty days. If the question is limited to a less period than a month, we think the true solution would be to divide the rent received for the month from March 1 at 12 noon to April 1 at 12 noon into 31 parts, allow to the purchaser nine of these parts and reserve to the seller twenty-two parts.

WHO'S WHO IN REAL ESTATE.—VII.

Hon. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler is prominently identified with realty interests in Manhattan as well as being a lawyer of prominence. He is a graduate of Columbia Law School and Cambridge University, England, and was admitted to the bar in 1891. Mr. Chanler was counsel in defense of Carlyle Harris and Roland B. Molineux, on trial for murder, and identified with several other prominent cases. In 1906 he received the Democratic and Independence League nomination for Lieut.-Governor of New York State and was elected. He is in office at the present time.

HON. L. S. CHANLER.

Mr. Chanler is the owner of many valuable parcels of Manhattan property. They are principally situated in the 50's sts, on the West Side, and on 9th and 10th avs in that neighborhood. He is a member of the board of managers of the Hudson River State Hospital and House of Refuge on Randall's Island, member of the Bar Association of New York, and also a member of the following clubs: St. Nicholas, Knickerbocker, Racquet and Tennis, Rockaway, Hunting, Lawyers', Manhattan and Church.

Among the realty parcels recorded in Mr. Chanler's name, as given in the Real Estate Directory, are the following named: Nos. 360 Amsterdam av, 329 West 55th st, 420 West 55th st, 412 West 55th st, 324 to 348 West 55th st, 302 and 304 West 55th st, 347 and 349 West 55th st, 362 to 368 West 55th st, 331 and 333 West 55th st, 318 and 320 West 55th st, 357 to 365 West 55th st, 305 West 54th st, all of which are dwelling houses; 440 West 56th st, which is a chapel, and 446 and 450 West 56th st, vacant lots. The avenue holdings of Mr. Chanler include 921 to 927 8th av, a business building; 842 to 850 9th av, 838 9th av, 841 10th av, 849 10th av, 911 to 919 8th av, 830 to 836 9th av, 839 to 849 9th av, 831 to 839 10th av, and 828 to 848 10th av.

NOTABLE BANQUET SCHEDULED.

A notable gathering of New Jerseyites is promised for April 25 at the banquet of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange, in honor of the Hudson River tunnel builders. Unusual interest is being shown in the event by various Boards of Trade and prominent citizens in every section of the State. The Board of Trade of the City of Newark has accepted an invitation to attend the dinner, and has assured the Exchange that a large delegation will represent it. The Taxpayers' Associations and business exchanges of other cities have also written to assure the Exchange of their willingness to participate in the event.

Chairman Joseph P. Day, of the Dinner Committee, has fixed the dinner for April 25 at the Park Avenue Hotel, the change and place being made necessary to assure the presence of Governor Fort, and also to provide a hotel with the necessary seating capacity.

The special guests of honor have sent their acceptances to the Exchange, and have expressed their hearty appreciation of the courtesy to be extended to them.

President Otto Kempner expressed the belief on Monday that from the present outlook more than 300 persons will attend the banquet.

MANY MEASURES SCRUTINIZED.

At the April meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance on Wednesday evening, Chairman Robitzek, of the Committee on Legislation, called attention to the fact that a thousand bills introduced at Albany had been looked into during the session, many of which have received its approval.

One of the recent measures that will likely meet with the approval of the Alliance provides for the reimbursement of owners of property assessed for the opening of Cypress av and other streets and avenues in the 23d Ward, for damage due by reason of the closing of the thoroughfares in question. The bill provides that three commissioners be appointed to estimate the damages sustained by the several owners of property affected thereby, and that the amounts so awarded shall be paid out of the moneys paid into the Sinking Fund Commission of the city by the New Haven Railroad in consideration of the municipality conveying to that company title to real estate forming the beds of the thoroughfares closed.

MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN SET.—There has been recently set a fountain opposite 102 4th av. This building is owned by Grace Church and is near 11th st. The memorial is of bronze and has accommodations for the quenching of the thirst of man, horse and dog. There is the following inscription on the fountain, which is a gift of a member of Grace Church: "Let none say I will not drink water." MCMVII.

SCHUYLER SQUARE.

ITS DEVELOPMENT INTO A HIGH-CLASS RESIDENTIAL SECTION.

The section of Broadway, which was designated as Schuyler sq by the city government, extends from 106th to 109th sts, from the junction of West End av and Broadway, and has been the scene of as perhaps as remarkable a development as the West Side has seen in the same space of time anywhere.

In 1897 the only buildings in this section were a small 3-sty brick building on the southeast corner 108th st, 25x100, which has since been built up two stories higher, and a frame building east of the southeast corner 106th st. Among the first buildings in this section was the northwest corner 106th and Schuyler sq, which has since been torn down, although itself a modern apartment of good construction, but not of high-class enough for this section to make it profitable, the value of the land having increased so much, and on its site now stands the beautiful "Stanley Court," a 12-sty modern up-to-date apartment, also owned by Edmund T. Dwight and associates, and adjoining this the Bloomingdale Dutch Reformed Church has a handsome building, built from the plans of Messrs. Ludlow & Valentine.

OPERATIONS BEGIN.

In 1897 building operations began in earnest, and the southwest corner of Schuyler sq and 107th st was built by Mr. Klingman, a 7-sty apartment, 50 ft. wide by 100 ft. deep, an apartment house in which the rooms were unusually large, and has always been a great success, having been filled from the time it was built. Then the building on the west side of Schuyler sq, between 107th and 108th sts, was built. Shortly after this Mr. Picken began the erection of the "Westbourne," south of 106th st, running through from Broadway to West End av, 50 ft. wide and 7-stys high. This was also a success at once, and was afterwards sold to Edmund Dwight, whose interests are large in this section. About the same time the building on the south side of 106th st, at the junction of Broadway and West End av, 7-stys, 50 ft. wide, was built.

The next improvement was the building on the east side of Broadway, between 105th and 106th sts, of 5-sty apartments, and then the building on the northeast corner of 107th st and Broadway, which was built by Mr. Beaudet, and adjoining it the 7-sty single flat built by Mr. Herbert Dongan. After this, the erection of the large apartment buildings on the west side of Broadway, between 108th and 109th sts, was begun, and then the building on the west side of Schuyler sq, between 107th and 108th sts. "The Trouville."

EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS.

This section is in the midst of the finest residential section of the upper West Side, and property on the square will undoubtedly increase very largely in value, having above it the magnificent buildings of Columbia University, the School of Art and Design, Barnard College and kindred institutions, bringing into the section a high-class of tenants, and below it, extending along Riverside drive and West End av, in 105th, 106th, 107th and 108th sts, are some of the finest houses built on the West Side.

On the southwest corner 106th st and West End av, where now stands the apartment house built by Carlson & Dalley, was the old Tripler mansion, where some of the first experiments were made in liquid air by Professor Tripler, and where now stands the Manhassett, the splendid 11-sty apartment houses on the west side of Broadway, between 108th and 109th sts, and on Riverside drive where stands the Buena Vista, and the fine residences on the north side of 108th st and south side of 109th st, formerly stood the old Brower mansion, owned and built by John Brower, who formerly owned the Brower House, Broadway and 27th st, New York City, his family retaining this whole block until the march of improvements was so great and prices increased so much that they sold for the present improvements.

LOCAL LANDMARKS.

The two residences built by Samuel G. Bayne, of the Seaboard National Bank, on Riverside drive at 108th st, have long been landmarks in this section, and were splendidly built, and among the first residences of any importance to be built in this section of Riverside drive, except the house of Mr. Noakes, at 113th st and Riverside drive. The Alimar, northwest corner 105th st and West End av, is one of the most attractive and well-planned. To the north of the square, and between Cathedral or University Heights, is Cathedral Parkway (110th st), a beautiful wide street connecting Central Park and Morningside and Riverside Parks, which was in danger of being given over permanently to saloons and resorts of bad character, but the vigorous efforts of the Riverside and Morningside Heights Association, composed of residents of the neighborhood, fought this so vigorously that they are gone now, and some of the first improvements in the section are now being built on Cathedral parkway and Riverside drive, such as the Hendrick Hudson.

All of this section surrounding Schuyler sq has maintained its position as a high-class residential section, and I think will increase in value to such an extent that even some of the modern 7-sty buildings now in this section will be torn down to give place for others similar to Stanley Court and the buildings on Broadway and Riverside drive, from 108th to 109th st, and will make this, I think, one of the best investment sections of the upper West Side.

EXPOSITION OF SAFETY DEVICES.

A private view of the exposition of safety devices and industrial hygiene will be held to-day in the McGraw Building, 231 West 39th st. The exposition property opens April 13 and will run continuously until June 1. There is about 9,000 square feet of floor space to exhibitors.

There are a number of devices shown which are of great interest to real estate owners and tenants. These include fire appliances, hose, buckets, sprinklers, automatic fire alarms, safety elevators, as well as a number of patented inventions which make both accidents and fires less probable.

A fireproof room, 20x12, demonstrating a straight arch of brick, has been constructed. Experiments of fireproof paint will be given in this room. Another feature will be a miniature mine gallery. This is entirely constructed of steel. The object is to lessen the chance of accidents. Safety gasoline cans, gas cocks and many other novelties are in the exposition. The room chosen is well adapted to this kind of an exhibition. It is well lighted and ventilated.

The exposition is in no way a commercial enterprise. No charge is made to exhibitors, except five dollars entrance fee. This includes cataloguing. No admission fee is charged. Inventors and makers of safety appliances are cordially invited to send their articles to Dr. William D. Tolman.

Among the Committee of Direction appear the following names: Charles Kirchhoff, T. Commerford Martin, Albert Spies, F. A. Halsey, H. W. Desmond, E. F. Roeber, J. R. Dunlap, W. R. FAVOR SHERIDAN BILL.—Mr. Charles H. Schnelle, chairman of the Committee on Law and Legislation of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations, states that the various associations comprising the United Associations are not taking an active part in connection with the Sheridan Tenement House Bill, but that they favor its passage. The bill affects Bronx owners more than those on Manhattan, and as the organizations of the United Associations are all in Manhattan it was decided to go no further than send resolutions to Albany favoring the measure.

Organizations Indorse Subway.

The bill introduced by Senator Davis and Assemblyman Robinson, amending the Elsberg law, is receiving support from real estate associations throughout the city. The United Real Estate Owners' Association, with a membership of eight thousand, has adopted the following resolution:

"That we heartily indorse as an organization and give all the assistance in our power to the Beverely R. Robinson rapid transit bill, and further resolved;

"That a communication be sent to all the local associations informing them of this action of the united body."

The West Side Taxpayers' Association, Frank Demuth, president, and the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th wards, George G. Banzer, president, have also indorsed the bill.

THE TREATMENT OF WOODWORK.—The following is an excerpt from an article by George F. Walsh which appeared in "Building Management" (Chicago) of March last, dealing with the treatment of woodwork: "It it not alone with stains that wood treatment is receiving a good deal of attention from artists. Every sort of method which tends to deepen the natural wood or to bring out any inherent beauty is resorted to. Woods of certain trees grow more beautiful with time. Ageing is a process which nature has adopted for improving her products. To imitate the ageing process is a work that has attracted a great deal of attention. Oak and mahogany are two woods in particular which improve their natural surface effects by time. Some of the rich tone effects of these woods a century old are universally admired. Many efforts have been made with the use of acids and alkalies to imitate the rich red effects of age. One process is to use lime water or the milk of lime, which is brushed over the surface and then the lime flakes carefully dusted off when dry. This process is repeated in some instances several times until the desired effect is obtained. When the last application has dried thoroughly the surface is washed and sponged with vinegar. The sponging is a work that requires some training, for often this either spoils or improves the rich tones. The vinegar neutralizes the alkali and leaves the surface ready for the first coat of varnish. A little experiment with a small piece of oak or mahogany will indicate to one the nature of the difficulties to overcome, and after a few trials it will be safe to try the work on some article of furniture or the interior trim of a house."

It has a frontage of 50 feet on Broadway, 116 feet on 8th st and 37 feet on Astor pl. John Jay, Alexander Hamilton and Isaac Roosevelt sold the property in 1787 to Baron Frederick Charles Hans Poelitz, who in turn transferred it to Robert R. Randall. The present owners of the plot, the Sailors' Snug Harbor, received title to the property by a deed of gift from Mr. Randall. A ground lease was made which has 103 years to run. DYCKMAN TRACT OPPORTUNITIES.

The development of Manhattan real estate has been largely a series of repetitions. The poorer class has, with the growth of the city, moved gradually northward along the extreme east, the middle class has located to the west and north of the park, and the rich have settled along the line of 5th av. The fact that this condition has existed ever since New York has been a city, and as there appears to be no good reason why there should be any change, warrants the conclusion that the extreme upper west side of Manhattan, including a portion of the Dyckman section, is destined to become the home of the substantial and desirable middle class who form the backbone of the city. There is, therefore, no problem as to the class of people which is to be housed in those parts.

There is, however, a grave question in the mind of property owners, operators and. builders as to the market for private dwellings in that vicinity costing less than $25,000. If there be a demand, it is believed that that section lying just south of 181st st, between Broadway and Riverside drive, is ideally suited for such character of improvement. Physically, it is in every respect a duplicate of the section from 70th to 90th sts, west of Broadway.

NOTICEABLE FEATURE.

Perhaps the most noticeable feature in the development of the northern end of the island is the lack of building in the Dyckman section. In that zone there is a large area of moderate priced lots immediately adjoining the subway which as yet has not attracted the attention of builders. This may be due to its apparently low appearance, further accentuated by the presence of Fort George and Inwood Hills which bound that section on the south and west, though as a matter of fact its elevation is higher than the thickly populated lower East Side. It has been argued by students of conditions that if the same builders who are paying from $18,000 to $30,000 for 25-foot lots on the lower East Side would realize the advantages of the Dyckman section, as they did a few years ago the advantages of Lenox av, between 130th and 140th sts, there would be activity in the Dyckman tract equal to any that our city has witnessed.

Meanwhile, those seeking vacant land investments will find opportunities in the heart of extreme upper Manhattan which cannot fail to yield returns.

AN URGENT NECESSITY.

At a recent meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association resolutions were passed requesting the Mayor, Comptroller, the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to make every effort to expedite the construction of the Broadway-Lexington av subway route. In the opinion of the Taxpayers' Association, there is greater need of the subway in question than the 4th av, Brooklyn, route.

One of the chief contentions of the West Side Association is that the present rapid transit facilities in both Manhattan and the Bronx are insufficient. It further maintains that at the present moment there is no transit undertaking in progress which will give the required relief in the future. In part, the resolution reads:

"Harlem and Yorkville with their many thousands of East Side tenement dwellers will suffer more and more each year unless immediate construction of the subway is commenced. Thousands of people now living along the line of the Manhattan and Bronx route are leaving the city and moving to New Jersey on account of the inconvenience of travel and by the opening of the McAdoo tunnel. Still more will be attracted from our city when the Pennsylvania tunnel is completed (which will be in a few years), unless something is done now to provide for the future."

PRE-DIGESTED RECORDS.—Would it prove a convenience to you to have the local Register's Office as an adjunct to your own office? The Record and Guide Quarterly is a digested transcript of the Register's Office records. Cost a few cents per week.

A WRONG IMPRESSION CORRECTED

It has generally been supposed by property owners in both Manhattan and Queens that the Pennsylvania tunnels under the East River would be available for local traffic upon their completion. That such an impression is erroneous is borne out in a report by H. P. Seaman, chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, which plainly shows that the provisions of the Pennsylvania Railroad's franchise practically prohibit the establishment of a local station in Long Island City. In part the language of the franchise secured by the tunnel company is quoted as follows:

The tunnel company shall have no power to carry on merely local traffic unless with the approval of the Board of Aldermen and Mayor of the city, and for such additional consideration to be paid to the city as they shall prescribe. Local traffic shall be deemed to include the carriage of passengers or freight between the terminal station of the tunnel company and any point in the City of New York within five miles of said terminal station, or between stations within said limits.

It will be recalled that the terminal depot of the Pennsylvania is situated at 7th av and 33d st, Manhattan, which point is distant but three miles, more or less, from Long Island City. Five miles from the terminal mentioned would bring a local station in the outskirts of a part of Queens where there is little to warrant the construction of a depot.

It will therefore be seen that unless the provisions of the franchise are modified, owners of realty, particularly in the built up section of nearby Queens, are not likely to receive the benefits from the Pennsylvania's local traffic which would otherwise accrue.

AN INTERESTING CONTENTION.—A recent report of the Special Committee of the Bronx Taxpayers' Alliance relating to the subject of taxation argues that the increase of the tax on vacant property has a tendency to reduce its selling value by an amount in the borough of the Bronx equal to about 20 times the tax. It further reasons that the selling value of land depends upon the income producing power. "If the tax increases on land," it continues, "and it is expected that the increase will be permanent, the tax falls upon those who own the property at the time the tax is imposed, and does not affect those who buy the land afterward, because they pay less for the property and receive the same net income as they would have received had no tax been imposed, and they had paid a high price for the property."

MOVING TIME IN HUDSON TERMINAL BUILDINGS.—Between 9,000 and 10,000 men, about 4,000 horses and approximately 2,000 vans will be used to move the new tenants into the new Hudson Terminal buildings. This seems a large number until it is considered that the building will house about 10,000 tenants. It is estimated that there is about twenty-seven acres of floor space in the structures. A carefully thought system is being put into operation. Each tenant has a special time allotted to him for his moving. The landlords furnish the vans and all the tenant is required to do is to have his goods in readiness at the appointed time. No tenants are allowed to move into the building except as per schedule. Special arrangements have been made with the Police Department to take charge of the street traffic in order to avoid congestion as much as possible.

A POINT WORTH KNOWING.—In altering or remodeling bathrooms it is not imperative that absolutely new material be employed. There is considerable slightly used porcelain ware in the market to-day which will meet the requirements of the property owner in the direction indicated. Some modest outfits, including bathtub, lavatory, closet and accessories, may be obtained as low as $50, or more pretentious sets may be had at figures correspondingly higher. Porcelain ware such as mentioned may usually be purchased from any of the large house wrecking companies either in Manhattan or Brooklyn, or in any of the large cities; some dealers even going so far as to furnish a written guarantee with every outfit they sell. A little foresight will save the owner at least one-half what the plumber would ordinarily charge for supplies of this description.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assesment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

April 3, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Vol. LXXXI. APRIL 18, 1908. No. 2092.

THERE are fewer indications than there were a few weeks ago of a general industrial revival, but there are also more indications that the business community is beginning to profit by the bitter but salutary dose of business depression. A prolonged period of prosperity encourages not only extravagance of personal expenditures, but a somewhat easy extravagance of business methods. A manufacturer who finds it difficult to keep abreast of his orders is not prompted to look closely into the economy of his business organization. It is cheaper for the time being to devote all his energy to increasing his product, even if the cost of production becomes unpleasantly high. He can afford to postpone any strenuous attempt to make his methods of production and sale as economical as possible until the coming of a period of lower prices and fewer orders. It is this process of business reorganization which is now taking place; and it must be allowed to run its course. The railroads are beginning to succeed in diminishing their operating expenses in something like the same proportion as the decrease in gross earnings, and all large industries are adopting similar measures to accomplish similar results. Even though there is no general reduction in wages, the labor cost of the most important services and commodities is being reduced. The less competent employees are being discharged, and the fear of a similar fate stimulates their more fortunate or able brethren to renewed exertions. All persons, machines and methods are being put to a much severer test than there can be in a period of prosperity; and they must prove their competence or else be thrown into the scrapheap. A process of this kind cannot be completed in a day, and it is not desirable that it should be. Occasional periods of business depression are as necessary to the health of the business organism as tonics and purges are to the health of the human body. No doubt neither men nor business communities would need such drastic medicine in case they did not abuse themselves during their periods of health and abundance. The medicine is only necessary in order to cleanse the system from the effects of excess and to renew its vitality. But if any industrial community ever needed such medicine it was the American business community of 1906 and 1907. Its health had not been permanently undermined by its long period of prosperity, but it was certainly suffering from too much blood and too much flesh; and it needed some wholesome bleeding and some rigorous training. Everything indicates that it is getting a large allowance of just what it needs, and that it is already showing symptoms of better health.

ONE of the most hopeful developments in the rapid transit situation has been the recent rise in the price of the local traction shares. This rise in price has not been sufficient, of course, to restore the credit of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, but so far as it has gone it has been encouraging and is indicative of a real improvement in the financial position and prospects of the local traction corporations. The situation of the Interborough Company itself would, of course, be exceptionally strong in case the merger had never taken place, and the best possible result of the New York City Railway receivership would be a dissolution of the merger. For in that event the Interborough Company would be in a position to build additional Manhattan subways with its own credit. Even, however, if the merger cannot be dissolved, the Interborough-Metropolitan Company may be strong enough at the expiration of another year again to become an actual factor in the gradual construction of an enlarged subway system. Under the management of the receivers the earnings of the street railway cars are being augmented, and in the course of time can be still further augmented. Probably they will never be sufficient to meet the obligations of the New York City Railway Company, but they should be sufficient to give a considerable value to the street railway shares owned by the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. It is to be hoped that the improvement will proceed rapidly enough to justify the early announcement of some scheme of reorganization. As the Record and Guide has frequently pointed out, this is a matter which concerns not merely the owners of the securities of the several local traction corporations, but the traveling public of the whole city. Whether or not the merger of the street railway company with the Subway Company was desirable in the public interest, there can be no doubt that the subway system of New York should, if possible, be leased and operated by one corporation. Several independent subway companies operating lines which were not connected one with another would give the city a service much less convenient and much more expensive than could a single company operating one connecting subway system. It would consequently be peculiarly unfortunate in case the Interborough Company were unable, because of its defective credit, to become an actual bidder for any new Manhattan subways. It looks now as if such additions to the underground system would be built by private capital, and provided it can raise the necessary money, the Interborough Company can afford to offer the city a better operating contract than can a new and independent company. Any further improvement in the value of the Interborough-Metropolitan securities will consequently remove one of the gravest existing drawbacks to the construction under most satisfactory conditions of new underground railroads.

NO question of discretion was involved in the case which the Appellate Division of the First Department decided this week in favor of the Tenement House Commissioner and the construction he had placed on a certain provision of law. The relators insisted, according to the opinion handed down, that upon the facts recited in the interlocutory writ they were entitled as a matter of strict legal right to the approval of their plans and specifications for the alteration of a row of houses which had been erected and completed according to other plans which had been approved by the department. This is not, therefore, a case of being permitted to build in violation of the law and disciplined for it afterwards, because the purpose of the legal proceeding was to compel the commissioner to approve plans and specifications for the alteration of existing cellar rooms so that they could be occupied by janitors and their families. The first objection which the commissioner made to the plans was that the ceiling of the rooms are only two feet above the curb of the street, whereas they should be four feet and six inches above that level, because the houses were erected since the passage of the Tenement House act, and hence the application of the owner was governed by Section 91, subdiv. 3, which relates to rooms in basements and when they may be altered so as to be occupied for living purposes. This section provides that "the ceiling of such rooms shall be at least four feet and six inches above the surface of the street OR ground outside of and adjoining the same." The owners' contention was that the requirements of the statute would be met in the case of the rooms which they desire to convert into dwelling-rooms, because their ceilings are more than this distance above the surface of a sunken court; but the judges of the Appellate Division unanimously held that the real intention of the statute was that in all houses thereafter erected at least one-half of the height of the basement rooms should be above the curb level, and that the words "and" and "or" when used in a statute are convertible as the sense may require. The evident desire of the owners was to convert into living apartments what is virtually a cellar, notwithstanding the sunken court; and, taking this view the judges found themselves unable to accede to the construction contended for by the relators, whose ceilings are but two feet above the level of all the adjacent streets, when they should be four and a half. Hence the present decision contains nothing extraordinary or radically different from previous interpretations of the statute and rulings of the department. It was hardly to be expected that the courts would finally permit an owner to excavate a space many feet below the level of the adjacent street and, by creating an artificial surface, so evade a law whose object was to ensure ventilation and sunshine for basement apartments.

THE open warfare between Governor Hughes and the Republican majority in the Legislature may have one good result. It may stimulate the Governor to appeal to the people of this state for re-nomination and re-election. Mr. Hughes has declared that he cannot afford to serve another term as Governor, but presumably a man with such a high sense of public duty would not allow a motive of this kind to stand in the way of the fulfillment of a piece of work which was in his opinion demanded by the public morals and public welfare. The Record and Guide has always believed that the Governor was in a sense bound in honor to serve another term, provided he was thereby fulfilling the manifest will of the people of New York State. During his term of office there has been placed on the statute books the most important piece of legislation that has been enacted in this state for a generation, namely, the law constituting the Public Utility Commissions. The Governor is personally responsible for this legislation, and as long as the work of the commissioners remains experimental he should stand by his creation and guard it from the harm which might follow from any change in the membership of the two commissions Furthermore, there is additional legislatiou of the utmost importance which he has proposed, and which has been refused by the Legislature, but that body would hardly dare to persist in its refusal in case Mr. Hughes was re-elected by a decisive majority. Some of this legislation relates to the most vital interests of New York City; and in all probability it would have little chance of passage in the event of Mr. Hughes' retirement. This is particularly the case with the revised charter, which will be submitted to the next Legislature, and in which it is proposed to give the city a much larger measure of local self-government than has hitherto been granted. For all these reasons Mr. Hughes' continued presence at Albany is extremely desirable; and now that his Presidential candidacy is being slowly but surely extinguished, it is to be hoped that he will consent to serve another term as Governor. Indeed, in case he should fail to secure au anti-gambling bill from the present Legislature the abandonment of the fight without an appeal to the people at the next election would look very much as if the Governor was a "quitter."

A NEW YORK BUILDER ABROAD.

MR. ROBERT EIDLITZ, of the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son, 489 Fifth av, returned on the last trip of the Mauretania, after visiting some of the principal cities of Europe. He was asked by a Record and Guide representative to state some of the impressions which he received while abroad, especially regarding construction work, and some of the points brought out were a revelation of European methods, illustrative of both good and bad. Mr. Eidlitz naturally noted the unusual, and his remarks concerning some of the things which he saw are most interesting. He said:

NOT EQUAL TO AMERICAN WORK.

"Observation and some investigation of construction work in London led me to believe that, though ahead of the continent, they are considerably behind Americans in the quality of almost everything done. The putting together of the materials, the finished appearance of the buildings and the stability of construction are not up to the best standards in our large cities. The work proceeds very slowly in almost any part of Europe. I made some investigations in connection with the erection of a comparatively small addition to a building in Munich and discovered conditions that could hardly exist in an American city.

"The addition was to be four stories and had a floor space of about 30x60 feet. When I visited the place the second story beams were being put in place. The director of the work said that he hoped to finish the structure in about one year. Apparently there is no one to correspond to our general contractor. The architect takes full charge of every detail, being in immediate touch with the construction, and either he or a personal representative, also an architect, is constantly on hand to superintend the work.

"I was struck in London by what might be called the permanent character of the temporary structures. For instance, when a building is erected on a business thoroughfare the covering over the sidewalk, our "sidewalk bridge," which here is a crude but strong affair made of rough beams and lumber, is built to remain until the structure is ready for occupancy. Here we shift this temporary protection, as conditions require, but in England it remains in its original place until the work is completed. Since it stands in the one place so long there is some attempt at making it look sightly. A ceiling is frequently added, bases are put on the posts, and the entire surface gets several coats of paint.

SLOW METHODS.

"The slow progress made in construction is indicated by features which are readily noted in connection with the Palais de Justice now being completed in Rome. It was started seventeen years ago and will not be finished for several years. It would take approximately five years to erect such a building here. The great site is surrounded by a stone fence eighteen inches thick, this being erected for the same purpose that a contractor would put up a temporary wooden fence around a similar undertaking in New York City. When the work was started it was expected that it would take a long time, hence the stone fence. This will be removed when the building is ready for occupancy.

"Abroad, they are restricted by the authorities in the use of the sidewalk and pavement, but as there are seldom many different mechanics at work at the same time these restrictions do not form such a hardship as they would here. For instance, the sidewalk can be used on which to place material for the building. The line is drawn at the curb. Such a restriction would be intolerable here, and would make practically impossible the speedy erection of very large structures. Public comfort is provided for by the construction of a footway around the operations on a level with the curb.

THE USE OF ELEVATORS.

"I think that it can be safely said that the value of the elevator for business purposes has not been realized in Europe. The inadequacy in this respect is glaring. In many of the best buildings the gates on the shaft open outward, instead of sliding sideways as in America, and the operator even steps out of the car as he opens the gate. Those who wish to enter have to keep at a distance from the elevator until the gate is in a proper position for them to enter. The loss of time and apparent inconvenience is obvious.

"In one of the best and most modern hotels in Paris there were two elevators, one about 60 feet from the other. A person could not watch both elevators at the same time. Frequently a sign was on one elevator shaft to the effect that the guest should take the other elevator. Between only one of the cars being in operation much of the time and so many ascending and descending to and from the upper floors, I walked up to my room on the fourth floor three times out of five and almost invariably walked down. As the buildings in Europe are seldom higher than six stories the necessity of the elevator is not felt so much, but even in the most modern structures its convenience and commercial value have not been appreciated.

HOTELS COMPARED.

"As to the hotels, they have practically no conception of our finest. These are not duplicated anywhere in Europe. But smaller hotels there are much better than the corresponding class here. There are more comforts for the guest. The beds are invariably good. An electric light can be had anywhere in one's room by means of outlets placed in the wall. There is more attention given in little matters to the traveler by the omnipresent porter. In the best hotels in Europe the managers know their business in every detail and want to satisfy their guests. This applies to hotels in cities of all sizes from a few thousand to the largest. Although Italy is one of the youngest nations in Europe, the accommodations in the leading hotels in that country are excellent and the liberality of the electric lighting is not surpassed in any other European country.

"But though the construction methods of Europe are backward, according to our standard, there have been put into practice in the business life there many ideas which we could well follow. In Nuremberg, Munich and other cities one is not worried with street car names which we have here. The cars are numbered in such a way that the figures can be seen at a distance day or night, and when one inquires how to go to a certain place the direction is given very simply. Imagine a foreigner unable to speak English trying to remember the directions of how he should go from 50th st and 5th av to Houston st and Broadway, with the complication of names and transfers.

"Where crowds congest in London to take the underground cars one never sees a long line waiting to buy a ticket at a booth. Automatic slot machines are provided, and the only occasion a person has to go to a ticket booth is when he has not the exact change. There are many of these little things which are simple, but which mean much in a big city."

METROPOLITAN TOWER GOING HIGHER.

Working drawings are being changed by Napoleon Le Brun & Sons, architects, of No. 1 Madison av, for increasing the height of the new Metropolitan Life tower over the proposed plans now in course of erection at Madison av and 24th st. As originally planned the height above the sidewalk was figured at 658 feet, from cellar floor to top 680 feet, total height from foundations, 691 feet, to contain 48 stories above the sidewalk and two stories below. If now the scheme for the extra stories is carried out, as was stated on Friday, the total height will reach 700 feet above the sidewalk level. From the cellar floor the height will be 715 feet, and from the foundations 726 feet. The height of clock face above the sidewalk is 346 feet, and the floor of lookout at the 46th floor, 603 feet. The number of stories will exceed 50 above the sidewalk and two below. The detail of the tower top will also be slightly changed to meet the requirements. The Hedden Construction Co., 1 Madison av, is the general contractor, and Messrs. Post & McCord are doing the steel work.

BUILDING TRADES EMPLOYERS.

ANNUAL MEETING AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

THE members of the Building Trades Employers' Association practically bade good-bye to their present quarters at 889 Broadway when they held their annual meeting there last Tuesday afternoon. They turned out in force, and the gathering was one of the most interesting in the history of the organization. The moving into the new building on 33d st, the question of becoming associated with the recently organized National Association of Builders' Exchanges, and the decision to open a permanent exhibition of building material, were among the important topics discussed. A feature of the occasion was the unanimity of the members concerning everything that pertained to the welfare of the organization. Where there was any difference of views the matter was referred to special committees to hear both sides and report back to the members at their next meeting in October. It was generally conceded that the annual meeting marked an epoch in the annals of the association, and that it was entering upon a wider sphere of usefulness. The reports of the various committees were most encouraging. A reference to the work of the Arbitration Committee by Mr. Ross F. Tucker brought to light the great work that is being accomplished by that body.

GROWTH IN MEMBERSHIP.

Mr. Isaac A. Hopper was in the chair. The first report received was that of Secretary Wm. J. Holmes. It stated in part:

"The membership of the association is 868, with 29 members pending qualification. This is an increase over the number reported a year ago. The maintenance of the membership at practically 900 throughout a period of industrial depression and peaceful conditions in the trades is satisfactory and contrary to the experience of most associations of a similar character.

"The legislative work of the association since the last meeting has been important and successful. Each year the campaign carried on by the large employers' associations of the country, especially in reference to national legislation, is more united and effective.

"The association has taken an active part in the present revision of the Building Code and is represented on the Commission by two members. The Code has been examined section by section, the trade associations have been asked to submit any changes deemed desirable, and all hearings have been attended by the Legislative Committee and counsel. This is the first revision of the Code that has been undertaken in about ten years. The Record and Guide recently stated that 'in comparison with the building ordinance of other cities New York's Code is antiquated.' The fire loss has been stupendous, four times greater than in the great centres of population in Europe, and that 'a new Code should prove a blessing to the entire population and form a standard for much legislation of a similar character throughout the country.'"

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF BUILDERS' EXCHANGES.

The discussion on the advisability of the association becoming a member of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges aroused a great deal of interest. This national association was organized in Scranton, Pa., last year and held a meeting in Washington last March. Messrs. Benjamin D. Traltel and Lewis Harding were sent as representatives to the convention, without power to act. They reported at the annual meeting. When they were shown the proposed constitution of the national body they stated that the support of the New York Association could not be expected as the constitution then stood. They were asked for advice, and as a result of this some changes were made. The New York representatives then said that the constitution could be subscribed to by their home organization and that they would recommend it. The article which was introduced as a result of the objections of Messrs. Harding and Traitel reads as follows:

"All individuals or firms doing business in other cities than their own shall be required to deposit the certificate of membership with the local Exchange or Employers' Association, and work in harmony and under the conditions prevailing in said city, and meet other constitutional requirements of the local Exchange.

"Nothing in this article shall be construed as debarring an outside employer from bringing his own employees under the conditions existing in his own place."

The matter of joining the National Association was referred to a committee of five for further consideration, this committee to report to the next general meeting of the members next October. The leaders in the discussion were Benjamin D. Traitel, Lewis Harding, Charles L. Eidlitz, Jas. R. Strong, C. N. Brizsee.

The following committees submitted reports: House Committee, through its chairman, Benjamin D. Traitel; Board of Governors, through its chairman, Lewis Harding; Constitution Committee, through its chairman, Jas. R. Strong; Finance Committee, through its chairman, Ross F. Tucker; Inspectors of Election, through their spokesman, Michael Power. The other inspectors were M. F. Westergren and Wm. Bradley.

In giving his report as chairman of the House Committee, Mr. Traitel made a strong appeal for support for the exhibition about to be opened. He said:

"In referring to the second floor, it is now ready for exhibitors. We have about 216 spaces for exhibition purposes. Quite a few of them have been let and there are about 22 men who have signified their intention of taking space. In addition there are many who have the exhibition under consideration. We have received nearly 100 letters from leading architects of the city, all commending the step which we have taken, and telling us that we are filling a long-felt want. However, to make the exhibition a success it is imperative that everything required in the construction of a building should be represented. It must be a comprehensive display. I beg of you to lend your personal aid in filling up the exhibition floor."

Mr. Harding referred to the splendid work of the Board of Governors. He said in part:

"The Board of Governors has probably done more for the establishment and maintenance of industrial peace in the building trade than any organization that was ever formed in this or any other city in the country."

A stirring address was made by Mr. Ross F. Tucker, when he was called on as the new chairman of the Board of Governors. He said in part:

ARBITRATION CASES.

"I feel that there is a great work ahead of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and I believe that we are going to be more aggressive than ever and do what will be expected of us. I want to call attention to the work of the Arbitration Board and of the Executive Committee. The committee held 52 regular meetings and 46 special meetings during the year. There were some 1,100 cases handled, of which 700 came before the Executive Committee. Of these 700 there were 34 which went up on appeal, and out of the 34 the decision of the Executive Committee was reversed only 7 times, or an average of only one in a hundred cases. When twelve men sit nearly twice a week through the entire year and handle the work of the building industry in such an intelligent manner that their rulings can be overthrown only once in 100 times it speaks well for the workings of the General Arbitration Board. I call your attention to the fact that three of the five officers you have elected are members of the Executive Committee of the General Arbitration Board. They are burdened with a double duty.

"I believe that we are going to do what I had hoped for many years, that we should take the public more into our confidence. I believe that the public deserves more at your hands, deserves to be better acquainted with what you are doing and what you stand for."

All of the committees were thanked for the splendid work which they had done during the year and short speeches were called for from the new officers. The elections were all unanimous and resulted as follows: President, Isaac A. Hopper; First Vice-President, C. G. Norman; Second Vice-President, Bond Thomas; Treasurer, Albert N. Chambers; chairman of Board of Governors, Ross F. Tucker.

It is expected that the members of the Association will move into their new quarters about May 1.

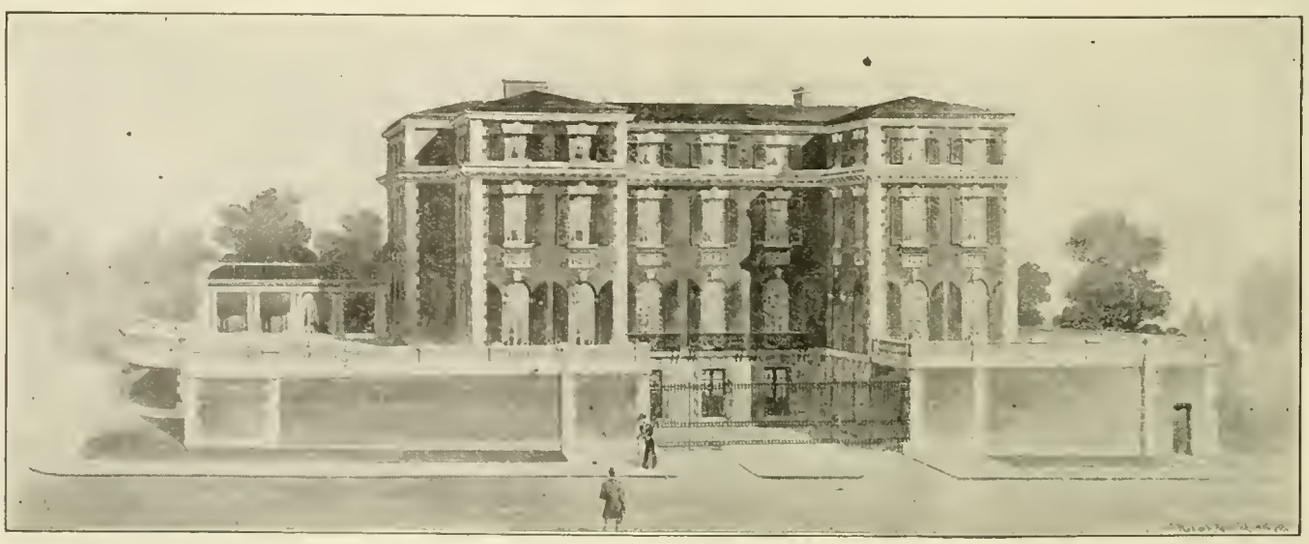
IMPORTANT WHEN BUILDING.—If you own nearby suburban property and contemplate building see to it that your chimneys are built well, and from the ground up. A properly constructed chimney starts at the ground and should not be less than 8 in. in thickness, and lined with either terra cotta, pipe, or well burnt clay. Four-inch flues are positively dangerous. It has been estimated that fully 20 per cent of the fire losses in dwellings throughout the States are directly traceable to defective flues. The requirements of the New York City Building Code do not countenance carelessness in chimney construction, and those who contemplate building will do well to follow its provisions. A leading authority in writing on chimney construction recently pointed out that it costs but a trifle more to make flue walls eight inches in thickness instead of four, and that after weiging the difference the prospective builder will not only be likely to construct an eight-inch chimney, but will line it as well with some approved fire-resisting material.

THE ARCHITECT
WHAT HE HAS DONE RECENTLY AND WHY HE DID IT.

PLANS ACCEPTED FOR PORTO RICO CAPITOL BUILDING.

Architect Frank E. Perkins, of No. 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, has won the first prize of $5,000 awarded in competition on plans for the capitol building to be erected at San Juan, Porto Rico, to cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. The design prepared by Mr. Perkins provides for a building 300 feet square with a height of seventy-five feet, and the plans call for a Council House and Supreme Court rooms grouped about a partially covered patio or series of vestibules, the main patio being partially covered by a low dome open above, like the Pantheon of Rome, permitting a free circulation of air and furnishing abundant light. This group of dome, patio and vestibules form a Pantheon or "Hall of Fame" to receive monuments in memory of those who have served their country. The Council, with its offices is at the left, the House with its offices at the right, and the Supreme Court and its offices in the rear.

The Council and House are provided with visitors' galleries in the second story. All offices have outside air and an unobstructed view. In elevation, both interior and exterior, the author has sought simplicity in a southern style in keeping with the present architecture of San Juan. The edifice will have either concrete walls, or be of local brick with a tinted cement surface, the floors to be of reinforced concrete or of a steel beam construction. In general, local materials are recommended, colored cement concrete being the chief factor, with the mouldings and the few ornaments to be cast at the building in artificial stone. On account of the simplicity of its style, it is believed that the essential features for the accommodation of these rooms can be constructed as indicated for the sum appropriated.



The second prize of $2,000 was awarded to Ritchie Abbott, of Boston, and the third prize of $1,500 was won by Henry L. Beadel, of No. 1123 Broadway, Manhattan. In all one hundred and thirty-five architects competed in the contest.

A WASHINGTON RESIDENCE.

The residence of Miss Martha C. Codman, being erected in the suburbs of the City of Washington, D. C., designed by Ogden Codman, No. 571 5th av, Manhattan, presents a unique problem, planned to meet the peculiar conditions and contour of the plot of land upon which the house is built. Entering the house from the principal approach into the basement or ground floor into a well lighted hall which leads to the principal floor by a short flight of stairs, the floor contains a suite of entertaining rooms which look out upon an attractive formal garden, which was formed on the natural level of the land and is sufficiently above the street level to make it almost private, yet without having any suggestion of seclusion from the street and sidewalk. The style of architecture is Georgian, and is in chaste and quiet keeping with the surroundings, and this same tone has been carried all through the decorations of the interior, making it an ideal home for the artistic temperament of its owner. It is built of brick with stone trimmings and reinforced concrete floors, this making a practically fireproof building. John Frank De Baun, builder, No. 1368 Broadway, Manhattan, is the general contractor.

RECENT ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE BUILDER.

DEVELOPMENT IN GARAGE CONSTRUCTION.

THIS structure is the result of Mr. Lowinson's extended experience in design and construction of buildings for the automobile industry. The problem here was primarily to design a building for the executive work and the shipping room for the Speedometer Co., with conveniences for rapidly attaching to automobiles, also a laboratory for experimental work. Besides this to arrange for a salesroom for automobiles and their accessories.

The building is designed in the Exposition type. The Art Noveau style, being particularly fitted for this type of work, Mr. Lowinson availed himself of the experiences of the expositions held in France, Germany and Italy during the past five years to design a structure that would be both an exposition and an advertising building. Mr. Lowinson prides himself on having constructed the most characteristic building in the automobile district to-day.

The construction is skeleton. The whole exterior is of glass, with the exception of the piers and floor panels, and to this has been added ornaments in copper, bronze and iron which typify the business of the owner. Over the store is an elaborate cornice extending some distance from the building, supported on ornamental brackets with ornamental grill work over the entrances. At the main piers and suspending from the cornice are the now famous Speedometer lamps. These four lamps are made in imitation of the instrument; they have etched faces duplicating the face of the Speedometer, and these are automatically illuminated and extinguished. Similar lamps illumine the top of the Broadway piers. The latter lamps are set in allegorical casings representing "flight." The main cornice of the building is characteristic, the freize being illuminated by gilded discs. On top of the building are the now well-known sky bar signs "Speedometer Building," these signs being on steel bars with raised letters.

The basement has been laid out for shipping and adjusting purposes. It contains stock rooms, motors, lathes and machinery for testing and fitting the apparatus to automobiles. The first floor has been laid out as a salesroom for automobiles. The second floor has been laid out in the Art Noveau and contains the various offices, including the private office of Mr. Jones, the inventor, which has been built in oak wainscot treated characteristically. The top floor has been subdivided into laboratory and offices. The building is heated by steam from its own plant. Electricity is used throughout for lighting and power. There are two elevators. The W. L. Crow Construction Co., 289 4th av, performed the general contract.

IN MARBLE HALLS.

NEW OFFICES OF THE HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE.

AN exceedingly handsome transformation of an interior has been made at 45 Broadway (heretofore known as "Aldrich Court") for the Hamburg-American Line, which will hereafter have its offices there. When the steamship company bought the building, in 1906, it was with the expectation of adding six or eight stories. But upon investigation the architect, Mr. R. L. Daus, of 130 Fulton st, found this proposition impracticable, the building not being strong enough to carry the additional weight. The building was originated at a period when architects and engineers were just beginning the researches that finally led to the present skeleton construction.

As an example of the period of evolution, the old Aldrich Court building is very curious, showing some of the most incongruous types of built-up iron girders and other structural features, which have now entirely disappeared in the construction of buildings.

In order to give the owner adequate quarters, Mr. Daus built up three stories in the old interior court. The offices are arranged with a high regard for the comfort and health of the army of employees, among other features, being a very complete ventilating apparatus. The air for this purpose is taken from above the roof, is filtered, heated, distributed through the building and expelled above the roof. As a testimonial of the impurity of N. Y. city air, even at a comparatively high altitude and at close proximity to the water, is the frequency with which such air filters have to be cleaned or renewed.

The Hamburg-American Line, desirous of increasing the comfort of its tenants as far as practicable, installed a new modern elevator service. The architect did well also to remove the old tortuous and inadequate entrance to the building and to substitute the liberal, practical entrance, which is customary in our buildings, giving access to an entirely renovated, handsome hall of proper dimensions.

The basement on Broadway contains the steerage department, and in connection therewith is an office on Trinity Place, where relatives and friends of immigrants may obtain tickets of admission to Ellis Island, thus doing away with the long lines of more-or-less desirable people, who, at the time of arrival of every steamer, encumber the Broadway sidewalk.

On the Broadway front of the second story is the office of the resident director and General Manager, Mr. Emil L. Boas and other offices for administrative purposes; on the Trinity Place end of the same story the freight department is located, and in the rear of the third story the Atlas Service will be installed.

LUXURIOUS ELEGANCE.

The first story will be entirely devoted to the first and second cabin passengers and the offices are fitted up with luxurious elegance, proper to the home of the largest steamship Co. in the world and its patrons, among whom, even princely seekers of American millions and maidens may be appropriately received.

The architectural treatment belongs to the modern French Rennaissance, but is kept in a quiet spirit, except, perhaps, in the middle room, where the lighting from above permitted the introduction of a glass dome and a somewhat more sumptuous treatment. The walls are principally covered with an almost white so-called statuary Italian marble, here and there interspersed with pilasters and posts covered with a magnificent French marble called "Breche Fleurie."

If the handsome appearance of the office is satisfactory, the architect is largely indebted for this to the hearty co-operation of all the men who assisted him, and in the first place to the well-known builder, Mr. Chas. T. Wills, and his able lieutenant, Mr. Chas. McDonnell, and the Traitel Marble Company.

Deserving quite particular praise, are the modelers, Messrs. Goudard & Bussard. Among the latter's work, are the two female figures, forming the keystones of the large easterly and westerly marble arches, representing the emblematic figures usually found at the prow of a ship. These two figures, modeled by Mr. Goudard, are far above the realm of commercial art. All the motifs of decoration of an ornamental character, whether in marble, bronze or other material, are taken from the inhabitants of the water, the domain of the steamship company.

The four handsome cartouches in the corners of the central room, supporting the glass dome, are crowned by heads representing Neptune and the accompanying children are dragging nets. Shells, fish and other animals of the deep are used in the treatment of the ventilating registers and dolphins and sea shells are the component parts of the light fixtures.

The happy combination of simple forms and colors in the treatment of the glass, combined with the refined decoration, are due to Mr. Alex Locke, of Arnold & Locke. The new offices of the Hamburg-American Line, which are perhaps among the most magnificent in New York City, are not gorgeous, like many others, but are rich, though simple and dignified.

ARCHITECTURAL EXPRESSION IN A NEW MATERIAL.

IN recent years a large number of well-designed country houses have been executed in stucco laid over wire lath or brick. In the course of an article in the Architectural Record for April, H. Toler Booraem speaks of this departure, saying: "Frequently merely the wall surfaces are stuccoed; features, such as columns, cornices, eaves, being in wood, stone or brick, as the case may be. In other examples, architectural members and ornaments have been cast in cement; the composition and detail in such designs is, however, invariably masonry architecture executed in a substitute material. It must, at the same time, be admitted that there is more certainty of producing beauty of form by this means than by relying upon our present inexperience for a more logical expression of the material. But this is anticipating our arguments."

One of the examples selected for illustration is the W. L. Stow residence at Roslyn. Mr. Booraem says this reveals a composition of much beauty and academic feeling. The walls are brick, covered with stucco; the architectural features are cast in cement; the terrace wall is concrete, cement faced in forms. The design, however, is entirely conceived in terms of stone; cement and stucco have been adopted as a substitute, evidently, not from choice.

"The stucco building," Mr. Booraem continues, "when it can break away from being a replica of stonework executed in a cheaper material, tends to develop a plasticity of treatment, a monolithic breadth and surface texture of its own. There is little distinction, as a matter of design, between plastering mortar on walls of brick, clay blocks or concrete, if the latter is not part of a reinforced monolith. A solid concrete well is scarcely more than a form of rubble masonry, but one which the fineness of the aggregate makes it easier to render with a presentable surface. But the development of concrete construction has advanced considerably beyond this."

Economical Investments.

Good machinery is economical in any business and the best for a real estate office is so moderate in price and the returns from its intelligent use so large that no real estate office should do without it. A complete system consists of the Record and Guide Weekly, the Record and Guide Quarterly, the Real Estate Directory, the Checking Index, and the Realty Records Information Bureau. To have these means that you have a plant capable of creating a large business in sales, leases, mortgages, or exchanges.

FLAMES MAKE WORK FOR BOSTON.

LOSSES by the great fire in Chelsea last Sunday total $5,575,000. Of this sum the loss on dwellings (and presumably contents) is $3,750,000; churches and schools, $525,000; public buildings, $475,000; factories, business blocks and contents, $825,000. The insurance is $3,500,000, divided among 80 companies. One-fourth of the city of 40,000 population is in ruins.

Architects and builders here in New York consider that while the restorations made necessary by the conflagration will make a large amount of work for the Boston building trades during the year, there are enough men idle in and around Boston to supply all the help needed. In a word, they say that Boston and the adjacent cities are likely to absorb all the benefit coming to the building industry, leaving little worth mentioning for other centres, unless it shall be something in the nature of special equipment. Boston is well supplied with architects and builders, and the Chelsea work is expected to be almost entirely a local proposition. Much the larger part will be for suburban dwellings.

Among the principal buildings destroyed were the following named: The First Universalist Church, Chestnut and 4th sts, loss $75,000; Frank B. Fay Grammar School, St. Rose's Roman Catholic Church and School; State Armory, loss $100,000; Sacred Heart Convent, loss $40,000; Young Men's Christian Association Building, loss $75,000; Boston Elevated Railroad station and barns, $30,000.

Five financial institutions were burned out: The County Savings Bank, Chelsea Savings Bank, Chelsea Trust Company, Winnisimmet National Bank and the Provident Co-operative Bank.

Among other buildings burned were Frost Hospital, Children's Hospital, Fitz Public Library, First Baptist Church, Central av; Central Unitarian Church, Hawthorne st; St. Luke's Episcopal Church (old building), Hawthorne st; First Methodist Episcopal Church, Cary av; Elm St Synagogue, Walnut St Synagogue, Chelsea Presbyterian Church, Fifth St Congregational Church, Shurtleff St Methodist Episcopal Church, Second Adventist Church, New England Telephone & Telegraph Company's central offices, Austin & Young's cracker factory, Chaplin & Sodon Car Company's shops, Rosenfelt Brothers' 3-sty ragpicking factory, the Tidewater Oil Company's three immense tanks near the easterly end of Marginal st.

DISTRIBUTION OF INSURANCE.

The Chelsea loss is particularly hard on the mutual fire insurance companies. Practically every one of them in New England is involved for more or less heavy lines. Among the losses of standard companies are the following computations of the Boston press: German-American, $175,000; Insurance Company of North America, $185,000; Niagara, $115,000; Continental, $150,000; Royal (England), $500,000; Phenix (N. Y.), $200,000; Etna, $100,000; Hanover (N. Y.), $175,000; Norwich Union (England), $300,000; Sun (London), $125,000; Liverpool, London and Globe, $150,000; Hartford (Connecticut), $260,000; Queen, $75,000.

A number of business men have said that they intend to start right in rebuilding, but for the most part owners have not yet had time to collect their thoughts on the subject of reconstruction. It was hardly to be expected that the merchants should set about preparing for the rebuilding of their business now, even in a temporary way, for until the ruins can be cleared away and basement walls rebuilt it would be impossible to start any kind of structure. It is plainly the desire of all men of business that the buildings which shall rise from the ruins shall be of imposing and substantial nature.

CONFLAGRATION HAZARD.

In its report of inspection in November, 1906, the National Board of Fire Underwriters said, regarding the conflagration hazard:

"Mainly moderate. In parts of certain districts extensive fires are probable, unless controlled in the incipient stage, owing to the smallness of the fire department. The conflagration hazard of the city as a whole is increased by the lack of adequate building laws, the large amount of frame construction with wooden shingle roofs and the weakness of the fire department, but the fairly satisfactory water supply in most districts, fairly reliable fire alarm system and the powerful outside aid are mitigating features."

WHO'S WHO IN BUILDING—5.

ONE of the most effective workers in behalf of the building guilds has been Mr. Charles A. Cowen. He was a charter member of the original Building Trades Club, and to him belongs the distinction of bringing that strong organization into existence. For from this sprang the great and useful organization known as the Building Trades Employers' Association, which, with the aid of the arbitration plan, has done a praiseworthy work for the community in harmonizing the elements and interests composing the building industry since 1903.

CHARLES A. COWEN.

It was Mr. Cowen who at a meeting of the Mechanics and Traders' Exchange drafted a resolution that contained the nucleus of the Building Trades Club. He was president of the club during the years 1895 and 1896, and he was also president of that historic organization, the general Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, in the year 1899, and he is now a member of its finance committee.

Mr. Cowen was also a charter member of the Mason Builders' Association, and has been its president since 1896. He was also instrumental in organizing the New York State Association of Builders, and was its president in 1904 and 1905. The builders of the State are in part indebted to him for the establishing of the permanent legislative committee which has been found extremely necessary for the welfare of the building industry.

In the National Association of Builders Mr. Cowen has also been called to high places, as he is vice-president of that body, and he represented it in the Board of Mediation and Conciliation of which Bishop Potter was the president and Hon. Seth Low and Prof. Adler members. Mr. Cowen also presided over the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange during the years 1898-99. He discharges the duties of the many offices that have been thrust upon him because of his adaptability in a manner most commendable.

Thorough in his knowledge of the building trade, Mr. Cowen is recognized as one of the foremost experts in the city on masonry, particularly in heavy construction. As a boy he served a full apprenticeship with his father, a well-known contractor, and he still continues to familiarize himself with all the details of the building trade. In 1883, after being associated with his father for some years, he succeeded to the business, his father retiring, and he has continued it with most gratifying success.

Architects and investors have learned to know Charles A. Cowen as being thoroughly capable of erecting heavy buildings, and some of the largest office buildings, hotels, churches, etc., have been erected by him. He was born in New York and is a product of the city's schools.

THE MAN ON THE STREET.

THE personality of derricks has always interested me. It seems strange to some people's minds to talk thus, even to speak of the personality of trees, or flowers, or even stones or bricks. But they all exist for the "Man on the Street."

The first big boom derrick, I remember, was used by R. L. Darragh, a first-class old timer on the Standard Oil Building in the early eighties. It consisted of timbers sprung and strutted. Since this trail-blazer has disappeared, we have seen many changes in the personality of derricks. The younger generation of them have become, in size, enormous. Where you see big steel derricks, latticed, you feel pretty certain from afar that Post & McCord are erecting. Four boom derricks guyed together show that Norcross Bros. are busy. Orange and Black paint indicate the Thompson-Starrett Company; Blue, Milliken Bros.; White, Terry & Tench; Green, The N. Y. Contracting Company. A derrick of the Fuller Company is like "solid-man Muldoon," with plenty of them, and doing business by the clock.

The metal fittings of the Goliathan toothpicks are like a magnet to me. The big foot-blocks and steps, the sturdy bands, the caps, spiders and gudgeon pins; the shackles, sheaves, blocks and cables. As I look upon these the iron enters my soul, and as their active limbs move apace, ever guided by the hand on lever or line, I feel the sanctity of the inanimate.

The man who really wins in anything in life is the man who is willing to go the limit and bet his life. Tolstoi says in "War and Peace" that the army which wins is that which contains the greatest number willing to stay on the field for all time. The men, in other words, willing to die. In all history, the man with the idea bigger than the vital spark known as Life is the man who has moved us on in our slow progress up the hill of development. Look down the long road of historical record. Leave out the earlier ones and take Columbus, John Smith, Washington or Lincoln, and see if they ever hesitated to put their lives in the balance against the accomplishment of their ideals? So have they left us their heritage.

The building world is made up of a varied assortment of men of all kinds and conditions. Some are "out for the stuff." Others want to deliver the goods on a basis as near right as they can do it. There are just as many heroes and cowards in the building trade as there are in a great army. There are those who would fight to the death, and those who would unconditionally surrender.

Keep your eye on the first. They are the ones who build the fire-stopping bulwarks in our cities and put into active operations the dams and aqueducts and sewers for the life of our city people and, as a nameless host, add to the good of man. As to the second class, "least said soonest mended."

In a recent "Times" Saturday Review there is a grand article on "Martin Luther's Letters." It begins: "I must always joke whether sick or well, weak or strong, a sinner or justified." Unconsciously I have been doing this a long time. Perhaps it is not always dignified, but, somehow, I cannot help it. In our office I try to lighten the tasks of the young people with a "spiel or two," to reduce the strain of work or confinement. Incidentally I lighten my own. In a dozen or more years of night-school teaching I did the same thing. My hard working boys of the building trade coming to me from daily work, eating hastily their suppers, and then coming long distances to laboriously draw technical forms and raise themselves up the tree of knowledge, were as younger brothers, entitled to my cheerful help.

It produced results, and if this meets the eye of any of them, scattered as they are through the trades—and now many of them younger contractors—know that "Old Pop" is still keeping up his smiling face and heart.

"He went to his death with supreme confidence in the judgment of his superiors." Thus says an article in the "Engineering News" regarding the collapse of the Quebec Bridge report referring to Yenser, foreman-erector.

Did you ever as a boy jump into cold water early in spring, just to be the first in? Do you remember the shock? I do, because I have done it, though now I prefer the swimming tank at Hot Springs, Va., to the swimming holes in the Catskill Mountain streams which I liked as a boy.

Well, I felt such a shock when I read the above, for it sort of brought back a touch of my old superintendence responsibilities. I have gone through a great many dirty places in sub-cellars—and often felt it foolish perhaps—for the purpose of seeing if all was right below, in footing and grillage, rather than take a chance, but I am glad now. It's one thing I like about my friend Louis, the architect. He really superintends. He once denied himself a vacation for over a year of hard work on an important building because he was afraid something might go wrong. It did not, and he was there. So, old friend, and faithful to your duty, though you be a thousand miles away, here's a spiritual handshake.

I guess long-distance authority will not occur soon again in structural work. Several dozen men killed is the price we have paid for the lesson.

This same friend sent me up a letter a day or two ago, in which he said:

"When I was a little boy I had a teacher in the public school who was famed for miles around for her wonderful qualities—too numerous to mention. She used to have an hour each week for telling stories, as I remember, and she could charm the birds off the trees with her talks. One story she told was about a ship sailing in the tropics which had run out of water.

"The crew saw on the horizon one day another ship, to which they signaled, asking for water. The reply was signaled back, 'Dip it up.' This ship was sailing off the mouth of the Amazon River, where they say the fresh water extends seventy miles from the shore. Of course it is only recently that I had enough sense to appreciate the full meaning of that story and to apply it.

"There is hardly any condition in which a person can be but what he will, if he only knew it, find that it is only a state of mind. As Rudyard Kipling said in his address to the students of McGill University, 'There are no liars like our own sensations.'"

There is a splendid opportunity in almost every building operation to "dip it up" and apply the knowledge to the thirsty brain. Architectural students, and builders' clerks should "get wise" at once.

The other day I came across Broad st with my friend, the engineer, he with the smile that has always been on; and in the years of responsible creative executive work it has lost none of its lustre. A crowd of speculators occupied the broad thoroughfare in the distance, and I said something in language forcible as to their body corporate. He turned to me and said, "Bill, old man, cut out the grouch."

I have tried to do so ever since. It is easier as these spring days come on and everything seems to loosen up. I have it reduced, I think, to its lowest terms. Most grouches are based on that evil trinity: anger, worry and irritation, all unnecessary to a true philosopher. If the grouch were like a troublesome physical appendix, it would necessitate a more or less expensive operation to remove. As it is, it is mental and psychological, and easy and inexpensive to cut out. Just forget it. Get busy, Bill.

There is a man in New York whose acquaintance the Man on the Street has recently scraped without the formality of a letter of introduction and whose personality interests him greatly. Before meeting him I had him well in mind and eye for weeks. He is a big man physically, and from what he has done I think he has a sound mentality. He is erecting foreman for steel on what is to be our tallest skyscraper (just now). He speaks in a quiet tone, and his speech has a litt'e burr. Sometimes we see him far down 24th st, in order to get a good angle of vision, so as to see what is going on aloft.

Steel-erecting foremen are not chosen on pulls, but, like the metal they handle, only after they have been thoroughly tested. There are no lumps of fat on this man's brain or body, for one who is putting up a 46-sty structure "on the job" in charge of "as good a gang of boys" as ever swung a sledge or tossed red-hot rivets, has to be as fit as an athlete out for a championship.

The office boy is a most important factor in the realm of business. He can do more damage than almost anyone in the establishment, and can, on the other hand, hold many a busy man by his presence. He doesn't have to discuss either politics or religion, but simply let his communication be Yea or Nay in the right spirit and tone.

I know one who has great possibilities. He is the apple of my eye, and counts to me more than I can express. His eyebrows are the right shape for thought. He has neither money or great influence back of him, but I have an itch in my fervid hand to give him all the intellectual boosts I can up the tree of knowledge. Architects and builders kindly take notice of like people within your range of activities. Have a thinking part.

PORTABLE HOUSE SAVED BY WRECKERS.—A portable house is one of the latest oddities included in the miscellaneous stock accumulated by a large wrecking company. It came from Bedloe's Island and is in the yard of the Rheinfrank House Wrecking Company, 620 East 14th st. The decision of the U. S. Government to transform the island into a military post and call it Fort Wood was the first step toward the demolition and removal of the structures there. These included the buildings put up at the instance of Miss Helen Gould to be a retreat and recuperative place for the soldiers disabled in the Spanish-American War, and one of them was portable. When the Rheinfrank Company were clearing the prospective site for officers' quarters they decided to keep the portable building intact, and it was removed in sections to the yards of the company on 14th st. The structure is being refitted. It will be interesting to note if there is any demand for this kind of article, which is a rare commodity in the hands of wreckers.

CONCRETE CHIMNEYS.

CONCRETE is becoming extensively used in chimneys for mercantile buildings and dwellings as well as for factory stacks. Underwriters are not so directly concerned with the factory stacks, but the use of the material in ordinary chimneys for boilers, ovens, stoves, etc., raises new problems. An effort has been made to crystallize the facts for the use of our field men, but some points are still in an unsettled state in the opinion of experts. The following seem definitely settled and should be borne in mind in passing business:

Good cement is not appreciably injured at temperatures of 700 deg. F. or less.

Boiler flue gases where they enter the stack vary from 400 to 700 deg. F. The temperature of the gases from stoves and other domestic heating devices is somewhat less.

In properly constructed and used chimneys, the flue has a much larger capacity than the stove pipe or breeching entering it. The gases, therefore, expand immediately on entering the flue and are consequently much less intensely hot per unit of volume. In proper size flues, then, disintegration of the flue walls, if of cement, will not occur and the only effect of the heat will possibly be to cause cracks. It must be remembered, however, that flues are sometimes forced beyond their capacity, in which event the temperature might rise high enough to injure the cement, especially if long maintained. It is well, therefore, to note whether more stove pipes or breechings enter a flue than are intended for it.

It is said by some authorities, and has been established in the case of factory stacks, that ordinary flue gases have no effect upon cement. We need not fear disintegration from this cause, therefore. It is also stated that soot does not accumulate on smooth cement flue walls. If true, we have little to fear from burn-outs. Even in brick chimneys, dangerous burn-outs do not occur with coal fuel. Objectionable soot is generally from wood fires, from poorly burned oil or from burning refuse in with the ordinary fuel. The above are matters for practical consideration. Ordinary heating stoves are not apt to be used for burning refuse, but it is not uncommon to find cook stoves and ranges used for the purpose.

In practice, concrete chimneys, other than factory stacks, are built solid or of blocks. Where solid they may or may not be reinforced. When of blocks they may be made of ordinary blocks laid as brick or of one piece blocks with holes through them to constitute the flue. Solid chimneys should preferably be built of wire netting and rod reinforcement, or the equivalent, and the one-piece blocks could also be reinforced to advantage.

In all cases involving concrete chimneys, the attendant circumstances must be carefully considered—purposes to which they are put, kind of fuel, type of chimney, supports or framing, containing building, etc. In other words, we not only cannot afford to be arbitrary, but we cannot put forward an arbitrary standard at the present time for the acceptance of such chimneys. All we can do is to keep pushing for features of definitely established desirability.

Along this line, cement chimneys with walls 1½ or 2 inches in thickness, found in some sections, are to be condemned. In addition to their undesirability from the standpoint of cracking, they are too thin to be nonconducting and should not be regarded as chimneys but as unthimbled flues and poor ones at that. While we know that unequal expansion causes cracks in thicker chimney walls, matters such as mechanical strength to resist stresses and strains due to settling, swaying, etc., must be taken into consideration. It must be remembered, also, that cracks in thicker walls are not so likely to be opened up seriously, and even where opened up to the same extent, are less objectionable than cracks in thin walls. It would seem, then, that to secure nonconductivity, strength, etc., cement flue walls should be not less than 4 inches thick where they come in contact with woodwork, for any kind of heating device. Where subjected to severe usage and temperatures, to guard against careless mixing or workmanship this thickness should be exceeded.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT.

PRICES CURRENT

BRICK.—For the first time this spring quotations for Hudson River brick have possessed themselves of the quality of firmness. This is owing to a demand that has at last taken out of the market all but three of the cargoes which were carried over the winter. Last week the number of barge cargoes sold was thirty-eight, or about eleven million bricks. Business during the current week has been at about the same rate up to this writing.

Brick-building, if it cannot be said to have fully resumed, is resuming. Most of the orders for material are from the upper end of Manhattan and the Bronx. Dealers say there is more business coming in sight than they had expected to see, but not sufficient to say that it amounts to fifty per cent. of normal.

Mr. Francis N. Howland, of Candee, Smith & Howland Co., does not consider that the outlook for the building material trade during the season of 1908 is particularly encouraging from present appearances.

"Money conditions," said Mr. Howland, "are not at all satisfactory to those who do and would require mortgage and other loans, and although the cost of building material at the present writing is reasonable, it is practically offset by the attitude of the powers that be in the labor unions, in not making some concessions to the employers of labor, so that would-be operators and those who might see their way to resuming building could have some assurance of seeing a profit, though small, in so doing.

"Then again, this being a Presidential year, with all its uncertainties of who will be in power to upset possibly existing laws and regulations, tends in my estimation to a quiet time for the masons' material trade for at least this year."

The closing of several substantial contracts for front brick and paving brick, inspired Mr. Ayers, of Carter, Black & Ayers, 1 Madison av, to say of business in these lines that things are picking up. The contracts referred to included an order for the 100,000 Harvard brick for the new Roman Catholic Church at Glendale, the Harvard brick ordered for the new synagogue at 114th st and St. Nicholas av, between seventy-five and one hundred thousand to be required, and the 25,000 paving brick to be used at the plant of the American Sugar Refining Company, Kent av, Brooklyn. A recent contract for tiling with this firm was for the roofing of the power house connected with the New York Athletic Club on Travers Island. Carter, Black & Ayers did the tiling on the roof of the new club house and the same material will be used for the power house.

CEMENT.—About sixty per cent. of the capacity of the Portland cement mills of the country is being operated. Stocks are about the same as they were last year at this time, and altogether the market has had few or no experiences to relieve the long-standing dullness while waiting for monetary conditions to change.

This year's production of Portland cement will be eight million barrels less than last year's quantity, owing to the restrictive measures of the manufacturers. The number of barrels manufactured in 1907 was 48,785,390, with a value of $53,992,551. The number of barrels of natural rock cement manufactured was 2,887,700, with a value of $1,467,302, and 557,252 were puzzolan cement, with a value of $443,998. The total production of Portland cement in 1906 was 1,229,897 bbls. less than in 1907.

Regarding exports and imports of Portland cement Government statistics show a decrease of 199,483 bbls. in imports of Portland cement during the year ending December 31, 1907, as compared with 1906, while the exports for the corresponding period show an increase of 317,251 bbls.

IRON AND STEEL.—The extreme dullness of the pig iron market has been considerably relieved during the week by inquiries which represented 15,000 tons, of which 12,000 was for the American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co., which has works at Mahwah, N. J., and Buffalo. Prices for pig iron are still somewhat irregular, but the market is distinctly more active in spots.

The structural situation in the metropolitan district has many bright promises, in the way of work coming out, but there is actually but little being let. This is where the money pinch is felt, as the postponement of actual contracts is doubtless due, in a number of cases, to this cause. Business at its present rate is less than fifty per cent. of what it was last year. About 11,000 tons of structural steel will be required by the 36-sty tower building which the Chesebrough interests will erect at Washington and West sts. The plans are not yet ready for contractors. Clinton & Russell are the architects. The steel contract for the J. F. Blanchard factory at Long Island City went to Milliken Bros. Steel shapes for the Long Island City approach to the Queensboro Bridge, in the vicinity of Dutch Kills, for which Snare & Triest have the contract, are arriving on the site.

METAL SUPPLIES.—Copper and brass products fluctuate under moderate trade in the present state of the market. Sheet copper continues on the 17 per cent. base. Solder has advanced two cents per pound since the first of the month. Cast-iron fittings are about five per cent. higher than before the spring opened. Tin plate jobbers report a heavy call for nearly all grades, and galvanized plates are also in good request. Sheet zinc prices are steady on the base of 7½ cts per cwt. from store. Lead is slowly strengthening.

LUMBER.—Dealers in the wholesale districts interviewed during the week had observed no particular improvement in the metropolitan market. Hardwood has been one of the strongest propositions during the dull period, but in general the market is slow.

Reports from the yards and trim mills in this district are to the effect that there is very little business ahead at the present time, and some contemplate going on half time.

But the Lumbermen's Review, for April, says "that the prevailing habit into which the lumber trade has dropped during the past few months, classing the entire lumber market as in a condition bordering almost upon demoralization, is not well founded. It has become popular to so characterizing it, and for that reason many dealers continue to talk dull business, while in the same breath they will explain that their own business, which is, of course, an exception to the general rule, has held pretty well up to the basis of one year ago. Certainly there has been one large order for yellow pine, amounting to three million feet, placed by the local dock department within the month, and we find another large wholesale concern which, when it falls back upon actual figures, shows that the results of the month of March this year, as compared with the same month one year ago, was only four cars short, while the total amount in board feet was slightly ahead of last year, and March, 1907, was satisfactory in ever respect."

Hemlock is showing some little improvement. Long leaf yellow pine moves languidly. White pine holders are less confident of their position than for years. Hardwood stocks are said to be low at the yards and trim mills, and buying for current needs has kept some wholesale houses fairly busy.

During the week there was a distinct improvement in monetary conditions in financial centres, though the effects have not yet reached the building trades. Notwithstanding, money was spoken of on Thursday in Wall Street as being plentiful. The mortgage companies are having a good demand for real estate securities, and a general comment is that if this market continues money will be "druggy" in a little while.

The quotations given in this list are the wholesale prices to the retail trade on well manufactured and graded stock, according to the inspection rules at present obtaining. It is not practicable to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable, because terms of sale and other factors influence prices.

STONE.—Local granite, cut-stone and blue-stone men report an improvement in the demand for stone in the last month, and, notwithstanding the general depression, some are positively busy.

In the blue-stone trade there is at the present time a considerable movement of material on old contracts. The city is still withholding contracts for curbing. After the spring rush of private business is over there will be but little doing in blue-stone unless new business picks up.

A general call for slate is springing up all over the Eastern States, especially for roofing slate, though starting later than usual. A busy fall left only small stocks on hand from last season, and a very satisfactory year is expected, though not a very large one. Under the present medium cost business the demand favors the Pennsylvania and Vermont slate. Blackboard business continues at its usual pace. There is always a fair amount of trade from this quarter. Mill business, for structural and electrical purposes, has been dull during the winter, but is improving.

The differences between the granite cutters and the manufacturers in the Barre district have been adjusted, and work was resumed at the places where the men were on strike. At Barre a minimum scale of 37½ cents an hour the first year, 38 cents the second year and 38¾ cents the third year was agreed upon by the conference committees of both bodies. The cutters are to have Saturday half holidays during the months of June, July, August and September. Other points at issue had been previously settled. The vote in the matter of settling on the above scale stood 600 for and 449 for holding out for the full demands. The strike began March 1.

The Quincy Granite Manufactures' Association has formally repudiated the action of the joint council which was appointed to settle the four points in dispute between the stone cutters' union and the manufacturers. The council met in Boston, and after a thirty-six hours' session all four points with modifications were settled in favor of the union men.

One of the disputed points referred to the so-called "closed shop." The failure of the association and the cutters' union to arrive at a settlement has not resulted in a suspension of work in the stone-cutting yards, because the cutters agreed to continue at work pending a settlement of the disputed points by the joint council.

The polishers have settled their bill and have been back at work for a week, but the engineers are still out on strike and the quarrymen are unable to work, as their old bill expired March 1 and no new bill has been agreed upon.

At last accounts strikes for new agreements were still on at many places in Vermont, Maine and other States, but work is progressing at other centers, such as Bethel, Hardwick, Newport, Worcester, Stonington, Me., and Derby. All bills of agreement do not expire at the same time. At Westerly, R. I., an agreement was reached on Tuesday of this week.

The granite specifications for the court house at Youngstown, O., amount to $250,000. This contract came to the Woodbury Granite Co., as reported heretofore. All four elevations will be of Woodbury gray granite. The frame of the structure will be reinforced concrete. (Caldwell & Drake, Columbus, O., are general contractors.) The Woodbury company probably has more work on hand at the present time than any other granite concern in the country.

A VITRIFIED BUILDING BLOCK, manufactured at New Bethlehem, Pa., and put on the market in New York by Carter, Black & Ayers, sole agents, Madison av, is being used more widely, especially in the construction of dwellings. The block is impervious to water, is claimed to be cheaper than brick, and makes a strong wall. This block, although on the market but a comparatively short time, has been used extensively on Long Island. A large quantity is being used now at Rutherford to put up a number of dwellings. It is rock-faced, is made in various forms to meet architectural requirements, and a special face is also made to provide for stucco finish.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Work at Long Beach.

LONG BEACH.—The properties at Long Beach are rapidly assuming the aspect of a summer resort. One mile of the board walk has been completed, all the old buildings are being moved off the island, several cottages and bungalows are under course of construction and it is said the resort will be opened this summer. The most interesting feature of the development is the reclaiming of several hundred acres of low-lying land. The Atlantic & Pacific Co. have the contract for dredging the channel between the island and the mainland, the sand from which is taken from it is placed on the property, making it as much as ten or twelve feet above mean tide.

Messrs. Townsend, Steinle & Haskell, H. J. Hardenbergh and W. A. Swazy, architects, have leased offices in the Marbridge Building, 34th st and Broadway, and will take possession about June 1.

A building boom is springing up in Newark. Plans filed last week represented more than double the amount of work scheduled the previous week. Real estate dealers also report a brisk business.

Wm. G. Tachau, of the architectural firm of Pilcher & Tachau, 109 Lexington av, is now on a trip abroad. He will visit Paris and some of the principal cities of Italy. Upon his return Mr. Pilcher will visit Greece, where he will spend the summer studying the architecture of the country.

The Knowles Steam Pump Works, 114 Liberty st, Manhattan, has issued a complete catalogue of pumping machinery. A specialty has been made by this company of machinery for mine use, including sinking pumps, both electrically and steam driven, and high-pressure high-duty pumps for drainage.

Mooney & Krell, the well-known painters, of 255 4th av, Manhattan, owing to the very much increased volume of their business, have found it necessary to remove to larger quarters, and they announce to their many patrons and friends in the building trades that on and after May 1 they will be located at 34 East 21st st, near Broadway.

Mr. P. A. Kirwin and Mr. A. G. Brach have formed a partnership to conduct a general contracting and jobbing business as plumbers and steam and gas fitters. The annual meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will be held on Tuesday, May 19, 1908. At this meeting the report of the proceedings of the institute for the last fiscal year will be furnished by the board of directors. The reports of all officers and of the standing committees will be presented, and the vote for officers for the ensuing year will be announced.

Notice was given last week of the formation of the firm of Jennings & Mount, with offices at 180 Broadway. The new firm are manufacturers' agents (not advertising agents, as stated), representing the Pullman Automatic Ventilator Mfg. Co. (window ventilators) and the Burt Manufacturing Co. (roof ventilators). They are open for other good building specialty accounts and would be glad to hear from out-of-town manufacturers.

William W. Smith, the architect, who left a fortune of several millions, mostly in Wall st real estate, eventually to go to St. Luke's Hospital, had not been in active practice for many years. When No. 1 Wall st was reported sold, a few years ago, to mysterious Western interests, many believed for a time that Mr. Smith was the real buyer, as he owned the property next door and had previously made offers. He was looked upon as the logical buyer of the little plot, but the rumor did not prove true.

The McLaughlin-Hannon Construction Co., Inc., Temple Court Bldg., has completed the regulating and grading of McLaughlin Park, owned by the Vaudeville Realty Investing Company (Astor Theatre Bldg., Manhattan), from Av Z to Av X, covering eight blocks in all. Trees are being planted in front of the individual lots, and the property put into "selling condition." On Monday will begin the work of setting curbs and laying cement sidewalks on Av C, Desmond Court, Av Y, Dunne Court, Gerald Court, Kathleen Pl, Av Z and East 7th st.

"The most of the activity in construction work in Manhattan seems to centre around Washington Heights," said Mr. Eskesen, of the New Jersey Terra Cotta Company, 108 Fulton st, in commenting upon local conditions. Practically the same statement has been made by a number of building material dealers, who also remark that at present Manhattan Borough, as a whole, shows about the least activity of any part of Greater New York. The New Jersey Terra Cotta Company has closed a number of contracts within the past two weeks, but nearly all of them have been for material for jobs through the States of New York and Pennsylvania.

Announcement is made of a new architectural firm combination. Louis Korn, of 353 5th av, and Maximillan Zipkes, formerly of 147 4th av, are now associated in the practice of architecture at 353 5th av, southeast corner 34th st. Mr. Zipkes has large experience in tenement and apartment house work, while Mr. Louis Korn has been prominently identified with large apartment houses, office and mercantile loft buildings. Mr. Korn was the successful winner of the Progress Club competition and has erected a great many large buildings. It is, therefore, looked forward to this combination as a very successful one, both men having a wide experience in all classes of work.

Benjamin Davis, who recently opened a large new warehouse at 182 to 190 Av C, has his business well established in the new quarters now. Facilities for handling his increasing business have been installed, and Mr. Davis is well equipped to give prompt as well as effective service now in galvanized iron, tin plate and metals. His stock includes galvanized and black sheets, solder, zinc, nails, rods, tin plates, roofing plates and practically everything pertaining to material in general use by cornice, roofing, tinsmith and sheet metal workers. The factory is one of the largest in the city, being provided with all of the latest machinery for the manufacture of galvanized iron leaders, pipes, stove pipes, elbows and sheet metal specialties of all kinds.

Odd Uses for Tiling.

"It passes beyond our comprehension why tiling is used for some of the purposes to which it is put in out-of-the-way places," remarked Mr. John C. Upton, secretary of the New York Metal Ceiling Company, 539 West 24th street, when talking about foreign trade.

"I remember one instance where it was planned to put tiling over the outside walls of a building in a tropical climate. Of course this material will not sustain its luster under the intense radiation where the rays of the sun make a broiling heat. We are enough interested in our patrons to advise them concerning the proper uses to which our products should be put, but sometimes such advice is not taken in the spirit in which it was given, and the owners go ahead with their own ideas.

"It is too much for us to reason out why costly material, such as is frequently ordered, is used in places beyond the pale of civilization. When tiling is part of a building here it is usually a pretty fair structure, and it is difficult to picture such a building in some of the isolated sections to which we forward goods."

South American Trade Increasing.

Any one who is in touch with the concerns that are constantly sending goods to foreign countries cannot but be impressed by the number of times that the name of South America is mentioned in this connection. Manufacturer after manufacturer has brought to attention the fact that the civilized condition of many of the states in that continent and the advanced methods used in construction work in the larger cities are not realized here.

Take such firms as the New York Metal Ceiling Company, 539 West 24th st; the Otis Elevator Company, 17 Battery pl; the Electric Cable Company, 17 Battery pl; the New York Belting and Packing Company, 91 Chambers st, and the like. A knowledge of their shipments to such cities as Buenos Aires, Valparaiso and other South American centres would be surprising to many.

Most of the shipments are to places in the central part of the continent. In the north, especially in such states as Venezuela and Colombia, the number of revolutions makes exporters cautious and they want to be reasonably sure that the order will be received and filled under the same regime before it will be taken up. A representative of a large New York construction concern was in Caracas recently and observed some things which gave him an idea of the character of the people in that unsettled section. He was stopping at one of the leading hotels, before which the peanut politicians would be constantly congregating. One evening he noticed a native, dressed in a frock coat and high hat, walking up and down before the hotel and apparently in an excited condition. Suddenly the politician, for such he turned out to be, wheeled around and exclaimed to a bystander:

"We are now facing the horrors of peace."

When the New Yorker arrived in Caracas a revolution was just dying out; before he left, four months later, another was well under way.

English Conservatism.

Mr. Robert Butcher, manager of the Neuchatel Asphalt Company, 265 Broadway, who returned recently from a business trip to Europe, tells a story illustrative of the conservatism of the Englishman and the proverbial serious way in which John Bull takes a joke.

An American had occasion to use an elevator in one of the modern office buildings in London. After he entered the car with several others the gates were carefully closed and locked, the car operator prepared for the ascent, and a slight agitation told the occupants that they had started. But the upward motion was hardly comparable with the high speed characterizing the flight of express cars in a New York skyscraper. The American saw the humorous side of the situation and remarked to our Englishman in the car:

"Do you know, I think that this elevator service could be improved?"

The English cousin appeared to be shocked, and, with an injured air, asked:

"Why, what do you mean? I think that the service is both safe and good. How could it be improved?"

"I was just thinking," was the ready answer, "that if you anchored the car and moved the building up you would arrive sooner."

The American left the car almost immediately afterwards. As he was walking along the corridor he heard footsteps behind him and mechanically turned to see who was following. It was the Englishman. Uncle Sam's advance agent saw visions of trouble, thinking that offense had been taken at the jolt he had given to the elevator service, and like a good American he turned about to face the music.

The Englishman stopped. He hesitated a moment as if embarrassed, stammered, and finally said:

"You made a suggestion about improving the way in which our elevators were operated. It has puzzled me somewhat. Would you be good enough to tell me how your idea could be put into effect?"

Snow White Portland Cement.

Advance sheets of a pamphlet from the Vulcanite Portland Cement Company, Fuller Building, contain suggestions as to the uses of Berkshire White Portland Cement, for which the company has become sole agent.

This White Portland Cement was used exclusively in the 13 acres of floors in the City Investing Building, over 2,000 barrels were used. The specifications were as shown in the pamphlet. It was also used for a rather unique purpose in the snow white tube of the Hudson tunnels. The engineers of the Hudson tunnels inform us that its application as a paint on cast iron work has proven a great success, and as a plaster on concrete in all the stations, where considerable dampness is always present on the walls and ceilings, the white cement has given satisfaction beyond their expectations.

The Berkshire "Snow White" Portland Cement is undoubtedly the first true Portland Cement, Snow White, that has ever been manufactured.

Berkshire "Snow White Portland Cement is manufactured at Clayton, Mass. (Canaan, Con., R. R. Sta.), in the heart of the Berkshires, from pure white materials which contain all the elements necessary for the manufacture of a high grade true Portland cement.

The materials used are pure white calcite and pure white clay, containing silica and alumina in uniform and correct proportions. The process of manufacture is identical to that employed by Portland cement manufacturers of the highest standard, the only exception being that the rotary kiln is heated by an oil flame instead of using pulverized coal, which would stain the raw material, and the absence of iron oxide, the place of which is taken by an additional amount of alumina.

No other such deposits of this excellent raw material are known to exist except in very small and limited quantities. All other non-staining and so-called White Portland Cements, are manufactured from different materials.

"Snow White" Portland Cement manufactured by the Berkshire White Portland Cement Company is guaranteed to be a true Portland cement in every particular, standing boiling test and all other tests which are designed to indicate a high grade Portland cement.

The beautiful Rockefeller residence at Greenwich, Conn., is stuccoed with Berkshire White Portland Cement. The material can be used for all outdoor and indoor work—for stucco, floors, bathroom walls, lining for refrigerators, for painting surfaces of concrete work, setting white marble, for decorative concrete stone, for cemetery parks and grounds, for statuary, concrete block facing, and artistic color effects.

Change for Luxfer Prism Co.

The American Luxfer Prism Company has secured the first floor and basement of the building at 507 West Broadway as the new location for the New York office, and have moved from the old quarters at 160 5th av. An exhibit representative of prism lights will be maintained at the new location. The New York representative of the firm is Mr. W. E. Cash.

Mr. Cash stated that the object of taking new quarters was to consolidate the New York interests of this concern. The offices and shops will be brought together under one roof. As opportunity is afforded for giving concrete illustrations of the manner of using prism lights the exhibition will take this form. About 8,000 square feet of space is obtained in the new location.

Concrete Piles Used to Advantage.

A notable instance of concrete piles supplanting wood piling is found in the case of the reinforced concrete laundry building built for G. L. Hopper & Son, at Salem, Mass. This structure is four stories high, 100 ft. deep, 60 ft wide, with a 1-sty wing for the boiler and engine room.

The soil conditions of the site, which was formerly occupied by an abandoned dock, called for a piling foundation. The original designs and estimates were for wood piles cut off below the level of tide water, but it developed that the cost of the concrete footings could be decreased considerably by using concrete piling.

Raymond concrete piles, were ultimately selected of an average length of 20 ft. 6 ins. in diameter at the point, 20 ins. at the top and with a taper of half an inch to the foot. Each pile carries a load of 25 tons, this being double the load capacity, per pile, of the wood piles originally considered. Difficulty was anticipated from old wharf timbers which were found in the soil, but the sheet steel shell which is used in the Raymond system passed them with no delay or diversion of direction. Considerable brooming would undoubtedly have taken place had wood piles been used.

The piles are arranged in groups of four, spaced 3 ft. on centres in the form of a square. Each group supports a column or wall pier and is capped by a concrete slab 5 ft. 6 ins. square and 24 ins. thick, extending 15 ins. beyond the centre of the piles. The head of each pile projects 6 ins. into the capping. The concrete chimney, 48 ins. in diameter and 95 ft. high, is supported by a gronp of nine piles. These are reinforced with rods that extend into the footing of the chimney to form an anchorage.

Series Luminous Arc Rectifier System.

The Series Luminous Arc Rectifier System developed by the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., permits the operation of direct-current luminous arc lamps from alternating current central stations at high economy and with extreme simplicity, and is described in Bulletin No. 4556, recently issued. The General Electric luminous arc lamp and the auxiliary apparatus, consisting of oil cooled rectifier tube, constant current transformers and switchboard panels with the necessary control apparatus, reactance coils, etc., are described and their operation explained. In the General Electric luminous arc lamp the upper electrode is a bar of hard drawn copper, and the lower electrode is made of specially prepared composition contained in an iron tube five-eighths of an inch in diameter by 8 inches long. This lamp is claimed to be superior to other commercial lamps, in efficiency, distribution of light, color of light and low maintenance cost, and is particularly well suited to street lighting. The light is as white as any artificial light in commercial service to-day and it has a spectrum which is practically the same as that of sunlight. The standard switchboard sets are designed for 12, 25, 50 and 100 lights, and include all the necessary apparatus, such as ammeter, plug switches for operating the different circuits, indicating lamp, starting switch, etc. One of the main advantages of the system is its adaptability to circuits of any frequency from 25 to 100 cycles. A partial list of equipments furnished by the General Electric Company gives an aggregate of over 12,000 lamps already installed.

Furring and Lathing.

"We are busy estimating on large projects, but few contracts have been closed up for them as yet," said Mr. Burr, of the C. A. Burr Company, 156 5th av, metal furring and lathing. Mr. Burr thinks that the owners who contemplate building are being held back by inability to secure loans at reasonable rates, and that as soon as the money market loosens up a little construction work will become much more active. The C. A. Burr Company has recently finished the fireproofing on several jobs. These include the 11-sty building at the southwest corner of 35th st and 5th av, to be occupied by the Acker, Merrall & Condit Co., and requiring fireproofing for about 140,000 sq. ft. of flooring; the 11-sty structure put up at 18 and 20 West 32d st by the 32d St. Realty Co., and the Bankers' Construction Company Building at 29-35 West 32d st, a 12-sty structure.

STONE TRADE CONDITIONS.—Mr. John Hynes, Bond and Union sts, Brooklyn, reports splendid progress on the Prison Ship Martyrs' Memorial Monument, under erection in Fort Greene Park, Brooklyn. The monument is very near completion, as only two more granite courses remain to be set. Mr. Hynes says: "The general field of the stone trade is comparatively quiet, yet I cannot complain, for there are large contracts being given out right along—and money to be made. I believe that the chief construction work on Long Island for the next few months will be residential, rather than for business structures. One objectionable feature of Brooklyn building is the cheap construction of 2-family houses and store building going up in the beautiful suburbs. This injures property values and does not make for any permanent residential values. Labor conditions are practically the same as before the panic—wages being unchanged, although good workers are more plentiful."

NEW BLUE-PRINT PROCESS.—Those who have experienced difficulty in reproducing copies of an opaque ink-drawing in black lines, without having defects in the original reappear, will be interested in learning that such a process has been perfected by the Electro-Sun Blue-Print Co., of 44 Broad st. Barring the actual defacement of the original, whatever lines are desired can be copied. Defects are obliterated, any part of the tracing is omitted, and even changes are incorporated. Shrinkage of the copy is also obviated and various colors can be used. The process is economical and deserves investigation on the part of those interested in superior work of this character. The copies do not deteriorate in quality by reason of being made in large numbers. The last one printed is as good as the first.

FILLING ORDERS UNDER DIFFICULTY.—Despite the effect of the disastrous fire which nearly destroyed the entire plant of the Electric Cable Company at Bridgeport, Conn., the company is filling orders under the heavy handicap. It was stated at the office of the company, 17 Battery pl, that the officers were only awaiting the adjustment of the insurance to proceed with rebuilding on a larger scale. A number of the machines were destroyed and these will have to be replaced. It is very probabl that the company will rebuild on the old site. The fire occurred in the middle of what is always the busiest season of the company, but despite the great damage done the orders are being filled to the satisfaction of patrons of the company.

THE WEEK.

There was more activity shown in the realty market during the past week than for some time past. Deals of importance were consummated and a more cheerful feeling prevails. The general opinion among brokers is that while the worst is over, still there will not be anything very startling develop in the field until after the Presidential nominations. Intending purchasers have in many instances postponed buying property, and undoubtedly by the time they make up their minds to do so, prices will have materially advanced.

Business was nicely distributed. All sections came in for their share of sales reported. The 5-sty brick and loft building 83 Mercer st was sold to the Etagloc Holding Co. This property was purchased by the present seller and the deed recorded last week. A row of buildings between Broadway and 6th av on the north side of 25th st changed hands. The old buildings are going to be razed and an 11-sty and basement fireproof loft and store building erected. A plot 59x100 was disposed of on 5th av between 17th and 18th sts. A 12-sty mercantile structure is going to be built. This deal involves about $700,000. Washington Heights is still prominent in the trading.

A rather interesting sale consummated during the past week was that of an apartment in the Central Park Studio Building. The price reported is said to show the seller a substantial profit. There has been much said about these co-operative apartment houses. Many claim that apartments once purchased, are almost impossible to dispose of. On the other hand, there are many stanch supporters of this class of investment.

The St. Regis in The Bronx was sold to Max E. Bernheimer. This is probably the show apartment house in that borough. The apartments range from four rooms and bath to ten rooms and two baths, renting from $32 to $100 a month. There were many wiseacres who sadly shook their heads when they found out that a building of this character was contemplated for erection. They did not possibly see how an investment of this kind could be a success in a locality in which lots could be obtained as cheaply as $4,000. However, almost before the completion of the building it was fully rented and since then there has hardly been a vacancy.

A large sale was concluded in West 116th st. Paterno Brothers bought the block front on the north side, between Claremont av and Riverside Drive. Two 12-sty apartment houses are going to be erected by them. It is claimed that they will have every modern improvement.

"The realty market is still quiet," said David A. Clarkson, President of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, "though there has been some improvement shown lately. I do not look for any great activity this spring. In fact, I think the market will remain in its present condition until after the Presidential nomination. Money must first get easy. All signs are pointing that way now."

The principal loan negotiated during the week just past was on the Fifth Avenue Hotel property, 23rd st and 5th av. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. loaned the Fifth Av Building Co. $6,500,000. A new 14-sty structure is to be built on the site. The 136 West 57th st Co. gave to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. a mortgage for $475,000 at 6 per cent., due May 1, 1912, on the property 134 to 140 West 57th st. This holding is 310 ft. east of 7th av and is 80x100 in size. Richard Sidenberg loaned $165,000 to Adin G. Pierce and Roswell F. Easton on the property 99 and 101 5th av, where a 12-sty store and loft building is to be erected. Mrs. Margaret O. Sage was again a loaner of money on bond and mortgage. The Welling (Charles H.) Co. borrowed $400,000 for two years at 5½ per cent on the property 170 5th av, on the southwest corner of 22d st, 20x120. This property also includes 2 West 22d st.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE results of the auction market during the week differed but slightly from those recorded in this paper during the past few months. The only noticeable difference was that several parcels were bought in by persons representing parties in interest. This is a good sign. It simply means that the money market is in a slightly easier state. A number of the offerings went to the various plaintiffs and several were withdrawn.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Tuesday No. 1952 2d av, a 5-sty tenement and store, 25x100, was knocked down to Louis B. Wasserstrom for $23,777. The amount due in this action was $4,540.56; taxes and other charges amounting to $451.20. The 4-sty dwelling, 148 East 46th st, 15x100, was sold to Peter J. Shields for $16,250. The amount due was $13,812.15. The taxes amount to about $207.89.

Among those properties to be offered during the ensuing week by Bryan L. Kennelly will be the 4½-sty American basement dwelling, 315 West 78th st, with a 3-sty butlers' pantry extension. There are 11 rooms in this house and three baths. The size of the house is 16x102.2. The American basement stone and brick dwelling 339 West 71st st, 16x100.5, will also be knocked down to the highest bidder. There are 11 rooms and two baths in this house, open plumbing and hardwood trim. The title is guaranteed and policies delivered free of cost to the purchaser. Another building to be disposed of is 60 West 98th st, the 5-sty and basement brick and stone apartment house, four rooms and bath to each apartment, steam heat, hot-water supply. This house has a frontage of 25 ft. and the depth of the lot is 100.11. The gross rents aggregate $4,080. There will be allowed to remain, at the option of the purchaser, 80 per cent on mortgage for four years, at 5 per cent.

At the stand of D. Phoenix Ingraham on Tuesday the plot on the southwest corner of Broadway and 170th st will be knocked down to the highest bidder. There are about nine lots in this parcel. It has a frontage of 111.8 on Broadway and 215 on 170th st. The terms of the sale are liberal, one of which stipulates that 80 per cent may remain on mortgage for two years, at 4½ per cent.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

"A" being the owner of a piece of property, authorizes "B" to lease his store. "B" secures a party and leases said store, at $900 rental for the first year, $900 for the second, and $1,200 for the third year. "A" gives tenant an option of two years at $1,200 rental per year. What amount of commission is "B" entitled to?

Answer.—The Board of Brokers' rate for leasing for a term of three years and upward, on gross rental, except by special agreement, is one per cent.

DEATH OF A BROKER.—William A. Martin, a well-known real estate broker, died suddenly Sunday morning. He lived at the Montana Apartments, 35 Mount Morris Park West. Mr. Martin suffered greatly from indigestion, and it was an acute attack which finally killed him. He was 61 years old. He leaves one son, William A. Martin, Jr. Mr. Martin was especially identified with the Harlem section. His office was located at 50 West 125th st. He has been in business in that section for thirty years. He was a Director of the Hamilton Bank and for many years President and Director of the Harlem Board of Commerce. The funeral was held at the Calvary Methodist Church, 129th st and 7th av, last Wednesday. The interment was at Greenwood Cemetery.

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST.

The following are excerpts of the minutes of the meeting of the Law Committee and the decision of the Board of Directors of the Allied Real Estate Interests relative to bills introduced in Albany, N. Y., affecting real estate:

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 775, PRINTED NO. 993.—Mr. COHALAN'S bill to relieve religious, charitable and benevolent institutions from assessments. This bill is in line with a number of others which have been opposed by this association. It is intended to relieve from assessments heretofore and hereafter levied upon property of such institutions while held, owned and used by them or held for their benefit. As to assessments heretofore levied the loss would fall upon the city. As to assessments hereafter levied it would impose a greater and inequitable burden upon others; while the institutions in both cases have had the benefit of the improvement. The principle of exemption from taxation is wrong. There is no reason why it should be extended so that there be exemption from assessments which add to the value of the holding.—OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1410, PRINTED NO. 1952.—Mr. GRADY'S bill dividing all assessments which shall equal or exceed 5 per cent. of the land value into 5 annual installments and providing that one of those installments shall be a lien 10 days after entry and the other 4 installments shall become liens annually. The city cannot afford to make public improvements and wait 5 years for reimbursement. The result will be that public improvements will be retarded and only the most necessary ones will be made. Moreover, the provisions making four-fifths of the assessment not a lien immediately after the assessment has been confirmed, but making separate annual liens for the installments, will lead to much injustice. Owners of property which have received the benefit of improvements will sell them so as to get the enhanced value, and impose upon purchasers the payment of the assessment.—OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 788, PRINTED NO. 1007.—Mr. FOELKER'S bill to repeal Section 83-a of the executive law. This is the section under which it is necessary that in counties where there is a Register notaries must file their autograph signatures and certificate of appointment with the Register before he is authorized to accept for record deeds acknowledged before such notaries. The provisions of this section of the executive law have been found faulty and not to add much to the safety of conveyancing. The necessity for looking up the signatures of the notaries upon every instrument offered for record in the Register's office in the metropolitan counties before accepting the instruments has resulted in very considerable delay, and it is no real safeguard, because an instrument acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds is recorded even though the Register has no copy of his certificate or sample of his autograph signature. The legislation of last year on this subject was ill considered and hasty. Chap. 207 was so defective that it had to be amended by Chap. 559. The bill to repeal should be supported. If it is desired to provide substituted legislation upon the subject it would be simple enough to require that when notaries and commissioners qualify, they leave with the County Clerk an autograph signature upon a card which could be transmitted by the County Clerk to the office of the Register. This would give the necessary safeguard, for then the Register need not hold up the deed when offered for record, but can compare the signature at his leisure and if there be any question, call for explanation. It is not clear that the bill as drawn repeals Section 83-a as amended by Chap. 559 of the law of 1907. This should be covered.—APPROVED.

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 787, PRINTED NO. 1006; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1414, PRINTED NO. 1956.—Messrs. FOELKER'S and C. F. MURPHY'S bill by which it is intended to put upon the city claims for damages for loss of business by reason of and during the construction of subways in the city of New York. While it is true that some persons have suffered serious damage and loss by reason of the construction of subways in such manner as to impede traffic on public streets, to provide that the city shall now compensate for these uncontemplated past damages would impose a very considerable obligation and make the cost of the subway very much more than was ever contemplated. To establish the principle that the city may be made liable for such consequential damages would lead to the assertion of claims for every kind of temporary interruption of traffic or damage to business. Where the establishment of such a principle would lead it is impossible to say.—OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 813, PRINTED NO. 1052; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1450, PRINTED NO. 2002.—Messrs. RAMPSBERGER'S and WEIMART'S bill to amend the insurance law in relation to deposit of securities by insurance companies. Insurance corporations are now permitted to make their deposits with the State Superintendent in bonds of the United States, of this State, or in bonds of counties or incorporated cities and in bonds and mortgages on improved, unincumbered real property. The object of this bill is to provide that of every deposit made after Oct. 1, 1908, at least one-half shall consist of outstanding bonds of the State. This is an attempt to force the market for state bonds, which it would appear is against the interests of the State. Real estate interests are particularly interested because it will take out of the real estate market moneys now invested by insurance companies in real estate mortgages which are deposited with the Superintendent and forces the investment of State money in such bonds.—OPPOSED.

SENATE BILL, INT. NO. 821, PRINTED NO. 1073; ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1345, PRINTED NO. 1776.—Messrs. CASSIDY'S and E. J. STALEY'S bill in relation to passenger elevators, requiring that all elevators except those in private residences have safety automatic locking devices. Such devices are unnecessary. There have been few or no accidents which would be avoided by the use of such devices, but they retard the running of elevators in such manner as to be quite appreciable in large buildings.—OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLY BILL, INT. NO. 1056, PRINTED NO. 1884.—Mr. C. F. MURPHY'S bill to amend Subd. 12 of Section 2732 of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to administration of personal property. This subdivision provides that in the distribution of the estates of intestates no representation shall be admitted among collaterals after the descendants of brothers and sisters. The object of the amendment seems to be to make the rule different when the decedent leaves real property than when the decedent leaves no real property. It is difficult to understand how the administrator will know which rule applies when making distribution, as he has nothing to do with the real property, and it does not come into his possession. The bill seems to be poorly considered.—OPPOSED.

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS DEVELOPMENT.

MANY CORNERS DISPOSED OF AND LARGE BUILDING OPERATIONS CONTEMPLATED.

Washington Heights has been prominently before the real estate community since the first of the year. Many deals of importance have been consummated during that period. At first it was thought simply to be a spasmodic movement, but as time went on instead of a recession more activity developed. Property that has been disposed of, in the majority of cases, has fallen into good substantial hands.

Some years ago it was the hope of the inhabitants of this district that this section of Manhattan would be restricted to private dwellings. In fact many blocks were so restricted. But one by one these have been lifted, and to-day there are hardly any that remain operative. Henry Morgenthau and the late Charles T. Barney stated their intention of restricting certain of their holdings for private residential purposes. A section of Convent av, near Hamilton Grange, is also to be devoted to that class of building. This last named avenue has a very binding clause, which excludes everything except a strictly first-class private residence. The south side of 152d st, between Amsterdam av, Broadway was also to be devoted to buildings of this character. A few years ago there were a number of handsome residences on this block occupying six to eight lots each. These have been torn down and apartments of five and six stories in height built. It has entirely changed the nature of the street, so much so that any one visiting that part after an absence of a couple of years would not find many familiar landmarks. The building of the Riverside Drive extension has also had great effect on the abutting property. The grades of many of the streets have been altered and improved. Where formerly was a hill the strongest. Many sales of importance have been consummated during this period. The Record and Guide in its issue of March 7 gave a list of the principal sales consummated in this section from the first of the year to that date. Since that time there has not been any recession in the demand. Not only are there inquiries for large plots and prominent corners, but there is a constantly growing demand for small pieces for investment. The 6-sty apartment house on the southeast corner of Broadway and 159th st, 99.11x125, was put in a trade. In part payment twelve lots were given, situated on the northeast corner of Fort Washington av and 180th st. These lots are going to be improved immediately with a 6-sty elevator apartment house. The vacant lot, 100x100, on the southeast corner of 147th st and Broadway, also changed hands. If the present intention is carried out a 6-sty elevator apartment house will shortly be erected. The block front on the west side of Broadway, between 152d and 153d sts, 200x125, was sold. The new 6-sty elevator house, which was finished last May, on the northwest corner of 136th st and Broadway, 100x99.11, went into the hands of an investor.

SALES ON THE DRIVE.

Riverside Drive came in for some sales as well as Broadway. On the northeast corner of the drive and 136th st, a 9-sty apartment is going to be erected by the new owner. A plot of about 5½ lots on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 138th st also changed hands. This plot has a frontage of 100 feet on the drive and about 132 feet on the side street. An elevator apartment structure will soon be built. The "Audubon," on the southeast corner of Broadway and 156th st, 99.11x100, was also sold. This property has been held at $325,000. In part payment a vacant plot on the southwest corner of Fort Washington av and 170th st was given. The southwest corner of Broadway and 162d st, 97.6x100, was purchased by Henry T. Bulman. The 6-sty house 540 and 542 so steep as to be practically impassable for vehicles, now it is only a gentle slope. Manifestly this has added to the value of the lots, though much complaint was heard a short time since from the owners of property who had visions of heavy assessments.

ON THE EAST SIDE.

The photograph printed herewith is that section of the Heights looking northward from 139th st. On the extreme right of the picture is the "Sulgrave," a 6-sty apartment house on a lot 99.11x100. It is built to a depth of 90 ft., and known by the street numbers 3420 to 3428 Broadway. It was built by the George L. Walker Co., 156 5th av, in 1905, at a cost stated to be $175,000. Adjoining on the north is a vacant plot, 99.11x100, purchased by Babette Reckendorfer on Feb. 25, 1891. The northeast corner of 140th st is occupied by a 7-sty structure built 90 ft. deep on a plot 99.11x100. This property was acquired by Leopold Wolfson on May 18, 1907, subject to a mortgage of $170,000, from the Interborough Building Co. There is also a 7-sty house on the southeast corner of 141st st, which is on a lot 99.11x70.

OVERLOOKING THE HUDSON.

On the other side of the photo is shown at the extreme left hand corner "Palisade Court," a 6-sty apartment house, 99.11x75. This structure is built with a centre court and has a depth of 90 ft. on the avenue. August Schierloh bought this property on April 26, 1907, from the Crystal Realty and Construction Co., subject to a mortgage of $70,000. The southwest corner of 140th st is occupied by a 6-sty house, 99.11x75. The building has a front court. It was bought by Estelle F. Taylor on Nov. 16, 1907, and is mortgaged for $130,000. The block front between 140th and 141st sts was recently purchased by Levi P. Morton. This parcel is improved with two 6-sty elevator houses, having ten apartments on a floor. The southwest corner of 142d st is occupied by a 6-sty high-class apartment house known as Colonial Court. The size of the plot is 99.11x100, and the building goes to a depth of 90 ft. The Simax Realty Co. purchased this property from Elias Gussaroff on Feb. 7, 1908, subject to a mortgage of $170,000.

This section, which up to a few weeks ago was considered the weakest spot in the realty market, has developed into about West 146th st, 75x99.11, was sold for approximately $150,000. The rents aggregate about $17,000. The house located on the southwest corner of Hamilton pl and 144th st was also disposed of at private sale. This and the adjoining properties were sold to the plaintiff recently at foreclosure for $821,510. Since then two of the houses have been disposed of. The size of the one just purchased is 108x125x99.11x82.

INFLUENCING FACTORS.

There have been several influences at work on Broadway in this section. It has been in a transition state. The builders have only just now finished their work, and are certainly gratified with the ready market that has presented itself. The appearance of the avenue has been greatly improved by the completion of the paving. The parkway in the centre of the street has also greatly enhanced its beauty. This particular part of the avenue is a busy thoroughfare. At the present time the carriage traffic comes from the drive into Broadway at 135th st and continues up this avenue until 156th st is reached, where it goes west and up the extension of the drive, formerly known as Lafayette boulevard. There is another reason for its popularity. It is easy of access. The subway stations are at 137th 145th and 157th sts, so this section is brought within easy reach of the lower city. In the accompanying picture the ventilator of this system can be seen.

IN TRANSITION STATE.

Not long ago Washington Heights was considered in the light of a suburb. This day has passed. It is now purely and simply a home section. In the course of a few years many notable changes will be made. In anticipation of this Thomas Healy, a prominent restaurant man, leased the southwest corner of Broadway and 145th st for 21 years. This plot is owned by Adolph Lewison, and is 100x100 in size. A 2-sty structture is going to be erected on the site. Mr. Healy's object was to acquire this prominent corner with the ultimate idea in mind of opening a first-class restaurant, should conditions warrant the expenditure of the necessary amount. His brother has leased a plot a few blocks further down. There are many small families who do light housekeeping, and it is felt that should a first-class restaurant be opened, with moderate prices, that it would be an instantaneous sucess. Undoubtedly before very long this will be an assured fact.

Real Estate Directory

To Our Subscribers:

After consultation with a great many representative real estate men, we have been forced to the conclusion that September the first is the only logical time to issue the Real Estate Directory. This is obvious. It is the beginning of the active season and the Directory should be freshest at that time. We have therefore yielded to this demand, and at great additional expense to us will bring out two books in 1908. About April 20th, we will issue the Supplement for 1907, bound in cloth, and containing all the Conveyances for 1907, with the addresses of the purchasers and about 5000 corrections of addresses which we have made during the year. On or about September 1st, the Real Estate Directory for 1908 will be issued, thoroughly revised from beginning to end, all of the addresses carefully verified wherever possible, and handsomely bound. This will be many times the most valuable book of owners' names ever issued.

It will be the first Real Estate Directory issued since the consolidation with the Record and Guide. This is a guarantee of its excellence.

NEW AND DISTINCTIVE FEATURES

I. Stated considerations, beginning with January 1st, 1908, when given in the Record and Guide, will be so indicated in the geographical classification. This will be added to each year, and will be a most valuable improvement.

II. Full description of all tenements, flats and apartment houses, giving number of apartments, rooms and improvements.

III. Classification by street numbers, obviating the reference to a map.

IV. Alphabetical classification, giving list of property held by each owner.

V. Weekly reports of conveyances.

VI. Weekly reports of property left by will.

VII. Channel through which mortgage money comes.

VIII. The automatic Checking Index, which does away with the labor of posting transfers.

WHY THE BEST SERVICE IS THE CHEAPEST

The nature of the service is such that absolute perfection is impossible. This is clear to any experienced man. Suppose you should want only 2000 owners and addresses in a year. The Real Estate Directory will give you this information correctly as to owners in 99% of the cases, and as to addresses over 95% of them. A service costing 40% less will contain 40% more errors and omissions; or, out of 2000 cases, 650 wild goose chases for you. Figure out how much time and car fare would be lost, and you will see our $100 price is cheaper than a cheap service, even if that costs you nothing.

WHO'S WHO IN REAL ESTATE—VIII.

Joseph P. Day has been in recent years specially prominent in the department of sales of real estate by auction. He was the auctioneer in the Ogden Estate Sale, comprising 1,500 lots in the West Bronx, between Highbridge and Washington Bridge. This was a four-days' sale and the largest absolute partition sale of city real estate of improved lots in the history of the country. Also, he was the auctioneer of the Doherty estate holdings, which brought $1,913,600 in a single afternoon's selling; comprising property on Broadway and on 8th av, Manhattan.

JOSEPH P. DAY.

The sales conducted by Mr. Day during the past year have aggregated over thirty million dollars. This is by far the largest amount of property that has ever been sold in one year. He is the author of a real estate advertising booklet, "Brain Impressions."

Besides conducting real estate auction sales, he also sells stocks and bonds at auction, and has charge of many executor's sales and appraisals, and other matters pertaining to New York real estate. The Corporation Counsel, representing the City of New York, has frequently called him to testify in reference to appraisals of value of real estate. He was recently appointed one of the permanent receivers of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. on the application of Attorney General Jackson. The life insurance company was dissolved by the order of the court. It will be remembered that Judge Ward appointed Archibald D. Haynes, William H. Russell and Charles E. Rushmore as federal receivers.

Mr. Day is a member of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York, the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association of New York City, the Association of the Bronx Real Estate Brokers, the Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York, the Long Island Real Estate Exchange, the Queens Borough Real Estate Exchange and the Real Estate Brokers' Exchange of Newark and vicinity; and is a director in the New Jersey and New York Real Estate Exchange. He is the Treasurer of the Society of Tammany is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and is also a director and Vice-president of Suydenham Hospital. He is a member of the Manhattan, New York Athletic Club, Democratic, Hardware, Railroad, Machinery and City Lunch Club of New York City and the Canoe Brook Country Club of Summit, New Jersey.

SURVEYING A CITY LOT.

THERE are two kinds of city surveys: one being for a description, the other from a description. The first is made for example, when an owner wishes to sell a certain plot of uncertain dimensions, or a portion of a piece of property, and requires a description to be incorporated in the deed. The second case is where it is necessary to locate on the ground a property that has been already described.

The original survey, or the first survey, of a piece of land entails less responsibility, as a general thing, and requires much less skill on the part of the surveyor than the subsequent ones, and in city work there is seldom occasion for making it. The bulk of the work is done to insure one or more of the parties in interest against risk. The principal risks are that in the transfer some parcel or strip be left out of the conveyance, or that the grantor may attempt to convey more property than he can guarantee possession of. There are also surveys to establish the boundaries of a property that is to be built upon, or to locate streets and public improvements, and for the estimation of area.

Eliminating from our consideration the special cases that rarely occur in city work and that call for measurements from known points, the work of the city surveyor is at once a science and an art; a science so far as he is obliged to make his measurements with precision, an art when he must translate old and generally inaccurate and inexact descriptions into up-to-date figures and language that is not susceptible of misconstruction. He must, or rather should, have a working knowledge of the law pertaining to realty transfers, he must be familiar with the methods of making measurements and be able to estimate the "probable error," and he should have a rare common sense, for he will be obliged to reconcile discrepancies between measurements and discriminate between "errors" and "blunders," and, finally, he cannot hold two ends of a tape at once and is responsible for the work of his subordinates. The man who comes up to these specifications is of exceptional skill and training, which accounts for the large number of unsatisfactory surveys that come to light. Bad work in this business is often not discovered until many years have elapsed, and when the cost of rectifying the errors has been multiplied many times.

The problem of re-locating a piece of property from its description is in substance to reproduce upon the ground the points of intersection of the lines that were laid off by the original surveyor, taking into consideration the "personal equation" of the man, the changes that time has brought to the methods of measurement, the possible variations in the positions of monuments, and the peculiarities of the ground.

In the transfer of a city lot, the description will give the dimensions of the lot, its frontage on some street or avenue, and its distance from some intersecting street. The first thing to be done in surveying the property will be to establish the lines of the two or more streets mentioned in the description and then to measure the required distances along these lines. In the development of a city many of the intersection points of new streets are monumented shortly after the streets are laid out, but after years of traffic and building operations, these monuments become destroyed or moved, so as themselves to be useless as landmarks. Dependence then has to be made upon "reference points," which are objects such as corners of buildings at known positions relative to the original locations of the monuments. It is these reference points and their distances from established lines that form the stock in trade of the city surveyor, without which he is at a great disadvantage in competition, and by means of which he is enabled to very rapidly locate a street corner. The reference notes of an office are jealously guarded, and in such a city as New York are a very valuable asset.

Their value is also rather over appreciated, if anything, by the majority of surveyors, with the result that frequently too much reliance is placed on these alone, without a thorough gathering of all the evidence obtainable. Then there is a complication that frequently arises when streets have not been laid out with exactness. A city block of 200 feet should contain eight lots of 25 feet width each, but it frequently happens that the block, according to established marks, is too long or too short, while each owner's deed entitles him to just 25 feet. If a block be too short, and all the lots are surveyed and built upon by measurement from one end or the other, the last man to have his lot surveyed will find that he is paying for the entire discrepancy, and he is fairly certain to make trouble for most of his neighbors. Corresponding difficulties with much less trouble arise when the block is too long. In these cases it behooves the surveyor to measure the entire block, and many of the structures on the lots, in order to apportion the errors. This apportionment of errors, or discrepancies, is of large responsibility and needs the maximum of ability on the surveyor's part. It is more frequently bungled than any other department of the work.

The active operations of making and recording the measurements are interesting, but an adequate description of them is beyond the scope of this paper. A specification of the requirements of a good series of measurements with a 50-foot steel tape will perhaps give some idea of the character of the work. This would be somewhat like the following:

1. The "rear" end of the tape must be held exactly where the "head" end was on the previous application.
2. The two ends of the tape must be at the same level.
3. The tape must not be distorted by the wind.
4. Variations in length of the tape due to expansion and contraction from heat or cold must be compensated for, which means that a thermometer in a case that will absorb heat at about the same rate as the tape itself must be read at intervals, and the temperature noted.
5. The tape must not be subjected to rapid heating and cooling, or it would be impossible to estimate correctly the probable effect of heat or cold. This condition is often secured on delicate surveys by doing the work on a cloudy day or at night.
6. The tape must be stretched to the proper tension or "pull," which is read usually upon a spring balance attached to one end of the tape.
7. All measurements must be reduced to the horizontal.
8. Wherever plumb bobs are used they must be protected from the effect of wind, and no readings are to be taken with a swinging bob.

If it be appreciated that often one end of a line is on the sidewalk while the other is a hundred or so feet up on a roof and in the wind, it will at once be clear that this sort of work calls for the services of an artist and a mathematician.

Finally, the surveyor's compensation may be of interest. On ordinary lot surveys in New York City, the usual fee is ten dollars. This includes the field work of the survey and a little tracing showing the walls, fences, etc., and the amounts of the encroachments. Three field men and a draftsman, if they belong to an office well provided with "reference points" can average about six ordinary lot surveys and maps per day.

The charges for salaries, allowing 33% for rainy days and bad bills are about $15, and materials, instruments and drawing room will average $1.50 more, leaving a net profit of $23.50 per working day to pay for supervision and interest on the investment. Assume 200 working days per year, and we have profits of $4,700 per year. During the last real estate boom, at least one of the city surveyors of New York had over five field corps busy practically all of the time.

The apartments vary from four rooms and bath to ten rooms and two baths. The trim is red and curly birch, Flemish oak and hazel. The kitchens are equipped with glass-lined refrigerators and ventilated garbage receptacles. There are 32 apartments in the building. The rents range from $32 to $100 a month. Many people thought a building of this character in the Bronx would end disastrously for those who invested their money in the project. Much surprise was expressed when it was learned that the Republic of Panama took a first mortgage on the property. It has been held at $300,000.

PROGRESS OF A NEW COMPANY.

The Water Supervision Co. is entering upon its second year and reports splendid progress. It has recently closed contracts with the John Jacob Astor Estate and the Waldorf-Astoria and others of magnitude are pending. It seems almost unbelievable that owners of property should not want to know how much water they consume each and every month. The Water Supervision Co., in a few years, will be in the same position as the Telephone Co., when people will be asking themselves how they ever got along without it.

EVERYTHING FOR THE HOME.

HOME SHOW AT THE GRAND CENTRAL PALACE.

Real estate operators in New York City, Brooklyn, Long Island, Staten Island and New Jersey will be particularly interested in the Home Show which is to be held at the Grand Central Palace from May 2 to May 9, inclusive. A large part of the immense floor space at the Palace will be given over to the exploitation of various large tracts that are being developed in the city and in the nearby suburbs. Moreover, there will be so many exhibits of material used in the construction and exterior and interior decorations of the home that an appeal will be made to the large number of New Yorkers who are seeking locations on which to build.

The Home Show, the exhibition to include any conceivable article for building and furnishing the home, is practically illimitable in its call. It should draw not only the owners of houses in city and suburbs, but prospective owners, holders of building lots, even renters who seek to improve their living conditions and add to the conveniences of the houses.

"Everything for the home" is a big order, and it looks as though several floors of the Grand Central Palace would have to be used in order to carry it out. From the real estate man who desires to exploit the advantages of a particular location where lots are offered up by way of architects, builders, inventors of heating and ventilating apparatus, to the furnisher and decorator of the completed home, the list is necessarily a long one. Recent years have witnessed the arrival of innumerable accessories for comfort and convenience which were utterly unknown to the last generation. Moreover, the demand for such convenience and small luxuries was never so great as it is at the present time.

The number of exhibitors that they have space reserved for at this early date is over 80, totaling nearly 15,000 sq. ft. of space. (For other particulars see advertisement in another column.)

FUTURE OF THE GREAT WEST SIDE.

Most New Yorkers have an appreciation for the West Side. Families moving here from other American cities look in that section first to find apartments. The Tribune says it seems to be the consensus of opinion in realty circles that no other city in the world boasts of a residential district which equals in area, in the character of its apartment houses, flat houses and dwelling houses and in natural and other forms of attractiveness the great West Side section of this city.

In the dullest realty days of the last four months the West Side not only appeared to be, but was, the most active part of the entire real estate field and the most fascinating district to the majority of investors, operators and builders who are financially strong enough to deal in high-class residential property. Throughout the most trying days, too, when the market was being severely tested, values in the section were as steady as bed rock, and this revelation of the strength of its values will be long remembered after the present school of operators and investors is gone.

While this district is frequently referred to as one of the older parts of the city, which usually leads a person to think it was a thickly populated district in the 60's or 70's, it has practically been transformed from a sparsely settled residential zone to its present state of grandeur in the last thirty years. And how much greater will it be thirty years hence? One of the most farsighted realty leaders has prophesied that apartment houses and hotels will undoubtedly be constructed there within the next twenty years which in size, structural strength, architectural beauty and cost will surpass the largest apartment house or apartment hotel project ever carried out in this city.

IMPROVING ERIE TERMINAL.—The work on the Erie terminal is well under way and when completed will add much to the comfort of the commuters. At present through the tunnel there are only two tracks. These are inadequate. The main trouble is that nearly all the traffic is inbound in the morning and outward bound in the evening. The new improvements include, among other things, four tracks through Bergen Hill. Three of these four tracks will be used in the morning for the benefit of those coming to the city and in the evening the order of things will be reversed. When the McAdoo tunnel is completed much time will be saved in crossing the river.

THE GREAT WORK OF THE RECORD AND GUIDE.—In no city in the world is the real estate man so well supplied with absolutely necessary information as in New York. For nearly forty years the Record and Guide has been the mainspring of realty office machinery, and it has raised the business to the dignity of a profession. This has been made possible by records. A man with adequate records KNOWS. He does not have to guess.

REALTY LEAGUE MEETING.—A special meetitng of the board of directors of the Realty League was held at Hotel Astor on April 10. Many matters of interest to property owners were discussed and resolutions were adopted opposing the passage of Senate Bill 968 in reference to the amendment of the Greater New York charter, relative to inspection of boilers and engines and the qualification and licensing of engineers. Resolutions were also adopted in opposition to the passage of Assembly Bill 1169, being an act to amend the Greater New York charter in relation to the supply of water by meters. The directors placed themselves on record as favoring the passage of an act to amend Chapter 683, Laws of 1892, relating to notaries public.

WHERE YOUR CUSTOMER BUYS.—If you intend to approach a possible purchaser, it is well to know where else he owns property. This is given in the property owners' list of the Real Estate Directory.

PLAIN SAILING.

It is expected that the Board of Estimate will shortly act in the matter of widening the roadway of Fifth av north of 59th st, since more than one-half of the 188 property owners served by the Corporation Counsel have already signified their willingness to comply with the mandate requiring them to remove such projections and vaults as may be necessary.

In its agreement with the property owners the city stipulates that it will refrain from commencing any proceedings to remove encroachments until after the first of January, 1909, and the owners of property affected likewise agree at any time after that date to remove encroachments so far as may be necessary to permit of the proposed widening.

The entire width of Fifth av is 100 feet, the roadway being 40 ft. and the sidewalks 30 ft. wide. The plan is to set back the curb 7½ ft. on each side and that all obstructing encroachments upon the sidewalks be removed. In this connection, the City's Chief Engineer is of the opinion that the proposition for widening the roadway as mentioned, including the restriction of all projections to at least 2½ ft. from the property line, will be satisfactory and should be carried out.

VAULTS MAY REMAIN.

With respect to the vaults, Engineer Geo. W. Tillson in a recent communication to the Commissioner of Public Works says: "Wherever vaults project at the corners of the streets the vault walls should be cut across the corner so that the new basins can be built at the corners outside of the vault. In regard to the vaults themselves, I see no reason why they should not continue for their present size under the widened roadway, provided that the roof of the vault shall be made strong enough to sustain the traffic of the street and kept down to a depth of about three feet below grade in order to provide for any subsurface construction, if necessary. The connections from the different subsurface structures, etc., can be continued in the vaults, the same as at present, and the continuation of the connections to the electric lampposts on the street can be accommodated in the vault at comparatively little expense and inconvenience to the property owners. If, therefore, the property owners agree to make the satisfactory roof to their vaults, as indicated above, and provide for the expense of making all necessary connections, I see no reason why the vaults should not be allowed under the roadway."

In alluding to the proceedings, Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward Maxson asserted that notices have been served upon all owners of property from 26th st to 47th st, and that so far it has been found unnecessary to institute suits.

Among those who will likely be required to remove large encroachments are the Hotel St. Regis, which maintains an elevated courtyard extending out 15 ft.; St. Thomas Church, Union Club, Waldorf-Astoria and others.

DISCOURAGES PRIVATE SEWER WORK.

A recent report of the chief engineer and acting superintendent of sewers shows that there was constructed in Manhattan during 1907 6.09 miles of sewers and 80 receiving basins. New sewers paid for by assessments equaled in length 2.85 miles; alteration and improvement to sewers paid by assessment, 1.18 miles; repairs and reconstruction, 71 miles; new sewers built by private parties under permit from the bureau, 1.35 miles. Of the receiving basins, 68 were new and 12 were reconstructed. All told, there are 517.97 miles of sewers and 6,271 receiving basins in the borough's system.

The chief engineer discourages private construction in the building of sewers, and argues that when such permits are granted, although the conditions imposed, so far as possible, safeguard the city's interest, in the nature of such work, it does not in all instances conform with the standard conditions required by the city, and when the work is completed and passed over, only flagrant deficiencies would justify the tearing up and rebuilding of such improvements. In this manner, he asserts, the city often becomes charged to maintain sewers which might possibly prove a source of trouble in the future.

INADEQUATE SUBWAY SERVICE.—As a result of the complaints of residents and property owners in the Kingsbridge section with respect to the inadequate train service on the Broadway subway, the Public Service Commission has fixed a public hearing on the matter for April 22. Recently, the Commission adopted an order calling upon the Interborough Company to show cause why all the express trains on the Broadway division now running only to Dyckman st should not be run through to Kingsbridge station, at 230th st. The order likewise covers complaints that local trains on that division now running only as far as 137th st, should make through runs to Dyckman st. It is maintained by real estate men that this unnecessary crowding of cars is one of the chief deterrents to the rapid upbuilding of the territory affected. It is understood that the Commission's consulting engineer will shortly report on the capacity of the present underground road and the means to enlarge it. One of the suggestions of importance is a plan to double-deck the tracks at stations thereby permitting two trains moving in the same direction to stand at the station at the same time.

NEW PUMPING STATION NECESSARY.

More than a score of representatives of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th Wards met by appointment on Monday at the office of Comptroller Metz to urge that official to lend assistance in securing an adequate water pumping station of high pressure upon the city's land at 90th to 91st sts, east of Av A, to supply not only the 19th Ward high hills from 72d to 85th sts, but adjacent sections as well.

In a petition presented to Mr. Metz by Chairman Chas. H. Schnelle, of the Committee on Law and Legislation, 400 property owners complain of the scarcity of water on the Upper East Side. It is addressed to the Board of Estimate and reads as follows:

We, the undersigned, residents and owners of real estate situated in in the 19th Ward, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, do hereby respectfully petition your honorable board to authorize the appropriation of funds sufficient for the construction and maintenance of a high pressure service pumping station in the 19th Ward, preferably on a portion of the land now owned by the city, situated along the East River, between 90th and 91st sts, in this city.

The scarcity of water in the said neighborhood is so alarming as to be a menace to the health and comfort of the people, and it is absolutely essential that a more abundant supply of water be furnished without delay.

In its brief to the Comptroller the Committee argues that in the event of the erection of the proposed plant within the limits mentioned, the present 4-ft main at Second av and 91st st can act as a supply and discharge pipe, or a supply taken from the large reservoir of the Park and a discharge main pipe from the pumps to connect with the several avenue 12-in. mains, would supply the affected section at a cost approaching $150,000.

EXPOSITION OF SAFETY DEVICES.

The Exposition of Safety Devices and Hygiene opened on April 13 in the McGraw Building, 231 West 39th st. There are a number of interesting exhibits shown, and it will be well worth a person's while to go and look them over. Many useful devices are on exhibition not only to real estate owners but also to tenants. For example, a safety lamp is shown which will not explode when tipped upside down; lamps which if upset will right themselves; non-explosive heaters (oil) for which their inventors claim effect a reduction of about one-third in oil consumed. Fire detecting devices are also shown, safety gas cocks, automatic doors, metal-covered floor devices, automatic elevator safety lock, asbestos and magnesia materials, fireproof building materials, wire glass doors and windows and many other novelties. This is not in any way a money making exposition. No admission fee is charged.

CITY TO ACQUIRE CEMETERY.—At a recent meeting of the Bronx Local Boards a resolution was adopted initiating proceedings to acquire title to the old West Farms Cemetery. The matter was brought to a focus in response to a strong public sentiment in favor of preserving the graves of Civil War heroes interred in that burying-ground. Credit for the success of this movement is due Captain Baxter and the Joint Committee of Military and Civic Associations.

CLEANING STREETS AT NIGHT.—Street Cleaning Commissioner Crowell is going to make a change in the system of street cleaning. At the present time the streets in the financial district and some of the downtown thoroughfares are cleaned after nightfall. It is his intention to inaugurate this system in certain uptown streets. The lower and upper East Side and the lower West Side districts will also come in on the new schedule. This new arrangement will in no way interfere with the present daily schedule. This will be also continued. To carry on this additional work a force of 300 sweepers, 80 sweeping machines, 40 sprinklers and 150 carts will be used.

A POINT WORTH NOTING.—Quite frequently it is pecuniarily to the advantage of property owners to install modern steam heating plants in old buildings. Many instances are known in which owners have profited well by foresight in this direction. It would be well, however, before undertaking work of this character, to carefully calculate the total area of radiation in order to preclude the possibility of a mistake in securing the proper size plant. There are many approximate rules for obtaining the desired result; some are based upon exposed wall area, and others upon the cubic contents. Backed by practical experience, the following rule has given excellent results in ascertaining the square feet of steam radiation for a ground or first floor: Add together the square feet of exposed glass area, 25 per cent of the exposed wall area, and 4 per cent of the cubic feet of room volume, then take 30 per cent of this sum as the number of square feet of heating surface for that room. For rooms above the first floor, use 2 per cent of cubic contents of room instead of 4 per cent. Exposed wall area is defined by a well-known authority as any wall, ceiling or floor exposed to a temperature lower than that of the room.

The directors of the United States Realty Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. This is a reduction compared with 1½ per cent. three months ago. The dividend is payable May 1.

NEW YORK, October 4th, 1907,

GENTLEMEN: After your supervision of our Brooklyn property for a period of some months we are pleased to note the saving in the consumption of water, sometimes amounting to nearly 50 per cent.
